MISSIONARIES MURDERED.

Investigation Shows That Englishmen Were Slain in China.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The China Inland mission has received a report of the murders of the English missionaries, Bruce and Lewis, in August last at Chen-Chou-Fu in Ho-Nan province, from a missionary who investigated the crimes. The rioters posted placards urging the destruction of the chapel and the annihilation of the foreigners. Mr. Bruce sent a remonstrance to the local magistrate, who proceeded to the mission accompanied by troops, but he was too late.

Mr. Bruce had been murdered when the magistrate arrived there. Mr. Lewis was startled by a rock crashing into his study and he escaped to a neighboring house, the occupants of which thrust him out, the military force on duty at the yamen slammed the door in his face and he was murdered in the street. Of 30 persons arrested in connection with these crimes only two were beheaded.

QUAY AND DALZELL DEFINE THE REPUBLICAN POLICIES

State Chairman Reproached Allegheny County Machine for Betraying Delamater and Himself.

VERY LITTLE CONSOLATION FOR THE RING CANDIDATES

Hearty Reception from the Rank and File Extended to John Dalzell, "Next Speaker of the House," at Last Night's Big Meeting.

Senator Matthew Stanley Quay, chairman of the Republican state committee, came to Pittsburgh yesterday and at night addressed a mass meeting held in the interest of the Republican state ticket. It was a big meeting, for the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall was crowded, every seat down stairs and nearly every seat in the two balconies being taken.

Senator Quay was warmly greeted when he rose to make his speech, and if the applause was not so warm when he sat down, that might be explained by the fact that he bestowed no encomiums on the Pittsburgh machine, the organization that defeated a Republican candidate for governor nearly 20 years ago, and only two years since encompassed the senator's temporary defeat as a candidate for re-election to the United States senate, two misdeeds of the Allegheny county ring of which Senator Quay did not fail to remind his hearers. The real ovation of the evening was reserved for Congressman John Dalzell, who was the last speaker. He got a reception that any man could well feel proud over.

Made Machine Men Squirm.

It certainly did make part of the audience feel peculiar to see Senator Quay, the old Republican leader of national fame, whom the machine has abused and fought for years, standing there talking to the machine leaders in the audience as if he had forgotten that they had forfeited the right to be called Republicans. His academic dissertation on party regularity, while it will be interpreted today by the machine as advice to vote the machine's local ticket, made many in front of him, and even some of those on the stage behind him, squirm, for he reminded them of past party irregularity of their own.

But when the senator spoke of national issues there was loud applause; his utterances on state issues were also well received, for one object of the gathering, conceived by certain men, was to create in him the belief that the leaders of the machine are enthusiastically for the Republican state ticket. The secret promoters of the Ballot Reform party, which has Robert E. Pattison for its candidate for governor, applauded unblushingly the name of Pennypacker, while the referendum candidates for the legislature on the Ballot Reform ticket simpered with the thought that the tracks of their treachery were obliterated, like a flock of ostriches watching the back-track with their heads buried in the sand.

Support of State Ticket.

Yet, while Senator Quay, from his place on the stage, might have seen the insincerity in the countenances of not a few traitorous so-called Republicans, he could also distinguish the sincerity of many of the rank and file, who by their voices and actions demonstrated that the efforts of their leaders to induce them to stab the Republican state ticket by voting for the Ballot Reform party's state candidates had been rendered null and void, and that they would vote for Pennypacker despite the wiles of the machine.

Not to let the meeting get away from its moorings, support of the Republican state ticket, was a task that Senator Quay, Congressman John Dalzell and Dr. W. F. Wilson, director of the Commercial museum of Philadelphia, manfully upheld in their speeches. Of course James E. Burke could be depended upon to do the graceful (?) thing, and he, therefore, attacked the Citizens party, on whose ticket Congressman John Dalzell is an honored candidate, and abused Senator Quay's friends, whose only fault is that they refused a congressional nomination to one man anxious to get it, and that they are engaged in an effort to send to the legislature and to congress men who are true Republicans and who will not take orders from the machine.

Burke's Hearty Abuse.

Mr. Burke abused them right heartily, and his heart bled for Democracy. His voice trembled with emotion when he described the pass to which the Democratic party had been reduced by the Citizens party, which had given the Democracy 7 places out of 29 on the fusion ticket, when under ordinary circumstances the Democrats could get only one office, and that a county commissionership.

Congressman John Dalzell talked on national and state issues. He received a great ovation. His speech was practically the same one he has been delivering on a stumping tour in the state. He showed excellent reasons why the entire Republican state ticket should be elected.

The meeting was called to order by County Chairman A. C. Robertson, who made a few remarks and introduced City Recorder J. O. Brown, who presided over the meeting. Mr. Brown put in a few licks for the county ticket, and then introduced Senator Quay with these words:

Brown's Introduction of Quay.

"I now take great pleasure in presenting to this audience the senior senator from the state of Pennsylvania, the state chairman of the Republican party of the Keystone state—the Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay, who from the wealth of his great experience will state to you what constitutes Republicanism, why the whole Republican ticket, county as well as national and state, should be elected, and the absolute necessity of party regularity at this particular time."

Senator Quay, as he stepped forward, was warmly received. First stating that he was not an extemporaneous speaker, he produced a manuscript and began his speech. The first paragraph was the only consolation the machine got from the senator's entire speech, and his remarks on party regularity and his mention of occasions when the Allegheny county machine forgot party regularity, went home. The senator spoke as follows:

What Quay Had to Say.

The conditions in the Republican stronghold of Allegheny county are not happy. I remember the fable of the man who interfered in the battle between husband and wife, and if I were to pronounce upon the merit of your present controversy I would not be here. Always have I stood for party regularity. Always since the Republican party was organized I have voted a straight Republican ticket, and I am too old to change the habit now. Many of my best friends at times have disagreed with this policy, but generally I have found them dissatisfied in the end with the result of their experiment. In alliances with the Democratic party the Democrat always gets the oyster, the Republican gets the shell. Some gentlemen in Allegheny county in 1899 assisted to place Mr. Pattison in the gubernatorial chair and will remember the bitter repulses and disappointments they experienced at his hands. Within more recent years some of your people in the legislature became involved with the Democracy in a lockup of the United States senatorship at Harrisburg. Since then they have endured much buffeting, whilst the Democracy thrived and laughed and in alliance with the Citizens are now trying to defeat their re-election. I hope my friends in what is known as the Citizens party may do better than this, but fear they will do worse.

Warnings from the Northwest.

This is certain: The time has come when the Republicans of Pennsylvania for their own sakes must cease intestine strife and form a line of battle for resistance to the common enemy. We have recently seen the sheet lightning and heard the thunder of a coming storm in the Northwestern states. We have listened to the utterances of our brethren in Iowa, Wisconsin and elsewhere and have witnessed the dramatic and pathetic exit from public life of the distinguished speaker of the national house of representatives.

The tariff is the life of Pennsylvania. This great city is its creature, of which it is the vital and sustaining force. It is making this region near the forks of the Ohio a metropolis of industry, commerce and wealth which will shortly house a population of millions. Our present law represents a boundary well defined by actual experience within which prosperity must certainly dwell. Crossing that line we enter a region of experiment—a wilderness of doubt and danger.

The present tariff fulfills all national requirements and oppresses no person or interest. It needs no revision. Revision of the tariff means reduction of the tariff. Reduction of the tariff means reduction of the profits of the manufacturer. Reduction of the profits of the manufacturer means reduction of the wages of the laborer. Reduction of the wages of the laborer means loss of business to those who supply the laborer with the necessaries and comforts of life. And while revision progressed business would halt and tremble; for a change in our present duties having once begun, no one could predict its nature or extent or the time of its termination.

Opposed to Tariff Revision.

We in Pennsylvania are satisfied with existing conditions, and as to revision will have none. Agitators may cry "Revision! Revision!" but there will be no revision while Pennsylvania maintains her commanding position in the Republican party and nation; a position she can only maintain by absolute harmony in council and unity in action among her Republican voters.

The present campaign of the Democracy in Pennsylvania presents a spectacle unique in its effort to obliterate the evidence of the existence of that party and the memory of its misdeeds. Its orators clamor for a public discussion of state issues and state issues only, and confine themselves to the occurrence of a very few years past, occurrences in which their own people were active factors. They have no opinions upon the great national questions on which this country is divided and whose determination is of world-wide importance. They merely scold and defame public officials, befoul the reputation of the state which shelters them, bark at Quay and vouch for their own integrity. You have all heard their cries of agony evoked by the consciousness that their fellow men were so much worse than they. I need not recapitulate and I reply: It is false that any member of the late legislature was paid to vote for Mr. Marshall for the speakership of the house. If it is true, who was the member, who paid him and what was the amount paid?

Bribery Charges False.

It is false that any member of the senate or house of representatives was paid to vote for me for United States senator. If it is true, who was the person purchased, who paid the money and what was the amount paid?

It is false that I was elected by any coalition with Democrats. My majority of twelve included just one Democrat, who voted against my express wish.

It is false that the vote of a single delegate was purchased in the late Republican state convention. If it is true, who was the delegate. What was the amount paid, and who paid it? It will be remembered that the same charge was made by a distinguished and defeated candidate for governor before the Democratic state convention which met at Altoona in 1898 and nominated Mr. Jenks.

It is false that Samuel W. Pennypacker was my "self selected" candidate. There were two men in Pennsylvania who were absolutely hostile to the suggestion of Judge Pennypacker's name; one was Judge Pennypacker, the other was M. S. Quay. Nor it was very certain that the broad minded leaders of the opposition would make a personal campaign upon the ground that the great grandfather of Judge Pennypacker was the half brother of my grandmother, and the prospect was not pleasant, and Judge Pennypacker himself preferred the bench to the executive chair.

As to legislative corruption, there may be evil spirits in the legislature, as in all civic and military bodies, but to denounce a legislature as corrupt upon the newspaper assertion of the corruption of one or two of its members, is as equitable as to charge that the people of Pittsburgh are thieves because a thief has been arrested on your streets.

Challenge to Hensel.

I see that my friend Hensel has experienced a sudden attack of Quayphobia and that he is in travail with a case of corruption which will only be brought to light upon the challenge of Senator Penrose or Senator Quay. Whatever the case and whoever the criminal, I challenge Mr. Hensel to produce his charge, his specifications and his proof. If he does not, he fails in his duty to the public. The peripatetics of the opposition produce but three cases of alleged corruption at Harrisburg which they claim were fully established. First, there was the scandal of the Clarion Normal school. It was asserted that $2,500 had been paid to the legislature for an appropriation to that institution. I have seen no statement anywhere to establish that it had been actually paid, nor by whom nor to whom it was paid. The only members of the legislature named in its connection were ex-Senator Neeley and Representative Hoy of Clarion county, both of whom are Democrats. Mr. Hoy has been renominated and will, I presume, be re-elected by the Democrats of Clarion county.

It was alleged also by the same coterie of scandal mongers that a hideous case was made out against Mr. Harris, the present state treasurer. Investigation disclosed that Mr. Harris, when a member of the legislature went to Harrisburg, after the legislature had adjourned, at the request of the officers of a Cleveland county institution to represent them before the governor, and had rendered a bill for one or two hundred dollars for that

SOME TELLING POINTS IN THE SPEECH MADE BY SENATOR QUAY

The conditions in the Republican party in Allegheny county are not happy. I remember the fable of the man who interfered in the battle between husband and wife, and if I were to pronounce upon the merits of your present controversy, I would not be here.

The tariff is the life of Pennsylvania. This great city is its creature, of which it is the vital and sustaining force.

Agitators may cry, "Revision! Revision," but there will be no revision.

It is false that any member of the late legislature was paid to vote for Mr. Marshall as speaker.

It is false that any member of the senate or house of representatives was paid to vote for me for United States senator.

It is false that I was elected by any coalition with Democrats.

The state gives over $4 for the education of each pupil in her schools. Ohio gives $1.45, and is next to Pennsylvania. And with all this, Pennsylvania alone has placed no tax on her real estate.

Since 1863 the real estate in New York state has paid over $500,000,000 in taxes; in Pennsylvania it has paid practically nothing.

My own preference would be for a return to the old ballot law, which permitted every voter to write or print his own ticket in a form prescribed by law.

CAMP IS BOMBARDED BY STONE THROWERS

Fourteenth Regiment Men Finally Find Some People Other Than Hospitable.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MAHANOY CITY, PA., Oct. 24.—Military occupation of Gilberton has apparently not improved the situation there. During the night Companies B and G of the Fourteenth regiment, who are quartered in two Reading company houses near Gilberton colliery, were twice assailed from ambush with a volley of stones, in each instance the guards responded promptly, making a wide detour of the premises, but the darkness aided the perpetrators to escape, though several shots were fired after disappearing forms after the second attack. Neither bullets nor stones caused injury to any one.

Company G, Capt. Joseph Rissing, was ordered back to camp today, but will return to Gilberton on a special train tomorrow morning and relieve Company B, Capt. Easton, which has been there since last night.

Since the strike has been declared off and non-union workmen are returning to their homes, applications to Lieut. Col. Corbin for protection against dynamiters are becoming frequent. These applications will first be investigated before troops are sent. Capt. Cursler, with Company I, again guarded the residence of Frank Draper, on West Spruce street, this evening. A public school building, which is directly across the street from where the patrol has been established, was thrown open for the protection of the soldiers tonight. It is believed now that this command will be permanently stationed in that neighborhood.

All of the Philadelphia & Reading collieries in this district have opened, but none is working anywhere near its capacity. Shortly after the whistle blew 500 tons of nut and egg coal which had been stored in the breaker pockets were loaded into cars for immediate shipment.

John Davis, an aged fan runner at Maple Hill colliery, fell into the machinery tonight and was killed. This was his second day at work.

NEW BISHOP ELECTED.

Proposal of Independent Polish Catholic Church to Affiliate With Episcopal Church Indorsed.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—The Rev. Dr. Sheldon Munson Griswold, rector of Christ church, Hudson, N. Y., was today elected missionary bishop of Salina, the western district of Kansas, by the house of bishops.

After the election the house went into council to consider the question of the proposed affiliation of the Independent Polish Catholic church with the Episcopal church. A prolonged discussion of the question resulted in the adoption of a resolution that a committee of five bishops be appointed to consider and propose the terms of intercommunion and jurisprudence and report to the next meeting of the house of bishops.

The committee appointed consists of the bishops of Albany, Chicago, Western New York, Maryland and Central Pennsylvania.

FIFTEEN KILLED BY A HURRICANE

PARRY NOT OPPOSED TO UNIONS OF LABOR

But He Fights Vigorously the Eight-Hour Bill Pending in Congress.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—D. M. Parry said last night concerning the circular mailed by the National Manufacturers' association to all manufacturers of the country, urging them to fight the Gompers bill:

"The National Association of Manufacturers is not against organized labor. It is not opposed to organization among men. If capital has the right to organize, employes of capital have the same right. Organization is the basis of modern progress.

"The National Association of Manufacturers, however, is opposed to the absurd law proposed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, which punishes an employer to the extent of $5 a day for each and every employe who is permitted to work over eight hours per day.

"This bill has passed the lower branch of congress and is now pending in the United States senate. The bill, as analyzed, means that a manufacturer who makes toothpicks for the dining table of a battleship contracted for by the United States government shall be fined $5 each day for each employe who makes these toothpicks should he permit his employes to work over eight hours a day.

"The bill is so ridiculously absurd that it must be opposed by all men who desire the industrial prosperity of this country. If it is proper that men should be fined for working over eight hours a day in order that they may have time to improve their minds, if it shall be proved that if, instead of improving their minds, they spend their time in saloons, then it will also be proper to legislate that men should work 16 hours per day to keep them out of saloons."

WIFE KILLS HUSBAND AFTER FAMILY JAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—A special from Ottumwa, Ia., to the Sun says: Because her husband threw a bucket of water on her while she was asleep at her home at Jerome this morning, Mrs. John Krebs procured a shotgun and killed him. Mrs. Krebs had refused to get up to get breakfast. She is under arrest.

AMERICANS ARE BUYING DIAMONDS IN EUROPE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—A special cable to the Sun from Antwerp says: There have been large purchases of diamonds during the week for Russia and the United States. Values are increasing and a boom in the diamond market is expected.

Woodrow Wilson Gives Dinner.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—With the arrival of a large number of distinguished guests of the university today, the preliminary program of the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson, which will take place tomorrow, was begun. President and Mrs. Wilson entertained at dinner tonight.

Temple and Donovan Draw.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Michael Donovan of Rochester, N. Y., and Larry Temple of Cincinnati, fought six fast rounds to a draw at the Ariel A. C. tonight. Temple forced the fighting in four of the six rounds. This was evened up by the good defensive work of Donovan.

HOMEWARD MOVE OF TROOPS BEGUN

OTHERS TO FOLLOW

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24.—Maj.-Gen. Miller will begin tomorrow to withdraw the troops from the mining regions, and if the conditions continue as at present all of the soldiers may be recalled before election day, November 4.

Gov. Stone issued an order to Maj.-Gen. Miller today for the recall of the troops and the general immediately ordered home Batteries A of Philadelphia, B of Pittsburgh and C of Phoenixville.

The Twelfth regiment of Williamsport, which has been on duty since July 31, will be withdrawn tomorrow. The Fourth regiment of Allentown, the Eighth regiment and Governor's troop of Harrisburg will probably be sent home Sunday. With the exception of eight companies of the Fourth regiment all of these troops have been in the field since July.

The governor's order leaves the details governing the recall of the troops in the hands of Gen. Miller, who will retain headquarters at Pottsville, subject to the advice of Gov. Stone and Adjt.-Gen. Stewart. The governor said tonight that perhaps all of the troops would be recalled before the election, although it may be possible two or three regiments will be kept in the field until later.

The great expense of keeping the troops on duty and the additional expense and trouble of taking the votes of the men make a withdrawal before the election desirable. The First and Second brigades, which have been on duty only about two weeks, will be the last to be recalled. The governor says he cannot fix any arbitrary date for the completion of the withdrawal of the troops, the entire matter being subject to conditions, Gov. Stone's order says:

The purpose for which the division national guard of Pennsylvania was placed on duty in the several counties of the state embraced within what is known as the anthracite coal regions, having been accomplished, and peace and order having been restored in the several communities, and it being evident that the local civil authorities will be enabled to preserve the peace and give the necessary and proper protection to life and property, the major general commanding division national guard of Pennsylvania will relieve the troops now on duty and return the several organizations to their respective home rendezvous as promptly as conditions will permit.

SCHOOL TERRORIZED BY AN ARMED MANIAC

Kept Pupils in the Building While He Set Fire to the Structure.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., Oct. 24.—A maniac, with a desire to commit wholesale murder, yesterday attacked the Trout Run school, near Cedar Run, this county.

While the school was in session, Miss Scholl, the teacher, noticed a rough-looking individual running toward the building with a revolver in one hand and a dagger in the other. Instantly she locked the door.

He demanded admission, and when it was refused he discharged the revolver to terrorize the occupants. Finally he threatened to burn the building. He then began to batter down the door.

One of the larger pupils jumped out at a front window and secured assistance. When the farmers arrived on the scene they found the armed maniac standing in the open doorway, with his weapons ready for use, and one corner of the school building was on fire. As soon as he saw the approaching men he ran to the woods.

SCHWAB'S NEPHEW WALKS FOR HEALTH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—A special from Winsted, Conn., to the World says: Carrying a pedometer to measure his walks, which he says are taken with a view to restoring his health, Leo Schwab of New York, an employe of the American Tobacco Trust and nephew of Charles M. Schwab, is tramping through the Berkshire and Litchfield hills with his wife. The Schwabs arrived at Sheffield, by rail, and on Monday walked to Great Barrington. On Wednesday they left there afoot for the Litchfield hills.

TRAIN HELD UP, ENGINEER SLAIN

Lone Robber Rifles Express Car and Escapes With Booty.

DOGS ON HIS TRAIL

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 24.—An eastbound passenger train on the Northern Pacific was held up last night near Drummond, Mont., and Engineer Dan O'Neill was killed.

The train, which included mail, baggage and express cars and nine coaches, arrived at Missoula at 10:20 p. m., and proceeded eastward after a short delay. It arrived after midnight at a point two miles west of Drummond. Here the train was signalled to stop, and the engineer slowed up. While doing so he saw a man creeping toward him over the tender. The man, who was armed, called to O'Neill to stop the train instantly.

The engineer took in the situation at once, and, pulling open the throttle, tried to start the train at full speed. The robber divined his purpose and fired at him. The shot took instant effect and the engineer fell dead at his post. The fireman promptly stopped the train.

Rifles Express Car.

The robber then proceeded to rifle the express and mail cars. He plundered the regular mail and blew open the safe in the express car, which was wrecked by the explosion. The amount of plunder secured is not known at present, but is supposed to be large.

The excitement on the train was intense. The sudden stoppage, followed soon by the explosion, spread alarm among the train hands and passengers. The darkness and the loneliness of the place added to the terror.

Word of the attack was sent to Drummond, whence it was telegraphed to Deer Lodge, about 50 miles away. Bloodhounds were sent out at once.

It was assumed that at least eight men were engaged in the hold-up, but the latest advices are that one man alone perpetrated the murder and robbery.

Dan O'Neill, the dead engineer, lived in this city and had a wife and five children. He had been in the service of the Northern Pacific longer than any other engineer.

Boasts of His Deeds.

The robber boasted that he was the man who took part in the hold-up of the Southern Pacific train near Portland, Ore., about a year ago. He made this boast to the train hands to terrorize them, while he employed them to run the train four miles from the point where the robbery occurred. He declared that he would be hard to catch, as he had a horse in the timber.

The Northern Pacific has offered a reward of $5,000 for delivery, dead or alive, of the robber. The mask worn by the bandit was found on a mountain trail, two miles from the scene of the hold-up, and after giving the hounds the scent of the mask, the animals immediately took up the trail, which was then about eight hours old.

CARNEGIE TOOK PART IN LAYING CORNER STONE

Desires a Better Understanding Between Britons and Americans.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Andrew Carnegie was the principal figure in a series of functions held at Dundee, Scotland, today, which included the laying of the foundation stone for the first of five branch libraries to which Mr. Carnegie has contributed $185,000.

At a luncheon which followed the presentation of the freedom of the city to Mr. Carnegie, the recipient of this honor made a speech, in the course of which he strongly urged a better understanding between Britons and Americans. He said that only narrow and ignorant prejudice kept these English-speaking peoples apart, and that if he could do anything to bring them together, he would consider that his life had not been lived in vain.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Vorwaerts today concludes from the fact that Andrew Carnegie's address at St. Andrews, in which he advised the emperor to form a "United States of Europe," is reproduced in the semi-official Norddeutsche Zeitung, that the emperor intends to answer it. The Vorwaerts compares the relations of Carnegie and the emperor to those of the czar and the late Jean de Bloch, the Russian councillor, who was one of the czar's chief advisers.

TREED WOMAN KILLS A BESIEGING MOOSE

Then She Is Fined by a Canadian Game Warden for Saving Her Own Life.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

VANCEPORT, ME., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Martin, wife of Dr. James Martin of Boston, who has been in camp near Spednic lake, close to the New Brunswick line, for two weeks, had an exciting adventure with a bull moose. Mrs. Martin shot a bear and was returning from a long trip in pursuit of another when she was met by a large moose which showed so much ferocity that she climbed a tree.

Having no cartridges except those in the rifle she saved her ammunition and succeeded in bringing down her jailer with the last shot. By this time night had fallen, and fearing to walk home and encounter another angry moose, with no means of defending herself, she waited until she felt sure the animal she shot was dead. She descended and was kindling a fire, intending to pass the night in the woods, when a rescue party arrived and escorted her home.

Then came a surprise. The camp was in Canadian territory and the moose was killed there. So the Canadian game warden had a fine of $100 imposed upon the woman who killed the moose to save her own life.

ROOSEVELT TO DISCUSS TWO TOPICS

Tariff and Trusts Will Be the Main Subjects of His Message.

TO BE TREATED AS DISTINCT

Will Urge Non-Partisan Commission to Consider Changes of Schedules.

CANAL AND COAL STRIKE

THE PITTSBURG GAZETTE BUREAU, 925 Fifteenth St., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.

President Roosevelt is hard at work on his annual message to congress. From those who have seen the draft it is ascertained that it will be one of the greatest state papers penned by a chief executive of the United States.

In his previous message the president mainly limited himself to following the lines of his lamented predecessor, but in his coming message he will discuss a number of questions that require recommendations original with him, and bearing upon his future and upon the future of his party. Foremost in importance of these will be the tariff and trust questions. The president will discuss them separately, because he holds, with other Republican leaders, that the tariff is not responsible for the trusts.

The president's main recommendation as to dealing with the tariff will, it is understood, be the establishment of a permanent tariff commission, as far as possible a non-partisan, unprejudiced body, that will at once take up consideration of all facts connected with the tariff with a view to wise recommendation to congress for changes here and there.

No Radical Stand on Tariff.

The president will not take a radical attitude as to the adjustment of the tariff. He will favor tariff changes, but will say that congress, without the assistance of a trained body like a commission, cannot take up with wisdom and justice the changes that are needed and must be made. The president will point out that in the readjustment of tariff schedules congress is surrounded by influences for or against such changes that greatly hinder that untrammeled condition which congress itself would prefer to give. By receiving facts and figures from an expert body congress would be in position to act without a number of long hearings and the usual hurly-burly accompanying the intention to make changes.

On the trust question the president will follow the line of his recent speeches to a considerable extent. He will recommend that safe and judicious legislation be attempted by congress for the regulation and control of trusts, but will likewise take the position that, pending the enactment of laws that may be of assistance, consideration may be gone into of the question of a constitutional amendment giving thorough federal control of these mighty institutions.

The president believes that the government should go slowly in a matter of such vital concern as this, but holds that with serious and earnest thought a way will be found that will meet all proper requirements and not interfere with the smooth running of financial affairs throughout the country.

It is understood that Attorney General Knox is engaged in the preparation of a measure that will go before congress, supplementing laws in existence for the control of the trusts, and that the president may make a specific recommendation for the enactment of this into law, taking the position that it is a good legal step and within the limits of the constitution. It is well known that Mr. Knox will not prepare any measure that he does not think will really abate the trust nuisance, and there is much to look forward to in this direction, it is hinted on good authority.

With other things in connection with remedial legislation for the trust danger, the president will again recommend publicity of the business of all corporations. He holds, and has held for years, that the trusts are a source of evil, through their ability to water their stocks and to create fictitious conditions that will open danger to the entire business of the country. In their ability to carry on dangerous work without the general public being apprised of the conditions surrounding them, the president holds that they are hurtful to the general welfare.

The Danger of Secrecy.

The president takes the position that to show the difference between sound business enterprises and those more or less open to suspicion, the government ought to have the right to inspect and examine the workings of the corporations engaged in interstate commerce. Publicity will reveal the facts so that what further remedies are needed may be determined. Without these facts, the trusts may force legislation that will bring trouble upon those not needing punishment, as well as those that do need correction and supervision.

The president will discuss with much interest the subject of an Itshmian canal, not with a view to making a recommendation, but with a view to informing congress as to the developments in the direction of selecting and acquiring a route for the canal. The president will have before him the report of Attorney General Knox on the legal status of the Panama Canal company. He will also have before him the negotiations with Colombia relating to certain rights desired by this country prior to any possible beginning of work on the Panama canal.

The coal strike and the president's action to bring about a settlement will be discussed in the message, but the president will withhold his writing of that portion until the last, in view of a possible report early in December by the commission that is going to take up the question. Should the commission not be ready to report by that time the president probably will reserve any pointed discussion of labor and capital questions until the report has been received. He could then transmit this report to congress in a special message, accompanied by his own recommendations.

The president will push, and most vigorously, his ideas for reciprocity with Cuba, and will insist that no further time be lost in carrying out the understanding with that republic.

REBATE GRANTED BY TIN WORKERS

Will Accept Cut in Wages on Material Now Imported from Wales.

TROUBLE IS BREWING

Delegates Are Dissatisfied and Say the Same Proposition Has Been Voted Down Three Times---Signed Agreement.

The rebate proposition, which for nearly six months has been troubling the officials of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, was finally settled at the Hotel Henry last night. It was almost 9 o'clock before an agreement was reached, and the counter proposition of the workers was accepted by the manufacturers. At times the discussion was very spirited, but the concessions made by the conference committee of the Amalgamated association were so fair that the manufacturers finally accepted them. When the conference closed everything was harmonious and many idle mills will now start. When an agreement was reached it was made a footnote of the scale signed last March. There is great dissatisfaction among many delegates to the convention and the matter will be heard from at the next convention of the Amalgamated.

The settlement provides that the scale wages shall remain unchanged; that 3 per cent of the wages of all the tin plate workers shall be set aside as a fund, out of which the manufacturers shall be paid a rebate of 25 per cent on all re-export or drawback orders, upon presentation of proper proofs of the same. This fund is to be kept by the Amalgamated association and to be paid out by the national officers.

Voted Down Three Times.

For months this matter has been before the tin plate workers. President Shaffer has been untiring in his efforts to have a satisfactory settlement of the matter. Three times it has been submitted to a vote of the tin workers through the Amalgamated lodges and three times it was defeated. President Shaffer, as a last resort, called a special convention of the tin lodges, which met in Moorhead hall on last Monday. The question was submitted to the delegates after it had been thoroughly explained by him and officials of the American Tin Plate Company, as well as several of the independent manufacturers. The delegates discussed the matter in secret session and for a time it looked as if the proposition would again be defeated.

It is charged now by some of the delegate who were against the proposition that President Shaffer himself delayed putting the question before the convention for a vote for a whole day and that the compromise outlined above was then submitted. The delegates readily saw the justice of the new plan and it was adopted yesterday morning. A committee was at once sent to the manufacturers and they returned bearing word that the proposition was acceptable.

Then the special convention adopted the suggestion and appointed a conference committee to meet the manufacturers. The conference was held in secret and few of the delegates knew what would be its result. Many of them stayed over last night to learn of the result.

This is the second time in the history of the Amalgamated that the year was broken by the calling of a special session to decide on this proposition. At the tin plate conference held in New York last July between the officials of the American Tin Plate Company and the Amalgamated, the manufacturers placed before the association the trade conditions that were vitally affecting the tin plate mills of the country. A proposition was submitted that a reduction of 25 per cent be allowed by the workers on all labor entering into competition with the Welsh tin plate exporters. The matter was presented to the local lodges of workers and was voted down three times by them.

Agreement Was Signed.

A special convention was called by the Amalgamated association and delegates from all the tin plate plants of the company have wrestled with the proposition for the past several days. The representatives of the manufacturers were called into the meeting and the rebate proposition thoroughly explained by them. Executive sessions have been held and the matter discussed from every point of view.

The meeting adjourned at noon yesterday and the agreement was signed last night at the Hotel Henry after a discussion between the conference committee and the manufacturers. The discussion lasted almost eight hours and both sides appeared to be pleased with the outcome. Now a number of the mills, which have been idle for some time, on account of the bad condition of the trade, will start up and the workers will benefit by securing steadier work. The settlement arrived at is a compromise. As one of the delegates said last night: "It is only a concession, made by the association to the manufacturers in order to allow the American manufacturer to secure certains order for tin plate which have heretofore been placed with Welsh manufacturers."

The American manufacturer could not compete with the foreign manufacturer under present conditions, and the workers were asked to submit to a reduction of 25 per cent in their wages, on the orders so secured.

Under the present tariff law, tin plate brought into this country made up into packages and then re-exported, containing American goods is allowed a rebate of 99 per cent of the duty. There are about 1,500,000 boxes of tin plate thus imported and re-exported annually, under the provisions of this law. This is the business the American manufacturers are after, and in order to enable them to successfully compete with the cheap labor of Wales, they asked this concession from the tin workers.

Trouble Is Promised.

At Amalgamated headquarters yesterday afternoon a worker condemned the whole proceeding. He said it was an outrage, as the proposition had been voted down three times. He made some very ugly charges, and stated that the matter would be fully ventilated at the regular meeting of the Amalgamated association next year. From what could be learned among the workers yesterday, there will be a day of reckoning when the next scale year comes around.

The conference committee of the Amalgamated association, which met the manufacturers at the Hotel Henry yesterday and finally arrived at an agreement, was: John Chappell of New Castle; J. W. Quinn and John Edwards, Granite City, Ind.; John Duffy, Muskegon, Mich.; James Sadler, New Castle; George Price, New Kensington, Pa.; T. J. Collins, Connellsville, Pa.; Thomas Williams, Martins Ferry; W. Va.; J. E. Jones, Ellwood, Ind., and William Clark, Sharon, Pa.; President Theodore Shaffer and John Williams, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated association.

Croat Who Lives Half the Time as a Beggar and the Other Half as a Lord.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.

Matto Modric, of whose progress toward America a Vienna cable warned New Yorkers, is one of those who might well be said to be coming in velvet gown. In half the great cities of the east Modric is known as the "King of the Beggars." In and around New York he is called "the beggar king of Hoboken."

In 12 years he has not earned an honest dollar, yet he is rich. He has found it more profitable in America to beg than to toil, and he boasts of his discovery. In New York, Pittsburgh, Boston and Chicago Modric's slight form, his stoop shoulders and bent back, his crippled hand, self-mutilated, and his arm, seared with acids and colored with iodoform, are familiar as characteristics of this seemingly most miserable of mendicants.

But periodically the "king of the beggars," discards his disguise and lays aside his sceptre. Then, clad like a gentleman, spending money freely, he goes abroad to visit his Croatian estate and his family. The simple-minded Croatian peasants of his native town revere him as a wondrous evidence of American progressiveness. Among them he poses as a rich speculator and contractor and what not, who has thriven upon his many great enterprises in the land of the free.

According to the Austrian police, the shrewd Croatian, after another of his periodic visits home, has "just sailed on a fast steamer for the United States, accompanied by a young woman."

Labor Organizers Promise to Leave County If Case Against Them Is Dismissed.

ROANOKE, VA., Oct. 24.—A compromise has been reached between John Haddow and William Webber, labor organizers, and the receivers of the Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke Company, and the contempt case against Haddow and Webber may never come to trial. It is understood that Webber and Haddow virtually admitted that they had violated the injunction of the court prohibiting labor organizers trespassing on the lands of the company. The defendants signed an agreement, in consideration that no further action should be taken against them, to quit the coal fields of Wise county forever.

The case has attracted national interest, owing to the fact that Webber and Haddow, after having been convicted several months ago and sent to jail on a contempt charge, were pardoned by President Roosevelt.

The Rev. A. K. Kline of Braddock was elected president, the Rev. A. B. Bauman of Pitcairn, vice president; Miss Grace Euston, secretary, and Mrs. D. N. Bricker, treasurer, both of Wilkinsburg.

Joseph D. Pierson, a wagonman at No. 6 police station, early yesterday morning prevented what might have proved a serious fire in the buildings at Nos. 141 and 143 Frankstown avenue, East End, occupied by Joseph Zimmerman as a furniture store.

Pierson reported that while passing the store he discovered fire in the place and upon kicking in the door found oil had been poured over the furniture and in the entrance, where a large bundle of paper was blazing. He says there was a gallon can nearly filled with oil standing near the fire.

Another Candidate Appears.

A surprize was sprung among the residents of Wilmerding yesterday when it was announced that Robert J. Tounds would go into court this morning and ask that he be appointed to fill the unexpired term of Burgess Welsh, who resigned last week. William P. George was supposed to be the only applicant, and the borough council recommended that George be appointed by the court.

QUAY AND DALZELL DEFINE REPUBLICAN POLICIES

service and other extra legislative services in their behalf, which, the institution had refused to pay. That was the extent of the horrible case of corruption in Clearfield county.

A Call for Details.

Again it is said that my friend, David B. Oliver, is cognizant of a case in point—indeed, I have read his speech, which was direct and pertinent, but Mr. Oliver does not disclose the identity of the heavy villain in the case nor the attendant circumstances. Mr. Oliver should give them to the public. He should hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may.

These are the only instances, so far as I know, produced by the scandal mongers to sustain their charges that the state which gives them shelter and has given them prominence and wealth, is debauched, robbed and misgoverned. If they have other dark secrets, they should be brought into the broad light of day with concomitant evidence, not merely with the common rancorous and malicious rumors and contortions of fact which are the natural outcrop of heated politics, nor with the alleged statements of men in buckram. "It is asserted and not denied," say these gentlemen. "It is well known" that such a circumstances occurred. "The entire state knows," say they. This is merely the ordinary refuge of the cowardly assassin of reputation when skulking to cover.

The Best Governed State.

Senator Quay then took up the charges that Pennsylvania had been a misgoverned state and demonstrated from his standpoint, that, instead of this, it is actually the best governed state in the union. He said in part:

Look at her educational system. From 1803 to 1902 Pennsylvania has given for educational purposes $58,000,000, more than double the amount in 30 years preceding, and far more than was given in all the years of her statehood previous to 1895.

Today the state gives over $4 for the education of each child in her schools; Ohio gives $1.45, and it stands next to Pennsylvania in liberality to education. Massachusetts gives 3 per cent to education, New York 15, Ohio 21, and Pennsylvania 25 per cent.

And with all this Pennsylvania alone has placed no tax on her real estate for school appropriations. Since 1865 the real estate in New York state has paid over $500,000,000; in Pennsylvania it has paid practically nothing.

Another comparison of great importance may be cited. The state debt of Pennsylvania in 1851, after 20 years of Democratic rule, was $40,448,213.82, or over $13.91 for every man, woman and child within its borders. Today the state debt of Pennsylvania is not $7,000,000.

Comparative Cost of Government.

The Republican party in Pennsylvania is charged with criminal extravagance in its conduct of the state government. The following table shows in round numbers the estimated cost of ordinary expenses of the various departments of Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts for the two years:

| | Penna. | Mass. | N. Y. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Legislative ...$ | 595,000 | $678,000 | $1,413,000 |
| Executive .... | 53,000 | 71,000 | 105,000 |
| Judiciary ..... | 1,485,000 | 722,000 | 1,960,000 |
| Sec. of State.. | 87,000 | 90,000 | 140,000 |
| Attorney Gen. | 51,000 | 62,000 | 345,000 |
| Treasurer .... | 46,000 | 65,000 | 52,000 |
| Auditor Gen.... | 117,000 | 35,000 | 248,000 |
| Insur. Comm'r. | 57,000 | 50,000 | 574,000 |
| State Library. | 40,000 | 32,000 | 137,000 |
| State House E | 142,000 | 265,000 | 320,000 |
| Nat. Guard.... | 775,000 | 631,000 | 1,400,000 |

It will be borne in mind that Massachusetts has only about one-half of the population of Pennsylvania.

The revenue from license for the sale of liquors at retail formerly went entirely into the state treasury. In 1901 the various counties, cities, boroughs and townships of Pennsylvania received from that source alone over $4,000,000, and upon that basis $40,000,000 have been returned in the last ten years.

During the same time the state has appropriated to her charities not less than $20,000,000. During the entire period from 1851 to 1861, less than $1,000,000 was paid to the charitable institutions of the state.

Reforms in Election Laws.

The Republican state committee at its recent session appointed sub-committees to formulate new ballot and primary election laws. Their report was anticipated at an early date, but the chairman of one of the committees has been in the field with the National Guard, and the other committee, after giving full hearings to all interested, are awaiting the result of the labors of two distinguished authorities, Messrs. Alexander Simpson and Hon. Richard C. Dale, who are engaged in the preparation of a ballot reform bill. When these committees are ready to report the Republican convention will take position. Speaking for myself, the Van Dyke primary law, which passed the house of representatives at the last session of the legislature, was as near perfect as could be framed. It originated, I believe, in the chamber of commerce in this city. The ballot reform bill failed in 1901 over a technical point, but conferences of representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties as to the number of voters who might be assisted by a single helper in the marking of the ballot effected a compromise as could be framed. It originated, I believe, in the chamber of commerce in this city. The ballot reform bill failed in 1901 over a technical point, but conferences of representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties as to the number of voters who might be assisted by a single helper in the marking of the ballot effected a compromise

My own preference would be for a return to the old law which permitted every voter to write or print his own ballot in a form prescribed by law, with a proviso that each voter shall enter a private booth alone and in which he shall seal his ballot in an official envelope, which he shall hand to the election officers. This would prevent espionage upon the voters, secure an absolutely free vote, and rid us of the present litigious and cumberous ballot and mushroom parties.

Choice Bits from Burke.

James F. Burke and his solicitude for the Democratic party followed after Senator Quay. Here are a few sweet blooms culled from his flowers of speech: "It (the Citizens party) has kicked in the doors of the Democracy," "The independent Democracy will speak for itself on election day," "They have sneered at and insulted the name of Democracy," "As Christ in his wrath drove the money changers from the temple, so you should drive them from the arena of politics."

Dr. W. P. Wilson of Philadelphia was the next speaker. As director of the Commercial museums of Philadelphia Dr. Wilson is well informed on the statistics of Pennsylvania's prosperity. His speech was chiefly devoted to showing how much the state owes to the Republican party, but he never mentioned the great debt owed by the state and nation to the Pittsburgh machine, and which will probably be settled in about 10 days.

The introduction of Congressman John Dalzell was the signal for the greatest demonstration of the evening. Men on the stage and throughout the audience sprang to their feet with one accord and joined in the cheering. Senator Quay had referred to him as "the next speaker of the house." "Three cheers for the next speaker of the house," proposed one enthusiast in the gallery as Mr. Dalzell stepped forward. The suggestion was received by another outburst of cheers that ceased only when the throats of the crowd grew hoarse.

Graceful Presentation of Dalzell.

"Let us hope," said Chairman Brown, in introducing Mr. Dalzell, "that Pennsylvania will do half as much for John Dalzell as John Dalzell has done for Pennsylvania."

Mr. Dalzell confined his remarks to national issues. He asked for the support of every loyal Republican for Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker for the gubernatorial election, but if the machine had expected him to speak of the situation in Allegheny county, and to renounce and denounce the Citizens' party, they were sorely disappointed. His brief reference to Judge Pennypacker was the only mention made by him of the political situation affecting Allegheny county.

"I have come here to speak of Republican righteousness," began Mr. Dalzell. "No more important election has challenged the voters of this generation than that which confronts them now. The voters of the nation are asked to determine whether or not we shall continue the policy bequeathed to us by McKinley and upheld so manfully by Theodore Roosevelt."

History of Party Reviewed.

Mr. Dalzell then spoke of the history of the Republican party and reviewed in detail its policies respecting the national issues during the last half of the century, showing how the industrial, financial and foreign policies of Republicanism had guided the country toward the goal of national supremacy. The national issues, he declared, were confined to the nourishing of the industries so firmly established under the protective tariff. Both political parties were in favor of keeping the stars and stripes flying in the Philippines until perfect peace had been established there, and the paramount matter for the Republicans to guard is the preventing with "tariff tinkering" by irresponsible hands. He spoke of the prosperity of laboring classes, pointing to the fact that where there were 4,000,000 idle men in the United States in 1896, there is not one today.

"Labor is employed and contented," he said, "with but one exception, in our own state, and that is the one exception that proves the rule. The anthracite strike has been settled, and we should all be proud that the evil was erased under Republican auspices."

Mr. Dalzell made an eloquent plea for the encouragement of the American merchant marine and the fostering of the American shipbuilding industry. He said the Nicaraguan ship canal had received the support of both political parties and that its completion was assured.

Some of Dalzell's Utterances.

Some of the most telling passages from Mr. Dalzell's speech were as follows:

Within only a few days you will be called upon with the rest of our citizenship to choose certain public officials, also some state and some national. I do not believe that any thoughtful man will dispute my assertion that never before was that so more important election is likely to challenge the attention of the voters of this generation, than that which shall determine the continuance or discontinuance in power of the present party, and shall condemn or indorse the policies of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

With the opening of a new century the United States has embarked on a new career, confined for more than 100 years to the consideration of questions and policies that pertained only to our people and to this western continent. We have suddenly in the Providence of God, been brought face to face with questions and policies that grow out of new and untried conditions and have become chargable with the destinies of other peoples than our own.

Reasons for Voting As a Republican.

Repinings, fault findings, doubts and hesitation are now and for 40 years have been the characteristics of the Democratic party, and faith, hope, courage, the characteristics of the Republican party from the time of Abraham Lincoln to the time of Theodore Roosevelt.

We will, as Mr. McKinley said, fulfill in the Philippines all the obligations imposed upon us by the triumphs of our arms, by the treaty of peace, by international law, by the nation's sense of honor. Our boys that carried the flag in those far-distant seas will be sustained by the American people. It is the flag of our party and our purpose, it is the flag of our love, it stands for the success of the nation, and wherever it goes it carries with it education, civilization and liberty.

In 1896 the people of this country were called upon to select as between the Republican and Democratic party for the next election during that year. We had had four years of Democratic rule. They were lean years, full of suffering and deprivation in all the walks of life. Now the peculiar situation was it then existed was this, that those lean years followed immediately upon a period of unexampled prosperity.

What Followed Democratic Triumph.

You will perhaps recall that in his last message to congress in December, 1892, Mr. Harrison said that a comparison of then existing conditions with those of the most prosperous period in our history would show that so high a degree of prosperity and so general a diffusion of the comforts of life had never before been enjoyed by our people.

The sudden revolution of conditions that followed upon this declaration of Mr. Harrison was due to the election of Grover Cleveland upon a platform that threatened our protective system, and to the want of confidence that immediately followed thereon. In the light of this experience the American people rose in their majesty and by a decisive vote placed in the executive chair the most beloved man in his life-time of all our presidents, William McKinley.

Four years of his administration followed, and then the people were called upon again to select as between Democratic and Republican policies, and again in 1900, as in 1896, and by a still more decisive vote, they elected to place their destinies in the hands of the Republican party. Now, my fellow citizens, the record of that Republican administration, beginning on the 4th day of March, 1897, and continuing down to this blessed hour is before you for review, and what shall the record be? Shall it be indorsed, or shall it be condemned? That is the only question that you are to settle by your vote on Tuesday of week after next.

Only One Answer Possible.

Shall it be indorsed, or shall it be condemned? Now, I aver that ever good reason exists for the continuance in power of the Republican party and that no plausible reason exists for the contrary. Never at any time nor in any place, has history recorded a period of such unbounded, ever-flowing prosperity as this people is now enjoying. Men in all the walks of life are busy. Capital is abundant, courageous and aggressive; labor, as a rule, occupied and contented. The late deplorable exception, our own community, wealth, is only the exception that proves the rule, and surely we have a right tonight to be proud as Republicans so well pleased under Republican supervision. Every source of national wealth is yielding us rich returns. As the result of Republican policies, the past few years have been and are now undergoing a process of development along the lines of natural economic law.

It was Republican foresight, the genius of Republican constructive statesmanship that, looking down the coming years, saw in the Mississippi a great agricultural, to be followed by a great industrial, empire growing up under the hands of an army of free men that carried with it the church, the school house and the maxims of Saxon liberty.

Wise Policy of Republicanism.

It was Republican provision and foresight that supplemented those laws by wise mining laws and added millions to the world's wealth. But, my friends, hope, however abundant, might have rotted on the ground and mineral wealth, however rich, might have remained unmarketable had it not been for the Republican policy that our constitution contains every grant of power adequate to the development of our resources and authorizes every internal improvement, and hence came the great railroad continental railway and the other railways that grid-iron the west and bind the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Now, how about manufacture? I might stand here for an hour or two hours or more, and preach to you American supremacy in manufacture by giving you figures, but I prefer under this head to point out briefly the difference between Republican and Democratic policy in respect to manufacture. I take 1896 as the starting point, because, as I said, that is the last year of Democratic administration. The basis of all manufactures, lies coal. And I suppose that no one of us has ever so thoroughly appreciated how essential it is even to life, as we have within the last two or three months.

Statistics Prove the Point.

We produce one-third of all the coal produced in the world. In 1896 we mined 136,000,000 tons of coal, but in 1900 we mined 241,000,000 tons of coal, a difference, in other words, of 70,000,000 tons. Now, my friends, if you will take and calculate how many men it takes to mine 70,000,000 tons of coal, how much it takes to transport 70,000,000 of tons of coal to the place of consumption, how much of power 70,000,000 of tons of coal adds to the world's power, if you will then calculate how many millions each of those employes in the various phases of that great industry is called upon to travel, you will have some faint conception of the difference between Democratic 1896 and Republican 1901. We not only mined this great quantity of coal and supplied our home market, but we sent abroad coal and enriched our people to the extent of $10,000,000 worth. We sent it to Canada, to France, to Germany, to the South and Central American states, but the great bulk of the product went to create those tremendous forces that contribute to the manufacturing supremacy and light and heat the happy homes of a prosperous people. But, my friends, it is in the making of steel that the test of manufacturing supremacy is to be found.

Value of a Pittsburgh Product.

There is no other industry that responds so universally to human touch. Take railroads and their equipment, steamships, machinery of all kinds, and tools innumerable, articles of home use and furnishment, structure of all kinds, including the great sky-scrapers that have become so familiar to us in the city of Pittsburgh. These are some of the uses to which steel is put. Has it ever occurred to you that the most ponderous beam and the most delicate watch spring are all alike the product of three stones in the hill—a black stone, coal; a white stone, limestone, and a red stone, ore? And however wonderful that of this the raw material represents only a small proportion of the finished product, but that 95 to 99 per cent is human labor? Why, the value of a ton of coal, a ton of ore, of a ton of limestone in the hill is comparatively little, a few cents or a few dollars at most, while the value of a finished product, say a finished watch spring, is infinitely more. In 1896 we made in this country 8,500,000 tons of pig iron. In 1901 we made 14,000,000 tons of pig iron. The value of the product in 1896 was $60,000,000, but in 1901 its value was $200,000,000. In 1896 we made of steel of all kinds 5,000,000 tons, but in 1901 we made 13,500,000 tons.

Effect of the Wilson Bill.

In 1896 we sent and sold abroad of steel manufactures $41,000,000 worth, but in 1901 we sent and sold abroad $129,000,000 worth. Now, my friends, let me ask you, how do you account for the difference between 1896 and 1901 in this regard? I will tell you how, because in 1896, under the Wilson bill, furnace fires were out, furnace stacks were smokeless, mill doors were closed, the steel worker was idle, wandering on the highway, seeking the sustenance of the wolf at the door, while today there is in all this happy land of ours, not a single idle furnace, not a single silent mill or idle man seeking employment. I am free to confess that this subject is of sort of interest for me, and I dislike to leave it. But let me call your attention to another familiar example. In 1867 only a little more than 20 years ago, we made in this country 2,205 tons of steel rail, less than 3,000 tons, and all the steel rails that we used over and above those 2,207 tons we paid England $166 a ton for. Last year we made 2,583,854 tons of steel rails and three times as much as England made, and sold them in her market, some of them at $30 a ton. Prior to 1890 we did not make a pound of tin plate in this country. Why not?

We made everything out of which tin plate is made. We made the pig iron, we made the billets, we made the sheets, but we did not make tin plate because of the difference between the wages demanded by the condition of an American laborer and the wages paid to the Welshmen. Now, Mr. McKinley, who was chairman of the committee on ways and means, conceived the idea of creating an American industry and so he put into his bill a duty of 2.2 cents a pound on tin plate. What was the result? All over this country, some greater, some smaller, tin plate factories sprung up. Then came the Wilson bill and reduced the duty to 1.2 cents, but the industry had a foothold and struggled along until the Dingley bill relieved it. Now there is invested in the manufacture of tin plate nearly $8,000,000, and it furnishes employment to nearly 4,000 American workmen. That is not all, nor half the story, as you have already heard from the gentleman who preceded me, we have begun to send our manufactures into foreign markets. We have been for a long time the granary of the world and we have sent our protective products abroad for years, but never to the same extent as now.

The Republican party has written upon our statute books such laws as gives ability to our currency and stands pledged to the passage of such supplementary laws as shall maintain the gold standard.

Republican Financial Policy.

It has multiplied the number of national banks, strengthened the public confidence and given stability to our currency. We have refunded a large portion of the national debt in 2 per cent bonds. We have saved to the people of this country in interest charges $7,000,000 annually. Those 2 per cent bonds are selling at 110, $110 for United States 2 per cent bonds. Why? There is nothing since history was written that parallels the confidence that the American people have secured in the markets of the world. The bond consols of Great Britian bearing 2½ per cent interest per annum are selling at a discount, the bonds of imperial German, bearing interest at 3 per cent are selling at a discount and your 2 per cent bond and my 2 per cent bond is selling at 110.

My friends, there are lots of things I would like to talk to you about, but is growing late, and I am going to quit. Pennsylvania's relation to her sister states is that of a leader in the Republican cause. I cannot conceive of a reason why any loyal Republican should refuse to vote for an honest candidate for governor of Pennsylvania. Time was when they said as Pennsylvania goes so goes the union. And I recall that when Pennsylvania elected a Democratic governor the next election that followed placed in the executive chair a Democratic president.

Pittsburgh Machine Trick Recalled.

And I recollect again that when Pennsylvania a second time elected a Democratic governor, a second time a Democratic executive was placed in the federal chair. My friends I read some time ago, in one of the magazines a discussion as to which was the more important, the platform or the candidate. I say that the question amounts to nothing when you have an honest platform. If a man who has served fourteen years administering justice in a court of justice and upon whose ermine there is neither spot nor stain is not fit to be governor of Pennsylvania then I don't know where you will go for your gubernatorial timber. The Republican party is in power and we want to keep it in power. There is an old maxim they tell me written in every language and if it is Chinese, it means the aggregate common sense of all mankind and I commend that homely old maxim to you tonight. It is "Let well enough alone." (Applause.)

MRS. DUNCAN IS NOT SATISFIED

Thinks Her Husband Owes It to Her to Explain His Actions.

BRUCE HEAD IS WORSE

His Recovery Is Now Very Doubtful—Detective Robinson Thinks Both Men Are Hiding Something.

It was learned yesterday that Mrs. Duncan, the wife of Dr. Ellis Duncan, superintendent of the city hospital at Louisville, who is in the Allegheny county jail awaiting the result of the murderous attack he made on Bruce Head at the Wabash construction camp, back of Greentree, last Tuesday night, has written to her husband demanding of him some explanation of the motives that actuated him when he fired the shot at Head that is likely to prove fatal.

Mrs. Duncan wrote from her home in Louisville, where Dr. Duncan left her last Monday evening, after kissing her good-bye, and telling her that he would return just as soon as he was through with a consultation at Vincennes, Ind., which he gave her to understand he was called away to attend. He had not been summoned to Vincennes, and instead of going there, he came direct to Pittsburgh, found out where Bruce Head was employed and went out to Greentree, intending to kill his former friend.

Mrs. Anthony Gets a Letter.

Yesterday Mrs. George H. Anthony of No. 745 Franklin street, Wilkinsburg, who had Mrs. Duncan as her guest three weeks ago, received a letter from Mrs. Duncan in which she stated that she had written to her husband and asked him for her sake to make some explanation of his action in attempting to kill Head. Mrs. Duncan, in her letter to Mrs. Anthony, stated that she was at a loss to account for her husband's rash act and that she thought it was wrong for him to remain silent when her good name and character was being placed in jeopardy. She wrote further that she felt that he owed her that consideration as his wife and that inasmuch as she had been placed in a somewhat compromising position by the unfortunate affair, he (her husband) should lose no time in removing the cloak of suspicion about her by telling the public his reason for attempting murder.

Bruce Head's One Call.

This letter was received yesterday morning by Mrs. Anthony. Mrs. Duncan wrote that she was prostrated over the affair. She hoped that Mrs. Anthony would not forfeit her former friendship for her. She also stated that she wanted to come to this city and see Mrs. Anthony at her earliest opportunity.

Mrs. Anthony told a Gazette reporter yesterday that Mrs. Duncan was a charming and fascinating woman. According to Mrs. Anthony, everyone who knew Mrs. Duncan was fond of her. She stated that while Mrs. Duncan was in this city she attended one reception at the Monongahela club, in company with Miss Anthony.

Mrs. Anthony said that while Mrs. Duncan and her mother, Mrs. Barbour, were at her house, Bruce Head made one call. That was on the second day after their arrival here. He was received by Mrs. Barbour and Mrs. Anthony. Later Mrs. Duncan entered the room and was apparently very glad to see her former friend and playmate. Mrs. Anthony was asked if Mrs. Duncan ever left her house alone during her stay there. She replied that she had not and that Miss Anthony usually accompanied her. They often went shopping together. She said she had been tol dby her daughter that Head never met them on these visits to the city.

Denials Are Not Believed.

While denials have been made of the report that Dr. Duncan intercepted a letter written by Bruce Head to his wife, and while Head has stated emphatically that he never wrote to Mrs. Duncan, County Detective Robert G. Robinson, who is at work on the case, does not place much dependence in the denials. He says in support of his position that both Duncan and Head made conflicting statements before and subsequent to the shooting.

"You must remember that Dr. Duncan told his friends in Louisville, that he was going to Vincennes when he left that city last Monday," said Detective Robinson last night. "Now, as a matter of fact, he had no intention of going to that place.

"He came directly to this city. Then he started out to hunt Head. He found him, and the result is known to everyone. Head has denied that he called on Mrs. Duncan while she was visiting in Wilkinsburg. I suppose it is perfectly proper that both these gallant men should deny everything that would compromise any woman, but it does not alter the fact that neither of them is to be believed at this time. From what has been learned from Mrs. Anthony, it is reasonable to deduce that Head saw Mrs. Duncan frequently while she was in this city.

Misconstrued an Apology.

"It is believed among the city detectives and other officers interested in the case that Head wrote to Mrs. Duncan making an apology for some unseeming conduct while she was in his company. This letter was intercepted by Dr. Duncan, and without questioning his wife he came direct to Pittsburgh and called Head to account for it. No dependence can be placed in the statements of either of the men."

Col. W. H. McClure, Dr. Duncan's uncle, called at the jail yesterday morning and spent a few minutes in conversation with Dr. Duncan. The physician was in much better spirits than at any time since he was committed there. After this Col. McClure went to the office of Attorney George Elphinstone and talked with him about the case for over an hour.

Col. McClure then went to the Hotel Anderson and rested for the remainder of the day. When seen last night he said that the nature of his visit with Dr. Duncan was to inquire about his general condition and to assure him that he would do everything in his power to assist him in his present trouble.

Dr. Duncan was much brighter yesterday than at any time since he has been committed to the county jail. During the morning he read some and expressed himself as being comforted by the reported improvement of Bruce Head. Dr. A. V. Chessrown visited him at his cell in the afternoon and inquired about his general condition. Dr. Duncan said that he had rested well during the night and felt much better. He repeated that he was sorry for Head, and hoped that he would recover. Wealthy citizens of this city and Louisville have offered to go on Duncan's bond for any amount.

Bruce Head in Bad Shape.

Bruce Head, the victim of Dr. Duncan's bullet, will probably die. At 11 o'clock last night his life was hanging by the weakest of threads. Two physicians and a trained nurse are at his bedside. His relatives have been telegraphed for. Dr. Walker, the attending physician, has practically given up all hope and told General Manager Carter, Head's half-brother, that he might expect his death at any moment.

The change for the worse in Head's condition came shortly before noon yesterday. Until that time he was getting along as well as could be expected. The high fever which set in late Thursday night did not abate yesterday morning. Dr. Walker did everything in his power to reduce the temperature, but all in vain, and Head's symptoms became more complicated every hour.

Head got very little sleep Thursday night. He tossed a good deal and was more nervous than at any time since the shooting. The dressing of his wounds grew more painful to him and the nourishment which was injected did but little good.

Physicians Are Watching Close.

Dr. Walker went to the camp from Carnegie early yesterday morning and remained with his patient until noon. Then he gave out the first news of his worse condition. Shortly after 1 o'clock Dr. Walker again returned to the Greentree camp, taking with him Dr. Bennett. The two physicians remained at the bedside of Head until after 3 o'clock. Dr. Walker returned to camp at 8 o'clock last night with Dr. Bennett, and the two physicians remained with the injured man all night. Policeman William Davis was also at the dying man's bedside.

It was stated at the Greentree camp last night that Head's relatives in Louisville had been telegraphed for, and some of them are expected to arrive in Pittsburgh this evening.

At the camp the sole topic of conversation is the shooting and Head's condition. The greatest contempt is expressed for Dr. Duncan. Yesterday letters and telegrams by the score began to pour into the office of Kenetick & Co.

Sympathy for Wounded Man.

They all contained expressions of sympathy for Bruce Head, and the senders expressed the hope that he would soon recover. Even last night the telephone did not cease ringing and the office employes were kept busy until long after midnight, answering queries as to the condition of the injured man.

On the night of the murderous assault Head apparently had not the slightest idea of Dr. Duncan's motive for his trip to see him. Had he done any wrong, in any manner with Mrs. Duncan, it was argued last night, he would have suspected Dr. Duncan's mission the moment he entered camp.

PARK SITE WINS IN COMMITTEE

Councilmen Agree on Location for New Polytechnic School.

MAY WAIT FOR CARNEGIE

Resolution Urges Councils to Seek Mrs. Schenley's Consent, but Action May Be Postponed Until Donor Is Here.

Resolved, That this committee recommend to councils that they offer to the trustees of the Carnegie polytechnical school a site in Schenley park at the northeast corner of the park, near the Murdoch entrance, containing 21 acres more or less.

With the above resolution, unanimously adopted, at a meeting of the councilmanic committee appointed to confer with the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute yesterday afternoon, the site question is practically up to councils.

The members who attended the special meeting were: Gebhart Sahner, chairman; D. F. Crawford, D. J. Bole, Henry Fitzpatrick and William J. Zahniser. The absentees were S. J. Wainwright and William Sankey, who were in attendance at a meeting of the finance committee.

An amendment was offered to the above motion to postpone all action in regard to the site until Andrew Carnegie comes here in December, but it was defeated.

May Wait for Carnegie.

It is highly probable, however, that councils will wish to know how the great philanthropist stands on the matter of a park site. The consent of Mrs. Schenley will also have to be obtained, and in case she gives this, the deed to the city for Schenley park will have to be amended.

At the opening of the meeting Chairman Sahner stated that no further information had been gained on the park site. Then Councilman Crawford offered his resolution, which was discussed very freely by every member of the committee present.

Councilman Fitzpatrick seconded the resolution and proposed the amendment, which was defeated. It was said the Bellefield site of 52 acres had been agreeable to many members of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute, but it would require $1,400,000 to purchase it. The city, it was said, had not enough money and a bond issue would be necessary.

Lambie Favored It.

It was argued that the city has at the present time $360,000 in the treasury to purchase additional park land and if the Schenley park site was taken this amount of money might be expended to secure an addition to the park.

President Lambie of select council, stated that he had carefully considered the 52-acre site in Bellefield, the 11-acre tract of land in Forbes street and the Schenley park site and he deemed the latter the most suitable for the new school.

He argued that if Mrs. Schenley was properly approached with a petition signed by councils that she would hardly refuse to place the land at their disposal for the polytechnical school.

He told how Mrs. Schenley had talked for The Gazette and was being averse to giving up the land for a polytechnical school site. But, he said, there had never been any attempt to get an official expression on the subject, and explain that other ground would be added to the park to replace that taken up by the school.

After the motion had passed, President Lambie suggested that councils should take the proper measures to secure the consent of Mrs. Schenley, and the chairman of the committee will so report to councils.

ACCEDED TO DEMAND.

The Rev. H. E. Berkey Resigns His Sharpsburg Pastorate.

The Rev. H. E. Berkey, pastor of the First English Lutheran church of Sharpsburg, has announced his resignation. A report was circulated that Mr. Berkey had been asked to resign. Mr. Berkey stated that the report was true and that on the coming Sabbath evening at 7:30 o'clock he will review the steps that have led to this action and say farewell. He invites every member of the church and all otherfair-minded Christian people to be present.

ANGER KILLED HIM.

Balking Horse Brought Fatal Fit of Passion on William Schempf.

During a fit of passion brought on by the stubbornness of his horse, William Schempf, 45 years old, of Stanton avenue, died on his wagon yesterday morning in front of his home. The horse balked and he became so enraged at the animal his heart became effected and he died instantly on the wagon. He was taken to his home and Coroner Jesse M. McGary was notified. Schempf was a contractor and drayman.

A man supposed to be Raski Mihaly of Van Meter, Westmoreland county, died last night at the Mercy hospital of injuries received Thursday by being struck by a train near Gratztown, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. His skull had been crushed and he was injured internally. He was about 40 years old and weighed 150 pounds. He never regained consciousness after the accident.

MAD RIOT OF FUN FOR PITTSBURGH

Halloween Comes Next Friday and Mummers Preparing for Wild Time.

GREATEST IN HISTORY

The Street Scenes Will Be Worth Coming Miles to See—New Ideas Add to Carnival—Parties Plan Novel Games and Jokes.

A mad riot of masqueraders, with jibe and joke and a tempest of merriment will break out in Pittsburgh next Friday night, when All Halloween is to be celebrated. There is scarcely a home in the city where the occupants are not preparing for the event. The "Mummers" have been out in force for several years past, and last year furnished the nearest approach to carnival scenes that Pittsburgh has ever seen.

Neither last nor any other year will be in it with the mad riot of fun and merriment that will fill the city next Friday night. The professional costumers simply throw up their hands if any one asks for a Halloween garb. In thousands of homes the women of the families are busy plying the needle on some gay domino or outlandish costume for the parade.

The nut market has gone soaring. In fact, unless a fresh supply is brought in there is likely to be a famine before Friday arrives. Apples and other fruits, deemed necessary for the old-fashioned gala night, are in the greatest demand, and the mails are burdened with invitations to Halloween parties. One of the ideas is an old-time coaching party, which will traverse the downtown streets during the evening.

A score of tally-hos have been engaged and if the idea keeps spreading, as it has for the last day or two, there will be 50 of them in the procession.

Crowds of Maskers.

The other gay forms of masquerading will be in evidence more than ever and the event will be as close a reproduction of the Mardi Gras carnival as it is possible to evolve without the southern skies and the quaint old half-French, half-Spanish customs that blood has held in the Crescent City.

For some time a real carnival program was contemplated, and a meeting scheduled for Immigrant Inspector R. D. Layton's office last night. The interested ones were evidently too busy with their own preparations and none of them appeared except the inspector. Nevertheless this will not detract from the gaiety of the night, for the impromptu character of the carnival is two thirds of its charm, and unless it rains so hard as to make the thing impossible, there will be a scene on Friday night such as staid old Pittsburgh has never seen before.

Traditions of centuries ago will be revived by the young people this year. The time-honored face in the pumpkin, which was a favorite diversion in masquerading in colonial days, will be seen at every turn next Friday night. So great is the demand that 15 cars loaded with great yellow cow pumpkins were shipped from Ohio and are being retailed throughout the city markets at good prices.

Thousands of Pumpkins.

"This has been a good year for cow pumpkins," said a local commission merchant yesterday, "and they are coming in quantities never heard of in the history of Pittsburgh markets, but the demand has been so great that it will be impossible to supply the late comers. A jack in the lantern will cost about 25 cents. Some growers have arranged to sell a pumpkin 15 inches in diameter for 25 cents and give three wax candles gratis in order to catch the trade. Walnuts are selling for 75 cents a bushel. The crop was poor and the price is double that of last year. Shellbarks and chestnuts are plenty."

The crowds in the toy stores rival the buyers of holiday times in their enthusiasm. Masks are in especial demand, and many new subjects have been added this year, including caricatures of faces of every nationality. The make-up of variety actors also has been cleverly reproduced, and the stage tramp, the Jew, the red-haired Hibernian, the negro minstrel, the Weber-Fieldian Dutchman and the dark-browed villain are all to be found.

Many New Games.

One of the new halloween games this year will be the merry play, "Who Knows Me." In this game the boys and girls occupy adjoining rooms and pin a large sheet across the door, on which is stamped a ludicrous face with a small opening, where a member of the party is allowed to stand and project his nose through the canvas. The other members of the party are called upon to guess the owner of the facial appendage. A big red apple is the prize awarded to those whose guess is correct. At the close of the game the person who has the largest collection of apples is the winner of the general prize. Other games of much the same nature, which have a large sale for halloween parties, are "Helen's Naughty Baby," "The Fisherman," "The Watermelon Frolic" and the "Monkey's Donation Party."

One of the best novelties of the season is a panorama of funny pictures, operated by showing transparencies in a darkened room. The pictures are attached to a roll, which revolves before a candle placed in a light, tight box. Some of these are very elaborate, and photographs, bits of fine scenery and copies of famous works of art are shown.

YOUNG INVENTOR GETS HIS PATENT

Charles Cawley, Accused of Homestead Tragedy, Received Good News.

Charles Cawley, accused of killing his mother, three sisters and two brothers on October 11 at his home in Homestead, received word from the patent office at Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon that a patent for a street car brake had been granted by the department and recorded for him. The news was conveyed to him by his uncle Patrick Boyle of the South Side, who received the letter from the department.

Mr. Boyle went immediately to the Allegheny county jail and told his nephew of his success. Cawley was delighted to hear of his achievement, and talked freely with his uncle about the patent. During his conversation with his uncle he seemed perfectly sane and rational.

The young inventor told his uncle how he wanted his interests cared for and asked him to attend to matters pertaining to them. The conversation lasted for 10 minutes and the exercise gong sounded, signalling young Cawley to his cell.

As the sound of the gong reached Cawley's ears he smilingly bade his uncle good-bye and went to his cell. The young fellow is in good health.

When Mr. Boyle left the jail he remarked that Cawley was certainly a mechanical genius. He said that the young man talked intelligently about his patent.

STEEL TRADE CANVASS.

Corporation Making One to Find Out Requirements So as to Gauge Next Year's Production.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The United States Steel Corporation is now making a canvass of the various steel-consuming industries of the country with a view to ascertaining what their needs will be during the next half year.

There is a two-fold purpose. First, the corporation desires to learn whether there must be expansion or contraction in production to meet demands, and also to determine how there can be a better distribution of products to meet the pressing needs of big consumers. This will take in the question of transportation.

This step marks the adoption of a new policy by the trust, which is intended to result in the systematizing of the business of steel-making more exactly than it has been done heretofore.

STABBED HEART HEALED.

Surgeon's Operation Would Have Saved Woman's Life Had Not Blood Poisoning Taken Place.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Although Mrs. Kingsley died, the operation which Dr. George Stewart, attending surgeon at Bellevue, performed on her heart last Monday was a success and as such will go down in medical history.

The walls of the left ventricle, which Dr. Stewart drew together and stitched, healed perfectly and recovery would have followed, it is said, but for an infection of the original wound caused by the knife blade with which Mrs. Kingsley was stabbed. This caused blood poisoning which the most delicate and skilful surgery could not prevent.

All this was disclosed at the autopsy which Dr. Weston, coroner's physician, performed today.

FIGHTER GETS IN WRONG.

Assaulted an Editor for Criticising His Fight.

MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Danny Webster, a prize fighter, who has been making his home here for a few weeks, and who had been put forward several times in boxing contests against imported fighters, was arrested this afternoon for an unprovoked assault upon W. W. Carter, city editor of the News, whom he struck several times and knocked down.

Webster took umbrage at the attitude of the News in criticising the numerous prize fights that have been pulled off here, and especially the one of last Wednesday night, when Webster broke the jaw of Edward Young of Toledo, in the second round. What was to have been a 10-round fight. It is rumored tonight that Judge Dirlam, of the common pleas court, will issue a bench warrant for the arrest of Webster for his criminal act in breaking Young's jaw Wednesday night.

SUFFERED MANY YEARS WITH A COMPLICATION OF FEMALE DISEASES.

Two Robust Women Who Owe Their Restored Health and Usefulness to Pe-ru-na.

Tens of Thousands of Testimonials Received Yearly.

Thankful Women Who Have Been Cured By Dr. Hartman's Free Treatment.

Miss Ruth Emerson, 72 Sycamore street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

"I suffered for two years with irregular and painful menstruation, and Peruna cured me within six weeks. I cannot tell you how grateful I feel. Any agency which brings health and strength to the afflicted is always a welcome friend, and today the market is so filled with useless and injurious medicines that it is a pleasure to know of so reliable a remedy as you place before the public."—Miss Ruth Emerson.

"I want to do what I can to let the whole world know what a grand medicine Peruna is. For eleven years I suffered with female troubles, and complications arising therefrom. Doctors failed to cure me, and I despaired of being helped. Peruna cured me in three short months. I can hardly believe it myself, but it is a blessed fact. I am perfectly well now and have not had an ache or pain for months. I want my suffering sisters to know what Peruna has done for me."—Miss Marie Johnson.

The above testimonial is from Miss Marie Johnson, 11 Columbia, East Detroit, Mich., was Worthy Vice Templar in Hope Lodge, No. 6, Independent Order Good Templars. Miss Johnson, as so many other women also have done, found in Peruna a specific for severe cases of female weakness.

Pelvic catarrh is a phrase coined by Dr. Hartman, covering all that large class of diseases that used to be known as female weakness. The lower portion of the abdomen is called by anatomists the pelvis. The organs contained in this portion of the body are known as the pelvic organs. There are several of them, very delicate and very subject to catarrh. Few women escape entirely catarrh of these organs. While each case just as good. This was found to be impossible, however, and now imitations are springing up everywhere.

Peruna is imitated in the kind of bottle. Imitators think that if they get a bottle that resembles the Peruna bottle, they will be able to sell more of some alleged catarrh cure.

The color of Peruna is imitated. Sometimes the taste. The claims that are made for Peruna are imitated verbatim. The literature concerning Peruna is imitated. The style of advertising Peruna is imitated. All this is done to reap some of the benefits to which Peruna is so justly entitled.

Incidentally Peruna is injured by cheap imitations, and yet it is a great compliment to Peruna to have such a host of imitators. Why do they single out Peruna from among the proprietary medicines? Simply because Peruna is the greatest seller in the world. Everybody knows this.

To successfully palm off an imitation of Peruna even for a short time is sure to be a money-making scheme, but no one who has ever taken Peruna can be fooled on these imitations. No conscientious druggist would sell one of them. Every purchaser should look carefully at each package of Peruna he buys, to be sure that he is getting only genuine Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Is Your Good Will Assured?

Attorney General Knox in his address on the Trust Problem last week said:

"Good will is property capable of being appraised, bought and sold. In many cases it is the main ingredient of value. It represents all the struggle, industry, tact and judgment that make success. In estimating the worth of a business it is not infrequently reckoned more valuable than the buildings and machinery that make up the physical plant."

How much is the Good Will of your business worth?

How much would it be worth if you were to die tonight?

Is it assured for an amount in harmony with its value?

SIXTEEN PAGES.

Senator Quay is always interesting; he is often right. His attitude toward the tariff, as delineated in his speech last evening, we do not agree with. President Roosevelt's position is better—revision with careful regard for the protective principle and ultimate reference of schedules to a permanent commission. The west insists upon revision and the west will win. Better to give it revision at the hands of friends of the protective policy than to risk a return of the soup-house era.

On state issues, the favorite topic of the Democracy, Senator Quay speaks with intimate knowledge of the facts. His defense of the fair fame of his state is timely. The comparative statistics he presented are significant and indisputable, and his reply to the Democratic charges of corruption make clear how little there is to them. As for his reference to the local campaign that might have been expected. It has always been the senator's boast that he supports the whole Republican ticket under all circumstances.

The German gunboat Panther, which sunk the Haitian rebel gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot, has been doing business in Venezuela in the same thoroughgoing way. It went up the Orinoco river to give protection to some German settlers, ignoring a blockade proclaimed by the Venezuelan government. In answer to a protest the German legation at Caracas made the bluff reply that the kaiser's government intends to protect German interests in Venezuela. The kaiser has certainly made a beginning which shows that he means business and the Central and South American governments naturally feel uneasy as to the extent to which he will carry his protection of German interests.

Foreign intervention in American affairs, such as Germany is now carrying on in Venezuela, always touches this country on a tender point, and it immediately becomes a question whether or not there has been any violation of the Monroe doctrine. The most explicit explanation of what does and what does not constitute a violation of the Monroe doctrine is contained in one of Secretary Olney's dispatches during the controversy with England over the Venezuelan boundary affair. Secretary Olney said: "It does not establish any general protectorate by the United States over other American states. It does not relieve any American state from its obligations as fixed by international law, nor prevent any European power directly interested from enforcing such obligations, or from inflicting merited punishment for the breach of them. * * * The rule in question has a single purpose and object. It is that no European power or combination of powers shall forcibly deprive an American state of the right and power of self-government, and of shaping for itself its own political fortunes and destinies."

Secretary Olney's distinctions seem plain enough on paper, but in practice they may not be so plain. Suppose that in the course of inflicting merited punishment territory is occupied, how soon and on what grounds does the Monroe doctrine apply? It may be assumed that any intention of depriving the invaded country of the right and power of self-government will be disclaimed and the occupation of territory will be represented as temporary, but if circumstances favor there is no limit to the temporary occupation. In 1882 Great Britain temporarily occupied Egypt because of the disorder caused by the revolt under Arabi Pasha, and has remained in actual control ever since. It is safe to say that the enforcement of international obligations against the revolutionary countries of Central and South America will tend to occupation as fast as the power exists to do so. To make the Monroe doctrine good the United States will have to exercise sufficient actual control to compel respect to international obligations and will have to provide sufficient naval strength for that purpose.

Our government has very properly kept the Cincinnati at Haiti to prevent breaches of international law and to give protection to American interests. The need of this precaution was shown on the 10th inst. when the deposed governor of a district showed his resentment over his removal from office by starting a revolution. The town was given over to street fighting and foreign residents came trooping to the wharf to get out of the battle. The Cincinnati gave refuge to 75 persons, mostly women and children. Philanthropists who think that war and disorder can be obviated by persuading people to be good have a fine field for activity just now in Haiti, Venezuela and Colombia. It might accomplish some good if Mr. Carnegie would visit those countries and make a series of addresses. At least the result would be instructive. Meanwhile it is clearly the duty of the United States to safeguard the general interests of civilization, even if it does involve the use of force. If the United States avoids that duty Germany is evidently willing and able to undertake it.

Mr. Carnegie's excursions into the field of politics are always interesting. The German press appears to find his latest sally very amusing. His suggestion that Emperor William should organize the United States of Europe is treated as being more a matter for ridicule than for serious consideration. This is unkind to Mr. Carnegie, whose advice is always well meant. The Germans are aware that an United States of Europe did once actually exist under the name of the Holy Roman Empire, but its history verified the remark made in the Federalist that law cannot be enforced nor order maintained by persuasion alone. The empire was not strong enough to enforce its authority and the United States of Europe broke up as the United States of America would have done if the people of this country had not valued union more than peace and poured out their blood and money like water to preserve the union. The Germans also remember that every important step of the process by which the mark of Brandenburg expanded into the kingdom of Prussia and became the foundation of the German empire had to be fought for, and they also recall Bismarck's profound saying that it is not by speeches and resolutions that states are founded, but by blood and iron. The United States of Europe may come some day, but it will be no more the product of speeches and resolutions than the United States of America.

AFTER PERMANENT RESULTS.

President Roosevelt's commission to inquire into the conditions of the anthracite coal industry is organized, has its instructions from the president and is ready to proceed. It is understood it will hear Mr. Mitchell and his associates first, then the coal operators and afterward disinterested persons who may have intimate knowledge of pertinent facts. Incidentally the commission is expected to visit the mining region and New York to make observations which may enable it the better to understand testimony adduced.

No one need expect immediate results. The commission must take time to obtain all the facts and to weigh them carefully. No one can tell how long this will require. But when the commission submits its report the public will have definite knowledge of the conditions as they exist and the award will be just. Miners and operators will be expected to abide by the decision. If any do not they will feel the force of public opinion, which, in this country, is all-powerful.

A WONDERFUL RECORD.

In describing the achievements of the Republican party since its return to power in 1896, campaign orators are at a disadvantage because the subject really beggars the resources of language. The record reads like a fairy story. There is nothing to compare with it in the history of any nation.

When McKinley was elected in 1896 the country was in the grip of hard times and the public revenues were insufficient to meet the expenses of the government. The Wilson tariff act was in operation 35 months, from September 1, 1894, to July 24, 1897, and during that period there was a deficiency in the revenues of $105,180,701. President McKinley took office March 4, 1897, and immediately called an extra session of congress to provide additional revenues. Congress assembled March 15, 1897, and in his message President McKinley said:

> In raising revenue, duties should be so levied upon foreign products as to preserve the home market, so far as possible, to our own producers; to revive and increase manufacturing; to relieve and encourage agriculture; to increase our domestic and foreign commerce; to aid and develop mining and building, and to render to labor in every field of useful occupation the liberal wages and adequate rewards to which skill and industry are justly entitled.

This program has been carried out to the letter. A new tariff bill was passed and became a law July 24, 1897. By June 30, 1900, it had been in operation as long as the Wilson tariff act, and it had not only covered the previous deficiency, but had produced a surplus of over $57,000,000. This computation, made at the close of the fiscal year of 1900 by the United States treasury department, excludes additional revenues provided by the war taxes and also excludes war expenditures.

The destruction of the Maine took place February 15, 1898. Had it occurred with the treasury in such a condition as that to which it had been reduced by the previous administration, a frightful situation would have been presented—war looming up, the national treasury empty and revenues running behind the ordinary expenses of government. What might not the effect have been had there been such a situation when European nations were getting together for what they have subsequently described as "friendly mediation!" As it was the treasury was in a position to respond to large demands, and an immediate appropriation of $50,000,000 for national defense enabled the government to get upon a war footing. War was declared April 23, 1898. The war revenue bill became law June 13, 1898. It was calculated to produce an additional revenue of about $100,000,000 a year, and so well founded was the estimate that the actual receipts ranged from $102,359,618 in 1899 to $107,646,213 in 1901. When the war ended the work of removing the war taxes was promptly taken in hand. They were first largely reduced and the last session of congress repealed the act entire.

These achievements alone would constitute a great record, but they were but the beginning. The national credit was firmly established and business confidence restored by the act of March 14, 1900, increasing the gold reserve from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, and providing that all forms of money issued or coined should be maintained at parity of value with gold. The national banking law was amended so as to extend its privileges to small communities. The number of banks has been increased from 3,617 to 4,616, and national bank note circulation from $254,402,730 to $361,282,691. A saving in interest payments of $11,000,000 annually was effected by substituting 2 per cent bonds for $445,000,000 of bonds bearing interest at 3, 4 and 5 per cent. As a net result of the financial management of the Republican party, THE ANNUAL INTEREST ON THE NATIONAL DEBT IS $6,000,000 LESS THAN IT WAS BEFORE THE WAR WITH SPAIN, notwithstanding the issue of a war loan of $200,000,000. Such an amazing feat was never before accomplished as to carry on an expensive war and at the close of it to show a practical reduction in the national debt.

The effect of the confidence inspired by such capable administration has been an unparalleled degree of business prosperity. In only a single year prior to 1897 did the exports exceed a billion. For the last three years they have averaged over four hundred millions in excess of a billion. In manufactures alone the exports have grown from $277,000,000 in 1897 to $463,000,000 in 1902. Saving bank deposits have increased from $1,939,376,035 in 1897 to $2,597,094,580 in 1901. The deposits in all the various classes of banking institutions have increased over three billions from 1897 to 1901. Some comparison is needed to show how unparalleled is this increase. In the four-year period from 1892 to 1896 the aggregate deposits increased $257,598,963, while in the four years from 1897 to 1901 they increased $3,388,205,606.

Such facts cannot be made more impressive by any comment. There is only one way in which the Democratic party can evade their significance and that is to treat them as exemplifying the energy and resources of the American people and to deny that the Republican party is entitled to credit for them. But the fact remains that the Republican party established the conditions which enabled the American people to produce this prosperity, and whether we go by the experience of the past or by what can be learned of the present intentions of the Democratic party, it is altogether probable that the return to power of the Democratic party would establish conditions that would blight industrial activity. The only sensible ground on which the people could prefer Democratic control is that they are tired of prosperity. If they want hard times again the Democratic party can give them sure service in that direction.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

During the past week the government paid out about $20,000,000 in redemption of its bonds under the terms of Secretary Shaw's recent proposition. Additions were also made to national bank circulation, the operation being facilitated by the substitution of other than government bonds for the security of public deposits, the bonds thus released being utilized for the issue of new circulation. The amount of government deposits in national banks was also increased. These relief measures have tended to restore normal rates in the money market. They would not have been necessary were the business of the government conducted according to modern methods, and the recent stringency would not have been so acute. The knowledge that government relief had been forthcoming in the past warranted the expectation that it would again be available, and speculative operations were expanded accordingly. If natural instead of artificial remedies were the only recourse, then the situation would not be permitted to become so critical before a corrective was applied.

The decline in call loan rates influenced the market for sterling exchange, and at one time gold exports were imminent. No gold was shipped, however, and as grain and cotton are moving more freely, the outgo of these commodities may be sufficient to render gold shipments unnecessary. Owing to the late season, followed by inclement weather, the movement of the crops this year did not begin as early as usual; but during the past week there has been a steady increase of receipts at primary markets. Another factor in the situation is the continued large importations of foreign merchandise. September was a record-breaker in this respect, and that the imports for the current month are large may be seen in the daily reports of customs receipts. The latter for the month to date exceed $20,000,000, as compared with less than $17,000,000 for the correspouding period last year and $15,000,000 two years ago.

There has been a decided relaxation in speculative activity during the week, and at the same time stock market operators have been reducing their obligations in bank. Everyone, in fact, seems to have prepared or is preparing for the demand for money which usually prevails throughout the closing quarter of the year. The effect of this policy will be to minimize any disturbance in the money market at the annual settlement period.

Trade reports continue satisfactory with the one exception that the railroads are still demonstrating their incapacity to handle all the traffic offered. The best illustration of this fact is the record made in the coke trade. With an urgent demand for coke at abnormally high prices, and with the yards clogged with product, the shipments from the Connellsville region during the past week were 930 cars short of the total for the preceding week. Lack of motive power and shortage in cars is the cause of the congestion. Similar conditions prevail as to the coal trade, and the prompt movement of general merchandise is obstructed by the same cause. What the situation will be now that mining of anthracite coal has been resumed and corn has started to market may be imagined, but not adequately described.

Senator Hanna's development into a political orator is a striking example of the wonderful adaptability of the high-grade American business man. He did not take to politics until after a successful business career, and stump speaking was an entirely new thing for him, but his modest beginning at once caught popular favor and he soon acquired a sustained fluency of speech equal to that of any professional spell-binder, while the matter of his speech preserved the substantial quality of the talk of a business man. He is now in such demand as a speaker that he is in danger of overtasking his strength. He keeps going despite protests of his physician, and on Thursday he spent the day in making a series of speeches in Indiana towns. It is no wonder that he almost collapsed from fatigue at the close, but that was not until after he had made a great speech to an immense audience at Indianapolis. Senator Hanna should spare himself more—we need men like him in our politics, and he should not spend his powers so freely.

Today the new power canal at Sault St. Mary, on the American side, will be opened. The matter is made the occasion for a two-day celebration at the expense of the promoter, Francis H. Clergue, who, despite his French sounding name and the fact that he has done more than any other one man toward the development of Canadian resources, is a Yankee by birth and training. The history of Clergue and the industrial operations that have made him a multi-millionaire reads like a romance of the Arabian Nights order and the man has apparently just begun his career. He is a modest man, but one that does things.

President Roosevelt's action in bringing about a settlement of the anthracite coal strike is having world-wide influence. Precisely the same method has now been adopted as a means of settling the coal miners' strike in France. The miners say they are willing to have Premier Combes appoint an arbitration commission, but it remains to be seen whether M. Combes can bring sufficient influence to bear to bring the mining operators to terms. Kings and prime ministers do not possess the power which the president of the United States can exert.

Meeting at Lincoln, Neb., the Missouri Valley Homeopathic Medical association has put its ban upon the kissing habit. Many medical associations were earlier in this propaganda, yet there is no visible diminution in the amount of kissing, public or private. In fact the Hobson craze was in the face of medical warning that the kiss is harmful. Hobson, however, is a living example of the comparative safety of osculation, for while he and his admirers may have been suspected of being "bughouse," no one ever accused him of having microbes.

Though Onward Silver was the record breaker at Memphis, it may be noted that Maj. Delmar did some trotting that puts him close to the front rank. A mile in 2:05½; a mile in 2:22¼ and a half mile in 1:01 on the same track the same day that Cresceus could do no better than 2:04, indicates great possibilities for a young animal.

Ex-Gov. Pattison alleged the printed journals were being held back and he made his charge three weeks after they had been delivered. The Post, in its usual dodging manner, declares Pattison only said the journals were delayed.

Orders have been issued for the gradual withdrawal of the troops from the anthracite region, though there is, up to date, no visible decrease in disorder. It is probable, however, that enmities will cool as work progresses.

Mr. Guthrie is not making senatorial appointments. He is too busy doing something else.

CAMPAIGN MAKES POSTOFFICE WORK

Tremendous Amount of Business Handled by the New York Stations.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.

As election time draws near it means more work for the postoffice department. This applies to Pittsburgh and other large cities, as well as to New York, but it is doubtful whether there is a city in the country wherein the steady rush of postoffice business comes anywhere near what it recahes in this metropolis. Take station E, which embraces Herald square and most of the theater and hotel district. In that rather insignificant building, down a side street and hidden between a livery stable and a junk shop, there are 300,000 pieces of mail matter handled every day—nearly half a million letters and bundles of papers. To look at each of these pieces of mail—to "separate" them, in postoffice phraseology—25 clerks are continually working with might and main, tossing each letter or paper into its proper receptacle, and so rarely making a mistake that when there is a slip, with a complaint following, the error is traced through dozens of hands, often covering 1,000 miles of territory, until the fault is brought home to the original offender. That is system. Outside, there are 25 collectors walking about the district at all times, from midnight to midnight. Some of the heaps of mail they collect at the different boxes are so large that the carrier has to go directly back to the postoffice, to get rid of it before he can take any more. The wonder is not that a mistake is made at long intervals, but E, referred to as an example, is only one that mistakes are so few. This station of a score of stations in the city, many of which are as busy as this. With all this business transacted smoothly and surely, there are hardly any of the postoffice buildings on Manhattan island that are adequate, and attaches of the department here have been begging for a new uptown building for years. Congress has consented to give it at last, and there is a strong possibility that the edifice will be erected in Herald square. The site has not been chosen officially, however.

Pittsburghers Dined in New York.

There is a jolly party of well-known Pittsburghers much in evidence in Broadway just now. They are familiar with the ways of New York and seem to be as much at home here as in Pittsburgh. In the party are J. W. Platt, J. V. McMasters, R. M. Boles, Ed J. Martin, A. C. Dean, W. L. Fuhr, J. J. Sweeney, J. Dickson, H. F. Blaney, Bernard McKenna and Michael Thornton. They were entertained at a beefsteak dinner on Wednesday night, with the exception of Squire McKenna, who was not well that night, and was the guest of Senator Timothy D. Sullivan at the latter's home. The dinner was arranged by some New Yorkers in honor of their Pittsburgh friends, and the feast of reason and flow of wit were worthy of the occasion. After the dinner they went to hear some political spellbinding at one of the Broadway hotels, and then visited a theater.

Old-Time Landlord Dead.

Most Pittsburghers in the habit of visiting New York know A. L. Ashman, proprietor of the old Sinclair house, at Broadway and Eighth avenue. Mr. Ashman died early today from an internal ailment which had affected him for eight years. The Sinclair has long been a popular resort of Pittsburgh folk. Quiet, small and old-fashioned, it is one of the best types of old hotels in this city, as its late proprietor was the traditional mine host. Doubtless, the Sinclair will continue to do business at the old stand for years to come, but the owner will be missed.

A Countess Elocutionist.

A feature of the Church alliance reception in St. Chrysostom's church yesterday afternoon, was the rendering of recitations in French and English by the Countess de Castelvecchio. The countess is well-known in Pittsburgh as an actress of exceptional talent, and she has many friends in that city. There was a large attendance at the reception, and the countess' contribution to the entertainment was regarded as one of the best.

Mrs. Osborn's Troubles Begin.

Mrs. Osborn must begin to feel that she really is managing a real theater. The Hengler sisters, who have been featured in "Tommy Rot" in Mrs. Osborn's playhouse, have resigned. Professional jealousy is said to be the cause. They think that Blanche Ring has been getting favorable notices in the newspapers that should have belonged to the sisters, and they have got out of the company. Mrs. Osborne knows that there are troubles in running a fashionable dressmaker's establishment, but thinks they are nothing compared with the worries of theater management.

Pittsburgh Flags Acclimated.

Now that the reign of soft coal in New York is nearly over, we are noticing that flags floating in different parts of the city are all grimy with soot. When only anthracite was burned in this city, a flag could be kept flying for six months without becoming visibly soiled. Now all the flags one sees are nearly black, and it is hard to distinguish the silver stars on the blue ground from the red and white stripes of "old glory." What is remarkable to a Pittsburgher is that the flags have got much dirtier in New York in three months or so of soft coal burning than they would in Pittsburgh in a year. Perhaps flags in Pittsburgh are inured to atmospheric conditions, just as are the people.

Flatiron Depopulating Old Buildings.

The big "Flatiron" building at Twenty-third street, Broadway and Fifth avenue is ready for occupancy. One is reminded of this if he walks through the side business streets in the neighborhood. On many houses he sees the notice, "Will remove to the Flatiron building on November 1," or some other date, as it may happen. The chances are the curious edifice will be lighted from top to bottom in the evenings long before Christmas. What will become of the houses to be vacated by tenants of the new structure is another thing. The most reasonable reading of the problem is that many of the old houses will be pulled down, to be replaced by other skyscrapers, when there may be a flitting back to the old stands. For the present, however, Broadway has the call.

Physical Culture at Home.

Private gymnasia have become a fad in Greater New York. Many well-known residents have a room set apart for the use of dumb-bells, clubs, the "medicine ball" and other apparatus for developing muscle and wind. They find it more convenient than membership in an athletic club, besides enjoying the privileges of privacy. One of the handsomest of these private physical culture outfits is about to be erected by Charles M. Pratt, of the Standard Oil Company, in connection with his home in Brooklyn. It will have squash and tennis courts, bowling alleys and baths, and all the newest apparatus of a regular gymnasium. Mr. Pratt thinks he can do all this for $25,000. Only himself and members of his family will use the gymnasium, except when some especially privileged friend is invited to come in for a set-to with the gloves or to play a game of ten-pins.

No Time Wasted in Molineux Trial.

The common subject of approving comment is the celerity with which Judge Lambert is forcing the Molineux murder trial along. To begin with, a jury was obtained in a few hours, instead of taking two weeks, as was the case at the first trial, and now the court will not tolerate any squabbling between counsel, or any of the annoying devices of the legal mind to spin out the proceedings unnecessarily. The way in which the judge catches up the prosecuting attorney gives that truculent gentleman a sharp jar many times a day. He has never been used to it. It is much the same with counsel for the defense. Ex-Gov. Black, who has charge of the case for Molineux, is brought to book just as quickly as anyone else when he strays from the straight and narrow path of proper legal procedure as Judge Lambert understands it. The consequence of this sharp supervision by the bench will be that the trial will be over in about one-third the time it would have taken under an easier judge. It will be a valuable precedent, and the people are not backward in expressing unanimous approval.

One Advantage of Building the Fire.

Another argument in favor of the sometimes expressed opinion that the husband should rise first to light the fire, was furnished in this city today. A man who swore off drinking two weeks ago, and promised his wife not to drink any more, cut his throat as he lay in bed this morning, after she had left him to prepare breakfast. It is said that the strain of swearing off got on his nerves and rendered him temporarily insane. He will recover. If he had arisen to get breakfast, he would have had so much to engage his attention that he would not have had time to plan suicide.

Useful Education Cheap.

One of the new institutions for the help of youthful strugglers soon to be opened is the Manhattan Trade School for Girls. It will be in West Fourteenth street, not far from Salvation Army headquarters, and the instruction will be gratis. The curriculum will include needlework, sewing by machine, drawing, color work, business forms and methods and other lines of study. It is a fact well recognized that any young man or woman in this city desiring useful knowledge can procure it for a little or nothing, provided the will to attend it is there. New York is a "cold" city, no doubt, but there is much warm humanity beneath its chilly exterior, too.

Free Soup for the Poor.

A long line of woebegone men with faded clothes and unshaven faces stood in West Fifteenth street at noon today. They are there every day. They were waiting for the dole of bread and hot soup that is served without question to any who apply for it up to the number of about 500. When 300 men are fed, the provision is about all gone, and the rest are necessarily turned away hungry. The charity is in the hands of a society of philanthropic women of whom Miss Helen Gould is one, and the soup and bread are bought by voluntary contribution. Nothing is spent for attendance or anything that can be done by the women themselves. All money received goes directly into soup and bread. Because there is a limitation of the quantity to be given away some men line up at the door of the building as early as 9 o'clock, to make sure of a forward place in the line at noon. The building is used at night as a refuge for homeless women, who are received just as they come, and with no questions asked. In the year ending September 30 last the number of women sheltered and fed exceeded 20,000.

Women's Crusade Upon Crowded Cars.

That old bugbear, the crowding in street cars, broke out in the board of aldermen this afternoon. Some 30 determined women brought it to the notice of the city fathers with force and perspicuity. Mrs. Helen Varick Boswell, founder of the Woman's State Republican association, took the lead in the appeal to the aldermen to make the Metropolitan Street Railway Company provide more cars. She spoke about the indignities women must suffer from overcrowding, and insisted that something could be done to ameliorate the conditions if there were any real desire to do so. Perhaps something will come of this afternoon's proceedings, but New York has no hope of it. Crowded street cars seem to have become part of the regular life of this city.

No More Worry About Coal.

With some dealers saying they will sell coal at $6 75 a ton, and all of them across the North river selling it at not more than $7, there is still talk of its being sold at $12 a ton at some yards. As a matter of fact, few people are paying more than $7 or $8 a ton for hard coal in New York, and when they do it is because they do not take the trouble to look around a little. The coal strike has stopped without causing anything like the hardship that was expected, and so little has it affected the actual joy of living, now that it is ended, that coal already has ceased to be a subject of general discussion.

Mrs. Pat Stirs Up a Veteran Critic.

Mrs. Pat Campbell's play, "The Joy of Living," has been roundly scored by the critics here on account of its nastiness, aside from any artistic merit it may bring out. The veteran Willie Winter, in particular, goes for it hammer and tongs, and all upper Broadway is talking about it tonight. The old gentleman's usual attitude, since Ada Rehan and Augustin Daly dropped out of New York theatricals, is one of placid tolerance, and it is on record that he slept through a large part of one of last season's premieres, but Mrs. Pat has stirred his bile with her new Sudermann bucket of swash, and he gives it to the play with a vigor that suggests there is lots of fire in the old critic yet. GEORGE C. JENKS.

Up to the Arbitrators.

From the New York Commercial Advertiser.

There seems to have been little or no bitterness remaining when the final vote was taken. Mr. Mitchell's assurances of an early assembling and report of the arbitration commission removed the last doubts of the men as to the wisdom and impartial justice in the president's plan. It will be well, however, not to be too confident of a speedy verdict by the commission. The problems which it will have before it are extremely difficult and their solution will not be an easy matter.

Solid for Protection.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The talk about the so-called Iowa idea has brought out the fact that the Republicans of the United States are absolutely unanimous in supporting protection as a fundamental principle

PERSONALS.

"You can sell Pittsburgh merchants anything," said Charles Wassell, a New York manufacturer last night. "I have noticed this in the past few years, that I have been doing business in this city, and can account for it, only because the working classes in this vicinity are the best paid in the world. Pittsburgh merchants will buy freely when those in other cities are very conservative and buy in small quantities. The Pittsburgh man seems to know that he will have little trouble in disposing of his goods."

Capt. S. S. Brown, the Pittsburgh horseman, went to Cincinnati last night on the limited.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Thomas McNally.

Thomas McNally, one of the original incorporators of the Pittsburgh Baseball club, and a prominent resident of Allegheny, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Joseph Carr, No. 417 Charles street, Knoxville, at 7 o'clock last night. He was stricken with paralysis about a week ago, and dropped dead while passing from one room to another. Mr. McNally was born 65 years ago in County Mead, Ireland, at the foot of the Hill of Tara, where in the olden days the Irish kings were crowned. He came to this country and settled in Allegheny, learning the trade of a mill worker. He afterwards interested himself in sporting matters and developed many prominent athletes.

In addition to his association with the forming of the Pittsburgh Baseball club, Mr. McNally was an enthusiastic checker player. At one time he held the championship of Pennsylvania. At different periods in his career he was a member of both the upper and lower branches of Allegheny councils. He also conducted a hotel on Preble avenue, which he afterwards turned into his residence. Mr. McNally was a close, personal friend of Senator Quay, and had been reading a letter from him shortly before his death. He was very active in charitable work and after the panic of '76, supported several families in Allegheny until they were able to maintain themselves. He was a member of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic church, Beaver avenue, Allegheny. A wife, three sons and three daughters survive him.

Rev. J. A. Herold Buried.

The remains of the ev. Julius A. Herold, who died on Tuesday, were interred yesterday afternoon at St. John's cemetery. The funeral services were conducted at his home, No. 228 Main street, by ev. Hugh S. Gorsuch, pastor of the Forty-third Street Presbyterian church. An hour later services were also held in the Springhill German Evangelical Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Mr. Herold had been pastor for over seven years, by the Rev. W. W. Greese, assisted by the Revs. H. Hollinger and Grevez. At a meeting of the consistory of the church it was decided to place a memorial window in the new building. It will depict "The Good Shepherd."

Mrs. Caroline W. Baggaley.

Mrs. Caroline W. Bagaley, widow of Ralph Bagaley, Sr., died at her home at Undercliffe, Thursday, after an illness of one week, from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Bagaley was 65 years old, and had lived at the old homestead at Undercliffe for almost 45 years. Her husband, who died many years ago, as a wholesale grocer in Liberty avenue about 50 years ago. Mrs. Baggaley was a member of the United Presbyterian church. She is survived by three children: Ralph W. and Bert B. of Pittsburgh and Mrs. Addison P. Bailiff of Indiana township.

The Rev. William Van Kirk.

The remains of the Rev. William Van Kirk, a well-known minister of the Baptist church, were sent to his former home in Greenwich, N. Y., yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Van Kirk, who was 77 years old, died at the Homeopathic hospital on Wednesday, after three days' illness from pneumonia. He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

"Stand pat" is Senator Hanna's motto in the Ohio campaign, and it is a good one for use in Pennsylvania and Lawrence county. —New Castle Herald.

County Chairman Weiss says the Republicans of the upper end of the county will roll up a majority that will fairly sweep the disgruntled few out of sight.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

The best way to show appreciation for what President Roosevelt has done in lifting the clouds from the coal fields is to send him Republican supporters in congress by a large majority.—Scranton Tribune.

There is no reason why Pennsylvania should not roll up a Republican majority of 200,000 next month. Let every Republican do his duty and get out the full vote. Let each county determine to return its full quota of Republican officials and the state ticket will go through with a rush.—Oil City Derrick.

After the magnificent manner in which President Roosevelt settled the coal strike any citizen who would vote for a Democratic congressman on November 4 should be condemned to dream for three nights of being back again suffering under the last Cleveland administration.—Sharon Telegraph.

If the friends of the Hon. E. F. Acheson will go to work and keep at it until the polls close on the evening of November 4 they will insure his return to congress. It is a time for hard and continuous work, and it may be with safety predicted that no grass will be allowed to grow under the feet of "Ernie's" friends from this time forward.—Canonsburg Notes.

In his campaign through the state Judge Pennypacker is winning golden opinions for the plain, sound, practical common sense which characterizes his speeches. He wastes neither his own time nor that of others in long, windy orations, but always discusses the hard practical facts bearing on legislation and affecting the important interests of the state. Having been brought up on a farm he has kept in close touch with the farming community, understands the people's needs and talks to the farmers as if they had been his lifelong neighbors.—Bedford Inquirer.

Judge Pennypacker was informed at

Everett that an infant son of Samuel Welshons, born during the night, had been named Samuel Pennypacker Welshons. The judge thankfully made a note of the address of the family, and now there is great anxiety in Everett as to what will follow. The gubernatorial candidate had better be careful to keep his light hidden under a bushel when he sends the customary trinket to his namesake. If the news gets out that he is generous, there will be more Samuel Pennypacker Smiths in the state before the close of the campaign than there are now John or William Henry Smiths.—Altoona Gazette.

VISITING SLEUTH WAS SURPRISED

Didn't Understand Why a Customs Officer Was Bumping Against Him.

When John Finnesser, attached to the London police, came ashore from the Majestic, his pockets bulged suspiciously, says the New York Tribune. Customs Inspector Donohue caught sight of them. Donohue is the bumper of the customs office. His business is to wander about on the steamship piers when passengers are landed and bump up against those who look suspicious. By bumping them Donohue says he can tell everything they carry in their pockets, from a stick of dynamite to a toothpick.

Therefore, Donohue bumped Finnessey and at the same time ran his hands over the other's pockets on the right side. His face brightened and he went around the man, and, with another "Beg your pardon," again fell over him. This time he took an inventory of the left hand pockets. Mr. Donohue retreated, then bumped, and that time he "begged pardon" and noted the contents of the man's waistcoat pockets. By this time Mr. Finnessey was indignant. He asked for an explanation. Donohue explained who he was and told him that he feared that the government, as represented by himself, would have to know the contents of the Finnessey pockets.

"Hist!" he said. "I am a policeman—of Scotland yard. My business is private, and I cannot imagine why I am suspected."

Donohue, who has a weakness for sleuths, explained to the man that he was not suspected, but that it was just the custom to look at pockets, and that pockets that bulged were of unusual interest. Still protesting, the policeman turned his pockets out for the government representative. They contained a bunch of "crook" photographs, a camera, a heavy pair of handcuffs and two revolvers.

After they were all "turned out" Donohue said that there was nothing there that the government would care for, Finnessey gathered them up. He remarked as he did so: "This is a 'ell of a country!"

DOG WAS IMPARTIAL.

A question as to the ownership of a dog, which is described as being "a cross between a bull and a skye terrier," was the cause of a heated debate between Antoine Dentoine, an Italian, and William Dude, a restaurant keeper, before Justice Rab at the Northwestern police station yesterday morning, says the Baltimore American. Both men claimed the animal, which was valued at $10, and Dentoine had Dude arrested on the charge of stealing it.

There were a score of witnesses for each side, including the dog, which wandered from Dentoine to Dude with great impartiality. Both claimed to have raised it from infancy, and the magistrate was in a quandary, but finally suggested to leave it to the dog, which stood in a corner of the room. Dude called it "Spot," and it answered promptly. Dentoine addressed it as "Jack," and it trotted to his side just as quickly.

The justice's brow was clouded. He

AN EMBARGO ON SOFT COAL EAST

Pennsylvania Railroad Stops Movement East of Altoona Indefinitely.

SAYS ROAD IS BLOCKED

Move Regarded as Evidence of Road's Interest in Anthracite Combine—Pittsburgh Shipped 250,000 Tons East Last Month.

The Pennsylvania railroad, party to the combine of the anthracite roads, has placed an embargo on shipments of bituminous coal from the Pittsburgh district and adjacent districts east of Altoona. This will handicap the profitable business in soft coal in the eastern markets, where large quantities have been going to take the place of the product of the idle collieries.

The embargo, to continue indefinitely, was announced by the railroad transportation officials on the eve of the vote of the anthracite miners to return to work. The reason assigned is the blocked condition of the road.

While the anthracite strike was on and with its termination uncertain, the bituminous coal producers had a harvest in the eastern markets. The great Pittsburgh producing district has not profited in comparison with those farther east and with the Virginia producers, who have always been in the habit of sending large quantities of bituminous coal to the seaboard; but the shipments of bituminous coal from this district rose from practically nothing, for domestic consumption in the east, to about 250,000 tons last month, and the ratio of shipment has been increased in the movements this month. These eastern shipments of last month added to gross earnings of the producers little less than $1,000,000.

The Pennsylvania railroad is alone in its embargo against coal to the east. The Baltimore & Ohio has only an embargo against the make-shift business which has sprung up through the extreme shortage and high prices paid in the east. The freight traffic on coal to the east provided only for shipment from mines and river interests, which were ready to secure some of the profitable eastern business by loading cars with hoists from the coal barges, have been discouraged from this. Operators of small mines have been securing cars and loading them after a wagon haul. This interfered with the heavier movement from mines on the line, and the Baltimore & Ohio people have stopped it.

Last month the Pennsylvania railroad carried about 100,000 tons of bituminous coal from the Pittsburgh district to the eastern markets, the Baltimore & Ohio about 50,000 tons, and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh about 100,000 tons. This movement will now drop off with the resumption of anthracite shipments.

A recent trip east over the main line of the Pennsylvania showed a continuation of coal trains moving east and empty cars coming back. Meantime, the car supply has been inadequate to fulfill the Pittsburgh coal contracts in the northwest, delivered over the lakes.

More mines are being thrown idle daily. A dozen or more of the Pittsburgh Coal Company mines were forced out yesterday because there were no cars at hand.

COUNCILMEN ENGAGE IN HOT ARGUMENTS

Contractors' Extra Bills and Diamond Street Widening Repealer Arouse Storm.

The members of the public works committee of councils held a stormy session in City hall yesterday afternoon. While the affair only lasted an hour, much bitterness and feeling was shown by the Citizen and Organization members. Charges were made by the former that organization men wanted the Diamond alley ordinance repealed, to be used as a club to secure votes at the election.

Then some of the members of the committee wanted to know if the department of public works could obligate the city to pay any amount over $200 for extra work on contracts let according to plans and specifications. The latter question caused quite a good deal of heated argument.

The matter was brought about by the presentation to the committee of a number of bills for extras done by contractors. These invoices ranged from a few dollars to $11,000. On the motion of Councilman Wasson the bills were referred to the city solicitor for his opinion. Charges were made that favored contractors took jobs at lower figures and when they were completed and the city was compelled to settle, the total cost of the work amounted to more than it would have originally been had it been given to a higher bidder.

Councilman E. H. Douglas was in the chair when the committee met at 3 o'clock, and the first proposition taken up was a repealing act for the ordinance providing for the widening of Diamond alley. It was stated on the authority of the city solicitor that the property holders in the alley were filing exceptions to the viewers' report and that the city might have to bear all the expense.

The city solicitor suggested that the ordinance be rescaled or put in shape to be repealed at any time in order to protect the city from loss. It was also his advice that a petition be circulated among the property owners along the alley to get them to agree not to file exceptions.

It was Attorney Carnahan's idea that the city will be compelled to pay from $200,000 to $500,000 for the widening. The estimated damages so far are $200,000 from the city and about $1,300,000 will be claimed if the alley is widened.

The ordinance was finally referred back to common council with an affirmative recommendation.

The following ordinances were affirmatively recommended: Grading, paving and curbing Griffin, Sterrett, Orphan, Beatty, Matthew, Fifty-seventh, Mellon and Mathilda streets, Darlington road and Bellefonte avenue; grading Charles street and Glenwood avenue and opening Mission street. A resolution to pay a bill for diving at Brilliant station of $1,890 20, was affirmatively recommended.

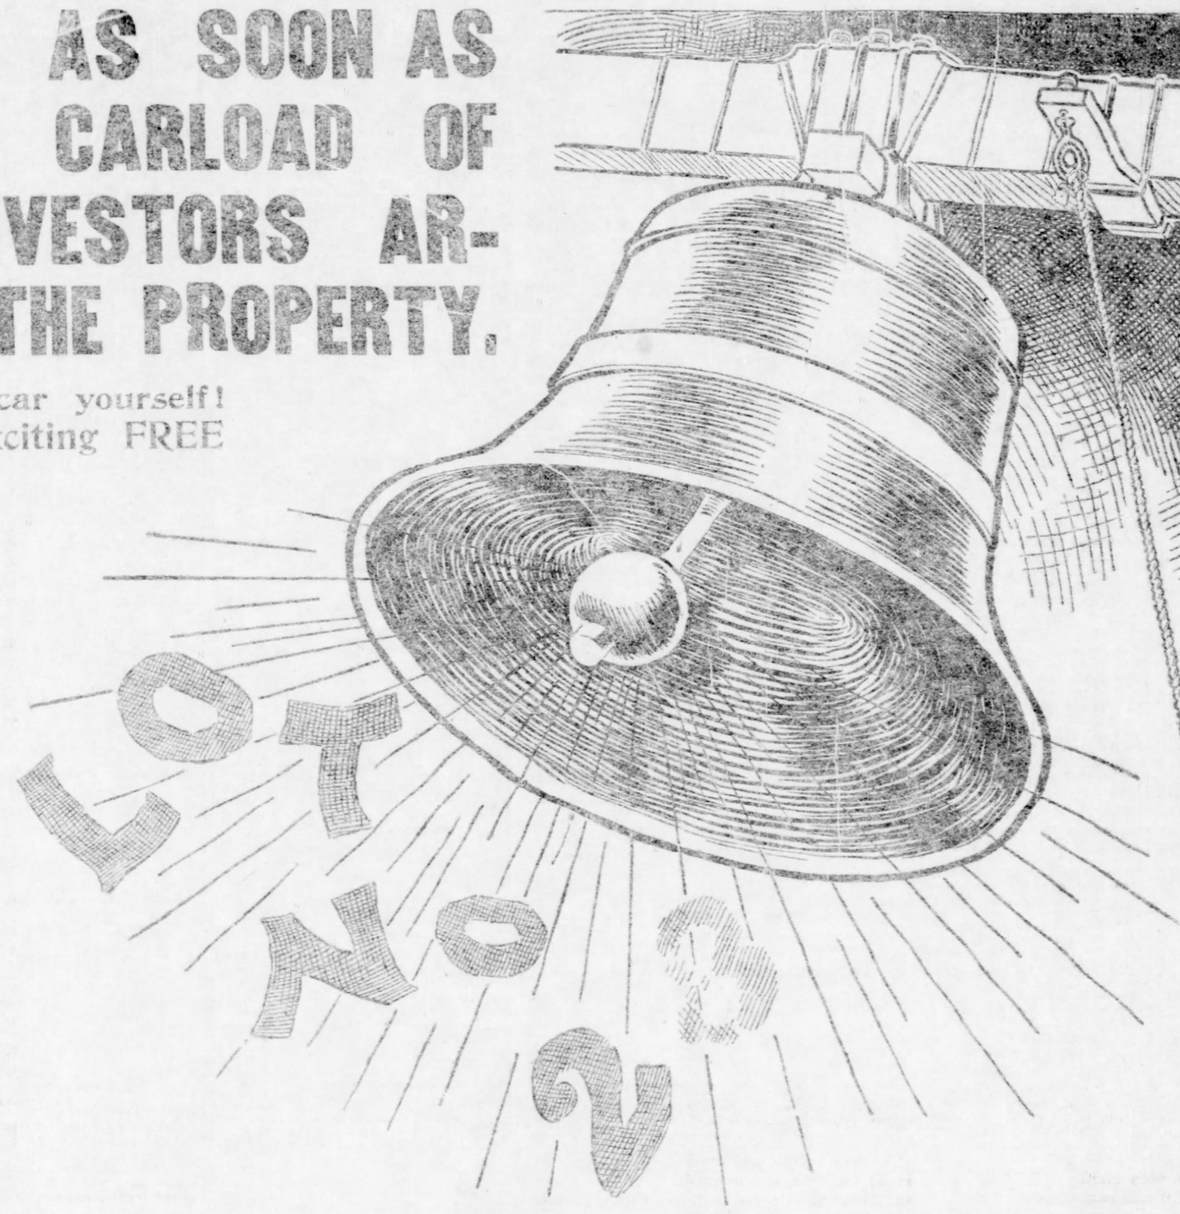
CHADWICK SALE OF LOTS TODAY, OCTOBER 25th.

IT STARTS AS SOON AS THE FIRST CARLOAD OF SHREWD INVESTORS ARRIVES ON THE PROPERTY.



Be on the first car yourself! Keep in mind the exciting FREE LOT distribution.

When the Lemington Avenue school bell peals forth be ready to grasp opportunity! Three lots priced $400, $350 and $250 will be given away!

Read how this stirring idea will be carried out!

Promptly at 11 A. M. the bell of the Lemington Avenue school House will ring out same as the fire alarm the plan number of the first lot that is to be given away.

When the bell has ceased ringing the party who stands on the lot bearing the number proclaimed by the school bell will be made a present of that lot free of all charge.

If there be no one on the lot then the party who is standing nearest to it will be awarded the lot in question.

If there be two or more persons on the lot bearing the winning number, then the individual who happens at that particular moment to have the largest amount of United States money in his pocket will be counted the winner.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the second lot will be given away on exactly the same terms and conditions. Precisely at 4 P. M. the third lot will be given away in a like manner and under like circumstances.

There will be no favoritism shown. Take note of the fact that we do not state "the purchaser who stands on the lot." Therefore the chance is open to everybody.

The proposition is different from most free-gift propositions. It is not a reduction in prices under the name of "free-gift." Instead of cutting prices we have been compelled to continually advance them against our own will in fairness to ourselves, demonstrating that we opened and have maintained our property at prices that mean a growing investment for our customers.

It never does to make prices at the start higher than the property has advanced to in value. It is better to make them lower, like we did. Then you get the confidence of the public. Besides, under our procedure, you don't have to wait years and years to make a profit. Real estate promoters must remember that the public is not asleep. Offering thousands of dollars in prizes is as attractive as it looks. But how does it look? It tells investors what they want to know before they investigate.

Remember that the Splendid Chadwick Annex Lots will be sold during this sale at prices ranging from $100 to $650. The terms are 10 per cent. down, the balance $5 to $15 a month, 10 per cent discount for cash. The title is perfect and guaranteed by the Fidelity Title & Trust Company.

Bear in mind how Chadwick Investors are already making big turns on their shrewd investments. We resold for one of our customers lot No. 456 Monday at an advance of $700 more than he paid for it, and received a letter from a lady in Columbus, O., who owns lot No. 84 not to accept less than $600 for this lot, for which she paid only $425. Lot No. 542 that was purchased for $325 has been resold for $700.

Look at Chadwick's wonderful location!

You get a comprehensive idea of just where Chadwick lies when we tell you that it is in the Twenty-first Ward, fronting on Lincoln Avenue, only a stone's throw from the Lemington Avenue Public School Building, commanding an unobstructed view of Highland Park and the reservoirs. It will be but a step from the beautiful park that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has offered as an inducement to have the city vacate a street that it will require to complete its route. This park will be 95 acres in extent, located between Chadwick and the Beechwood Boulevard.

The cars marked "East Liberty via Center Avenue," passing the property every three minutes, make the run from Chadwick to the city without transfer in 32 minutes.

If you get on the Frankstown Avenue line you can get transfer to Lincoln, and on returning to city you can get transfer to any car going either East or West.

CATCH A CAR MARKED "EAST LIBERTY VIA CENTER AVENUE," AT THE CORNER OF WOOD ST. AND 5TH AVE. AND RIDE DIRECT WITHOUT TRANSFER OVER LINCOLN AVENUE BRIDGE TO THE PROPERTY.

HARD COAL MEN HEAR THE TRUTH

Pennypacker Congratulates Anthracite Region on End of Strike.

CREDIT TO REPUBLICANS

No Thanks to the Democratic Leaders Who Depended Upon Continuance of the Struggle for Their Chance of Victory.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 24.—In the heart of the anthracite region, amid the rejoicings over the settlement of the strike, Judge Pennypacker and ex-Senator Brown of the Republican gubernatorial party, accompanied by Attorney General Elkin, tonight received an ovation in the Lyceum theater, which was crowded from the lobby to the rear of the big stage and from pit to dome with an audience that applauded to the echo the telling points of the spellbinders and cheered to the echo every reference to the settlement of the coal strike by the aid of President Roosevelt and Senators Quay and Penrose.

Grouped around the candidates were ex-Congressman Scranton, who presided; Congressman Connell, Deputy Attorney General Fleitz and hundreds of others. Prior to the meeting these gentlemen, with County Chairman Taylor, ex-Judge Carpenter, Thomas H. Dale, Maj. Everett Warren, Maj. T. F. Penman, ex-Representative Williams, Frank Becker, ex-Mayor Moir and John H. Thomas tendered a reception to the candidates at the county committee rooms.

Pennypacker on Strike Settlement.

The meeting was called to order by ex-Congressman Scranton, who introduced Judge Pennypacker as a notable example of the office seeking the man.

Amid continued applause Judge Pennypacker spoke of the benefits conferred by the Republican party on Pennsylvania, which had enabled Scranton to take such great strides in industrial and municipal importance. Great varieties, he urged, should be judged by the results of their work, and then showed that the Republican party had always been the party of progress, even compelling the Democratic party to trail along and share in the benefits of wise protective legislation.

Referring to the recent coal strike, he said it had affected every man, woman and child in the country, and asked what Democrat had raised his hand to relieve the situation.

The hopes of the Democratic party for success in the present campaign depended on a continuance of the strike, but owing to the work of the United States senators from this state, and of the strenuous president of the nation, the strike had been settled; the miners had gone back to work, the troops could go back to their homes and the hopes of the Democratic party had disappeared. The only thing left for the Democratic orators, he said, is fault-finding, which is like the "dismal croaking of a night bird in a graveyard."

Attorney General Elkin Cheered.

As Chairman Scranton introduced Attorney General Elkin as the second speaker, the attorney general was given a splendid ovation. Speaking of the Democratic party, he said it was a wonderful party, considering that it had always been wrong on every question that affected the interests of the American people, and could always come up smiling and ask the American people to forgive and forget the past. He said that when he recalled the terrible financial disaster which followed the success of the Democratic party in 1892, he could not understand why any Democrat should want his party to be successful again.

Continuing Mr. Elkin said:

What would become of some of us if you would strike down the Republican party and take us back to the dreadful days we had during the last Cleveland administration? This is not a time for disappointed ambitions or personal grievances. Rally around the old party once more, because it means so much for the American people. Think of what it has accomplished. Where is there an American whose heart does not thrill with patriotic fervor when he recalls what has been done during this century since 1800? American genius and American enterprise have already captured the markets of the world and challenged the admiration of the peoples of every clime. Think of it. American locomotives today pierce the shadows of the pyramids and steam down into darkest Africa. Over in Great Britain, in France, in Russia, off in Manchuria, down the valleys which lead to the sacred Ganges, American locomotives are running on American rails. American windmills are pumping water for the bulls of Bashan on the hills of Palestine.

So we might go on enumerating the great things accomplished by the nation under Republican rule, and Pennsylvania stands foremost among the states of the union for her credit, her enterprise and her productions.

Brown Shows Democratic Dilemma.

Senator Brown trenchantly criticised Democratic campaigners for their villification and abuse of everything they don't agree with, and urged that when asked their opinion of the great laws on the administration of which depend the very life of millions of toilers, the Democratic orators answered with slander. Continuing, Mr. Brown said:

"They do not want to discuss the issues most important to the people. They know Mr. Bacr is a Democrat, and they can't discuss the question of trusts."

Said the speaker amid applause and laughter: "They can't discuss the issues that the people of New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and every other state are discussing, and that is the reason they are indulging in vituperation, scandal and abuse."

Mr. Brown was loudly applauded as he handled the Democrats without gloves, his reference to Mr. Bacr giving especial satisfaction to the great audience.

The meeting closed with an address by ex-District Attorney Schaffer of Delaware county, who brought forth a whirlwind of applause as he said that the men who are doing the most important work for the Republican party today are not the orators who speak from the platform or the hustings, but those who speak through the music of the anvil and the loom—the great American wage earners.

The meeting was dismissed with three cheers for the whole Republican ticket.

The candidates will tomorrow night meet the voters of Luzerne county at Wilkesbarre.

Big Republican Meeting.

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Nearly 1,500 people packed the opera house tonight at the last Republican meeting here of the campaign. The speakers were Congressman Sibley, C. W. Mackey of Oil City, Maj. Alexander McDowell and J. M. Evans of Sharon.

Convicted for Third Time.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Oct. 24.—The federal grand jury tonight rendered a verdict of guilty in the case of J. M. McKnight, former president of the defunct German National bank of Louisville, on the charge of embezzling the bank's funds. Mr. McKnight was twice convicted and sentenced on this charge, and on another trial there was a hung jury.

Hanna Continues Tour.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 24.—Senator M. A. Hanna, who spoke here last night, resumed his Indiana tour today. Although his throat was causing him slight trouble, he said he anticipated no interference with his campaign plans. Accompanying him were Senators Fairbanks and Beveridge.

AN UGLY COLLISION IN THE AUTO RACES

Two Machines Collided and One Was Badly Wrecked but Chauffeur Was Not Hurt.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

DETROIT, Oct. 24.—The opening day of the Detroit Automobile association's two days of races at the Grosse Pointe track was marked by a collision in the 10-mile handicap. I. D. Maxwell, a local chauffeur, in the third mile of the race, came up behind Alexander Winton of Cleveland and running too close in an attempt to pass the Cleveland man, struck the latter's machine. Winton continued on his course ignorant of the collision, but Maxwell's machine, which was running probably 40 miles an hour, skidded across the track landing bottomside up against the outside fence. Luckily, Maxwell was thrown from his machine before it was overturned and so escaped with bad bruises and sprains.

It was not a record-breaking day, though the track was fast. Alexander Winton, in his 2,400-pound gasoline machine, made an exhibition five miles in 5:28, the time of the last mile being 1:04 4-5, beating the record of the track, which was 1:06 2-5.

Barney Oldfield of Detroit, in a 2,300-pound 70-horse power gasoline machine, made an exhibition two miles in 2:13. Summary:

First race, 5 miles, steam road machines under 2,000 pounds—Windsor T. White, Cleveland, won. Time, 10:42. John McDonald of Geneva, O., also started.

Second race, 5 miles, 1,000 pounds and under—J. G. Reiners (steam), Chicago, won; I. D. Maxwell (gasoline), Detroit, second; W. Wigle (gasoline), Detroit, third. Time, 10:51 4-5. D. B. Huss, J. L. McNamara, Joseph J. Miller and George R. Hines of Detroit, also started with gasoline machines.

Third race, 5 miles, 2,000 and under, gasoline vehicles—H. S. Harkness of New York, won. Time, 6:01 2-5. Charles B. Shanks of Cleveland also started.

Fourth race, 10-mile handicap—J. L. McNamara (gasoline), Detroit, won on 6½ minutes' allowance; H. L. Harkness, New York (gasoline), 1½ minutes, second; Windsor T. White, Cleveland (steam), 3 minutes, third. McNamara's time, 18:15 1-5. Alexander Winton was the only scratch man, his time being 17:45 1-5. W. C. Buckman, Geneva, O.; C. B. Shanks, Cleveland; W. V. Newman, Detroit; A. Y. Malcomson, Detroit; I. D. Maxwell, Detroit, and J. J. Miller, Detroit, also started.

Fifth race, 2 miles, electric—W. C. Baker, Cleveland, won. Time, 4:14. Best mile 1:42. Jackson Brady of Detroit also started.

Sixth race, 220-yard obstacle—W. C. Baker of Cleveland won.

SOLID NORTHWEST.

Col. Dick of Meadville Tells What That Section of the State Will Do for Pennypacker.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—"The northwestern counties, without exception, stand solidly for Pennypacker. He will carry Crawford with a margin of at least 1,000. Erie, Venango, Warren, Mercer, Butler and McKean are all right, and will give increased Republican majorities. Lawrence and Beaver are always tight, and this gives us unbroken the northwest corner."

Col. S. B. Dick of Meadville made this prediction to your correspondent tonight.

"Sibley and Bates will be reelected to congress by tremendous majorities," continued Col. Dick, "and in all the counties mentioned we will elect our legislative candidates. Pennypacker and the state ticket Brown ought to come to Philadelphia with not less than 75,000 majority. It looks as though it would be unanimous here. A quarter of a million, the first estimate of Chairman Quay for the Republican state ticket, is not extravagant, and I would not be surprised if we go higher."

ONE POPULAR LANDLORD.

Earl Cadogan Says Agitators Misrepresent the Irish People.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Earl Cadogan, the former lord lieutenant of Ireland, entertaining his tenants and the employes on his estate at Bury St. Edmunds today, said he could not forget the generous demonstration on his departure from Ireland and added:

"Those who are supposed to represent Ireland in parliament do not really typify the feelings and desires of the Irish, who, owing to the prevalence of agitators, appear to all nations far worse and less Christian than they really are."

Cockerill Is Acquitted.

COMPTON, KY., Oct. 24.—The jury in the case of Tom Cockerill, charged with the murder of Ben Hargis, returned a verdict of not guilty today. In the fight in which Hargis lost his life Cockerill was severely wounded. The killing was one of many that have occurred as a result of a bitter feud between the Cockerill and Hargis factions.

England Orders Fast Warships.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The British admiralty has given out contracts for the construction of three warships, described as "scouts." They will have a speed of 25½ knots when in fighting trim, their engines will be of 17,000 horsepower and their sea-going qualities will be superior to those of the torpedo boat destroyers.

Victim of Buffalo Fire.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The body of Capt. Laurence Greene, a well-known lake captain, was found today in the ruins of the Union Steamboat Company's freight house. Capt. Greene had not been seen since the fire. He was 60 years old.

ON THE RANCH.

Western Air and Proper Food Give Long Life.

The fine bracing air of the far west is sometimes counteracted by bad food. A combination of good food and air, however, is pretty hard to beat.

Out in Wood Lake, Neb., Mrs. Paul Kennfcott lives on a ranch; she has to send in to Omaha for most of the necessities of life and got her first supply of Postum in that way.

She writes that for nearly a year she has used Postum Coffee exclusively and many who stopped with her, as they frequently do on the ranch, could not tell it from the best brand of coffee. We quote a portion of her letter as her reason for using Postum exclusively in the household.

She says: "I know it has had a beneficial effect on my family, I hear very little complaint of dull headache as I used to when we drank coffee; as for myself, I was so troubled with palpitation and aching of my heart that I consulted a physician and was told that I had serious heart trouble which would necessitate my giving up everything but the lightest housework. But now after a busy summer's work, doing the cooking for my family, which with the hired help, numbers 8 and 10 persons, I can say that I have had no trouble with my heart and my general health is excellent.

"I wish all coffee drinkers could realize how they are undermining their health by its use and would change to that best of all drinks, Postum Coffee. I wish to add that we use a package of Grape-Nuts a day which will attest the favor in which the food as well as the coffee is held by my family."

SOWING THE SEED IN ROCKY GROUND

Pattison's Party Tackles the Third Strongest Republican County.

GRIEST IS THE LEADER

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 24.—In the hope of reducing the usual big Republican majority in Lancaster the Democratic candidates spent a part of the day in the county. Manheim and this city were the points visited, and in both towns were the candidates well received. Tonight every available inch of space in the court house was utilized.

In presidential years Lancaster rolls up a Republican majority of 16,000. That high-water mark will not be reached this fall. The majority, doubtless, will be large, but in off years it is difficult to induce the people to go to the polls. A majority of 12,000 would be an excellent showing for this year.

For some reason the Democratic state candidates have got the impression that the Republican margin will be held down to about 7,000, and some even place it at 5,000. In November Pattison and his friends will discover that they simply have been dreaming about Lancaster. The Republicans are not conducting a hurrah campaign. It is a quiet, systematic hunt for votes. This is the third largest Republican community in the state.

Where Griest Is Leader.

W. W. Griest, secretary of the commonwealth, is the undisputed Republican leader of Lancaster county. He is devoting his time these days to seeing that a good Republican vote is out. Mr. Griest is well satisfied with the progress of the campaign. He predicts that Lancaster will give the usual off-year majority. Congressman Bird Cassell will be reelected by a large majority.

The first stop today was at Lebanon. This afternoon a good-sized meeting was held there. Pattison and Guthrie added nothing new to the political utterances of the campaign. Nolan, the candidate for secretary of internal affairs, made this statement, which indicates that he has little hope of Democratic success this fall.

"I don't care a tinker's damn whether I get a vote in the whole state of Pennsylvania."

The indications are that Pennypacker will get a majority of 2,000 this fall in Lebanon. This will mean the election of the two Republican members of the legislature. There is a Democratic ticket assembly ticket, but the independents who won victories in the past in Lebanon are not back of it. By a harmony arrangement, the warring factions in the party were brought together this fall.

At Gen. Gobin's Home.

In the home of Lieut. Gov. J. P. S. Gobin this afternoon Pattison again misquoted Gobin when he said Gobin had declared that at the last session of the legislature the United States senatorship had been put upon the auction block and sold to the highest bidder. Pattison also repeated his charge, the falsity of which has been exposed, that the journal of the last house has not been distributed.

A short stop was made in Manheim, Lancaster county, this afternoon. Pattison talked for about 15 minutes to 200 people. The party was then brought here on a special trolley car and was entertained at dinner at the Hamilton club by ex-Attorney General Hensel.

The gathering in the court house tonight was larger than expected. About 150 Franklin and Marshall college students attended the meeting and gave a special yell for each of the three candidates. Mr. Hensel presided and speeches were made by Pattison, Guthrie, Nolan, State Chairman Creasy, James A. Stranahan and Col. Spangler.

The party left here tonight for Clarion, where an afternoon meeting will be held. The evening gathering will be at Butler.

What Is the Best Piano?

A great deal of gush is sometimes indulged in as to the relative merits of this thing or that, but it is a significant fact that in the most cultured musical circles no one ever dissents from the assertion that the Steinway piano is the only perfect instrument.

It is so easy to prove that an instrument is meritorious in some detail, but the claim that of being perfect in ALL details belongs only to the Steinway.

Just stop to consider what the possession of one of these noble pianos means to any family. We are forced to admit that everyone is glad to know that he enjoys whatever advantages accrue from having the most meritorious article of whatever description. Such possession undoubtedly gives anyone a certain prestige. In the case of the Steinway it is certainly true that one's acquaintances at least tacitly admit that one has exercised nice discrimination—and that one also has such financial resources as make it possible to procure the best.

Go where you may—all over the United States or to any city in Europe—and you'll hear the same story of Steinway supremacy. And this is not strange. The Steinway has long been the favorite instrument in the royal courts, where it was adopted in preference to all other pianos on the market.

In buying a piano the whole thing resolves itself into this question: Shall I secure the best in the world, or as good a piano as my means warrant?

Eastern Pennsylvania Capitalists Examine Chicago System.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—A party of 56 capitalists from eastern Pennsylvania, representing an aggregate wealth of over $2,000,000, arrived in Chicago this afternoon on a special train from the east. They are bondholders of the Illinois Telephone and Telegraph Company and came here to inspect the 14 miles of subways already completed under the streets in the downtown business district of Chicago and the extensive plant of the Automatic Electric Company. This latter is the largest switchboard manufacturing concern in the world.

It is said that several hundred men are employed in the factory turning out "secret" telephones, which the new company is preparing to install so as to do away with the services of girls employed for work at switchboards. These secret telephones will furnish what is known as "instantaneous service."

Corrugated Suction Teeth

Have a soft corrugated suction and will not fall when biting on one side or the other, the soft palate simply gives. When it comes in contact with hard places in the mouth, as does the fire on a bicycle to small projections on the road—"understand"—Other makes of teeth may give a fair suction, but extreme pressure when biting hard substances makes them rock, which breaks the suction, letting them fall. ## COMBES EMULATES ROOSEVELT.

French Premier Endeavors to Settle Coal Strike by Arbitration.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Premier Combes had two hours' conference with the national committee of the Miners' Federation today, and the latter agreed to submit the demands of the miners to arbitration, which, the committee declared, ought to include the establishment of a minimum wage and regulation of the hours of work.

M. Combes will next consult the delegates of the companies. The action of the French premier is regarded here as evidently being emulation of President Roosevelt's intervention in the coal strike in the United States.

ONDITION DARK IN FAR HAWAII

Judiciary Brings Scandal Upon Administration of Justice.

SCUM FROM STATES

Criminals and Deserters from Ships Power in Politics—Native Population Decreases. Chinese Labor Needed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The Rev. Dr. Alexander Twombly, who has been a resident of Hawaii for some time, addressed the Mohonk Indian conference on the present situation in those islands. He said that conditions there were dark and depressing. The times are hard, owing to unwise and demagogic action of the local legislature, dominated by the home rule party.

Crime, drunkenness, idleness and other vices were on the increase. He attributed most of the evils existing to the practically unlimited suffrage conferred upon the people which had thrown political power so largely in the hands of the ignorant, incapable and unreliable elements of the population, thus rendering the way easy for the greedy, selfish and corrupt politicians and self-seekers to further their own schemes.

The worst elements in Hawaii today, he declared, were the low-down American carpet baggers, adventurers and other scum from the states, who had drifted there in recent years. Some of these men had obtained federal appointments in the judiciary and other offices and had brought shame and scandal upon the administration of law and justice.

All Are Now Voters.

Added to this element were the deserters from ships, professional criminals and many "never do wells" from the states who had come there since annexation, but who are now voters.

The dominance of elements like these in the politics and legislation of the islands constituted one of the gravest perils of the situation, said Mr. Twombly. A limitation upon the franchise seemed to be absolutely imperative if the local government was ever to be administered on a wise, honest and economical basis. Another danger was that the interests of Hawaii would be put more and more in the background in the future colonial policy of the United States or subordinated to other interests which were antagonistic.

An address by the Rev. Douglass Birnie, who has been a pastor in Honolulu for several years, followed. He confirmed what Dr. Twombly said in regard to the evils arising from an ignorant, corruptible and irresponsible vote which had given an opportunity to unscrupulous politicians and schemers. He drew a dark picture of existing conditions in the islands, and said that the only hope for the future lay in a wise restriction of the suffrage, the introduction of Chinese labor upon the sugar plantations and a reform of the judiciary.

He said that the native population had been reduced to about 30,000; was rapidly dying out, and would soon disappear entirely. The speaker laid special emphasis upon the labor factor as an element in the industrial and commercial future of the islands. The chief resources of Hawaii now and in the future, he said, must be the sugar industry and this could be successfully conducted only by Chinese labor. The Chinese, however, are shut out by the exclusion law and this was bringing disaster and ruin to Hawaii. The speaker thought that if the law could be so modified as to admit Chinese labor for the exclusive purpose of working the sugar cane plantations the situation would be greatly relieved and prosperity for all classes would follow. He spoke highly of the Chinese laborers in contrast with other elements of the population and said that they were honest, industrious, temperate and peaceable.

A native Porto Rican, a student at the New Paltz (New York) Normal school, described the changes which have taken place in Porto Rico since the American occupation. He said that many of the native people who had first looked with disfavor upon the new government were now satisfied and happy, owing to the many and obvious advantages they now enjoyed unknown to them before. The chief of these benefits, he said, had come from the institution of better schools and a higher grade of education throughout the island.

COMMITTEE FAVORS FIRE PROTECTION

Finance Members Recommend Ordinance for Bettering Water Service.

The committee on finance yesterday returned to councils with an affirmative recommendation the ordinance from select council relative to the betterment of the downtown water supply, with the suggestion that early and prompt action be taken on the measure. An identical ordinance, which originated in common council, was also before the committee and D. J. Wainwright wanted it sent to common council, with a similar recommendation, but his suggestion was not entertained, as the machine wants to claim credit for the improvement, which has been urged all along by the Citizens.

City Solicitor Carnahan rendered an opinion on a petition for the annexation of a portion of Sterrett township. He said the petition should be returned negatively, as it only asked that a portion of the township be annexed, instead of the whole, and trouble would arise over the settlement of indebtedness. Further, he said the accompanying plan did not show the plot properly. His suggestion was acted upon and the petition returned negatively.

The ordinance authorizing a temporary loan to meet apparent deficiencies in the city treasury was laid over, the matter being not considered urgent at the present time.

A resolution for the payment of about $2,000 expenses incurred in Schenley park during the Fourth of July celebration met the same fate, as the bills were not presented in proper form. Several resolutions authorizing warrants drawn in favor of the P. & A. Telephone Company for service rendered the city were referred to the city solicitor as to the legality of the claim.

Resolutions authorizing the payment of a number of bills were affirmatively recommended, as were ordinances transferring certain balances in the general paving fund for the completion of the Stanton and Negley avenue pavements.

LONDON TO SEE ROYALTY PARADE

Delayed Coronation Procession to Be Given Today.

DISPLAY FOR POPULACE

Affair Has Been Arranged to Allay Disappointment Because the Second Day's Program at the Crowning Was Abandoned.

London, Oct. 24.—The royal progress through London tomorrow, which has been arranged at considerable expense with the object of allaying the disappointment caused by the abandonment of the second day's procession at the time of King Edward's coronation, promises to be a less fashionable than a popular display. The route is fairly profusely dotted with Venetian masts and the habitual grayness of the streets is relieved by flags, festoons and garlands of paper flowers, while a few of the more ambitious districts have erected arches.

Among the wealthier ones, however, who usually bear the brunt of making a success of such occasions, there is a decided lack of interest. The fashionable thoroughfares, Picadilly and St. James street, will not be traversed, so the wealthy owners of houses which are customarily lavishly decorated have not even taken the trouble to return to town for the occasion.

Much curiosity has been aroused by the disappearance of the names of the king's daughters from the list of those participating in the procession. Neither the princesses of Wales, Fife, nor Charles of Denmark are included in the latest official program, though they appeared in the earlier ones. Across the Thames, however, where the presence of members of the royal family is practically unknown, there will doubtless be a great turning out of the South Siders, who are decorating their small houses and shops with great wealth of color, if little of art. Seats over the water are selling for 60 cents, and the few stands erected in the West End lack customers sufficient to fill them.

The procession will start from Buckingham palace at noon and will consist of the headquarters staff, a naval gun and a detachment of bluejackets, squadrons of horse guards, dragoons, hussars and lancers and eight state landaus with the royal family and members of the household, the rear being brought up by Lord Roberts, the sovereign's escort of life guards, the state carriage containing the king and queen, escorted by the prince of Wales, duke of Connaught, duke of Argyll, Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein and Prince Charles of Denmark, and a score of equerries and aids.

Their majesties will lunch at the Guild hall and will return to the palace at 3 o'clock. The route of the procession will be lined by about 20,000 troops.

Nearly 400 recipients of coronation war honors were invested by King Edward at Buckingham palace today. The investiture was carried out in the hall room with unusual ceremony. All the great officers of state were present, and the scene was particularly brilliant, as all the participants, in accordance with the king's instructions, wore all the ribbons, orders or medals they possessed.

TODAY'S ORGAN RECITALS.

Walter E. Hall Will Substitute for E. H. Lemare Again—Ecker's Program.

The free organ recital this evening at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall will be given by Walter E. Hall, who, at the request of the committee on music hall, substitutes for Edwin H. Lemare, who will take up his work in Pittsburgh in two weeks.

The five hundred and sixty-fourth Ecker organ recital will be given this afternoon in the Carnegie Music hall, Allegheny, at 3 o'clock. Organist Ecker will be assisted by Miss Margaret Dalley, soprano; Miss Susie Dalley, accompanist, and Robert Lawrence, elocutionist.

DAMROSCH ON THE STAND.

His Testimony in the Libel Case Strong in Favor of Composer Herbert.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The trial of Victor Herbert's suit for $50,000 damages for libel against the Musical Courier brought out some interesting testimony late this afternoon when Walter Damrosch testified for the plaintiff in rebuttal. His testimony was largely technical.

"Is there anything in the music of Herbert that is peculiar to the man himself?" he was asked.

"Most assuredly. All his work is distinctly Herbertian, and is so recognized by musicians generally."

Regarding the alleged similarity between page 43 of "The Singing Girl" and "The Palms," he said: "They are alike, in so far as the introduction to the theme is the same in both cases. It is as though two authors began stories, 'Once upon a time.' Such comparisons do not reflect on the originality of the composer in the slightest degree. Accidental resemblances occur a hundred times among the great masters, Beethoven, Bach, Chopin and Mendelssohn."

The case will continue on Monday, with Mr. Damrosch on the stand.

WORK INCREASES IN COAL REGION

Twenty-Two More Mines in Operation Yesterday Than on Thursday.

ARE FEWER COMPLAINTS

Markle's Men Hold Meeting and Decide to Continue Strike. Non-Union Men Are Leaving Field in Large Numbers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 24.—There were 22 more mines in operation in the anthracite region today than yesterday and the output will be close to 100,000 tons. From reports received, the total output yesterday did not exceed 75,000 tons. When in full operation the mines employ in every capacity about 145,000 men and boys. Of this number it is estimated that 82,000 were at work today.

A more amicable feeling prevails today between employer and employe than yesterday. The excitement over the commencement of work yesterday wore off somewhat today. In other words, there was more work and less talk. Fewer complaints were also received at President Mitchell's headquarters. The non-union men, despite what may be said to the contrary, are slowly being displaced by many of the mines and the old employes are taking their places.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western company continues to lead in production. Its mines are in good condition and were less friction between the district superintendents and the men who have returned to work.

Wants His Old Employes.

Ex-Congressman M. B. Williams, one of the largest individual operators in the Wyoming region, said his mines would not be in readiness to resume before next week, but he would take all his old employes, including steam men, back because, he claimed, they had served him faithfully in the past. The trouble with the individual operators in the Lehigh region is expected to blow over in a day or two, and it is said on good authority that all colliefies in the Lehigh and Schuylkill regions that are in condition to mine will resume next Monday, and that all the union miners will be re-employed.

When President Mitchell was asked today regarding the published report that there was some doubt whether he would be permitted to appear before the commission on behalf of the miners, he said that he presumed the miners could select any counsel they saw fit. Mr. Mitchell has received a call to Washington and will leave here Sunday afternoon.

Non-Union Man Whipped.

Stanley Mecalley, a Lithuanian miner, was enticed into a house occupied by one of his countrymen in this city last night, and after being stripped of his clothing was beaten unmercifully with a heavy rubber hose. He made his escape from the house more dead than alive. He was accused of working during the strike. Today six men were arrested charged with being implicated in the affair. They were committed to jail for trial.

SCRANTON, Oct. 24.—All of the companies in this region report today that large additions were made to their working forces, and that by Monday a start will have been made in all the collieries except those at which extensive repairs undertaken during the strike are not completed.

Superintendent Rose, of the Delaware & Hudson company, which operates 30 places, said today that he did not know of a single imported workman still in the company's employ. Other superintendents said very few remained.

Sheriff Schadt Satisfied.

Sheriff Schadt went to Wilkesbarre tonight and told Gen. Gobin he was satisfied to reassume the responsibility of taking care of Lackawanna county from now on.

HAZLETON, Oct. 24.—The employes of the G. B. Markle & Co. collieries and the men working at the Drifton mine of Coxe Bros. & Co., last night voted to continue on strike until the conditions under which they are to be taken back by those firms are changed.

The district officers of the United Mine Workers and committees representing the employes of the Markle, Coxe and A. Pardee collieries are at work tonight trying to adjust the complications that have arisen, with good prospects of an early settlement.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24.—It is stated here that not 50 per cent of the men who went out when the mine strike was declared in the Lykens valley region will get their places back, and that only a small number have started work.

READING, Oct. 24.—The first train of anthracite coal mined yesterday in the Reading Company's collieries was started from the Schuylkill region after midnight. It is probable the shipment for the 24 hours ending at midnight will be 6,000 to 7,000 tons, compared with the former daily run of 40,000 to 45,000 tons.

UNCONSCIOUS SINCE TUESDAY.

Markle Man Severely Injured and His Money Missing.

NEW KENSINGTON, PA., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Whether S. H. McLaughlin of Markle was attacked on Tuesday evening for the large sum of money he was supposed to carry or whether he was beaten for revenge is not now known, and the mystery may not be cleared until he regains consciousness. He returned on the evening train from Pittsburgh, and staggered into the house of Squire Calvin Beale, residing near Braeburn, battered and bruised. He was then and has since been unconscious. He is a bachelor, about 55 years of age.

He was in the habit of wearing a belt, so his brother states, and generally carried from $1,200 to $1,800 with him. His present condition and the fact that the belt cannot be found lead to the supposition that he was robbed. It is thought his skull is fractured, and that he may never regain consciousness. One man is under surveillance and may be arrested.

Trap Set for Gleo Dealers.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—A wholesale round-up of dealers in oleomargarine is expected here. It developed this evening that four government officers have been in the city for a week securing evidence and shadowing the suspects. The officers gave boys money and sent them to certain places after oleomargarine or butterine. The unsuspecting dealers sold the stuff without stamps, it according to law.

Hospital Declared a Nuisance.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—By unanimous vote of the township trustees today the detention hospital of Youngstown was declared a nuisance and its removal ordered. The hospital is in the township and the city is about to build additional buildings upon the land. It is near a school house and a short distance from the highway. The city will fight the case in court.

This Fellow Had Nerve.

ROCHESTER, PA., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—This evening a man entered the residence of S. S. Bennett, a prominent contractor, and, catching hold of Mrs. Bennett, forced her out of the house. The stranger, whose name is said to be William Mosley and his home at Pittsburgh, was ransacking the house when arrested by Chief of Police Lazarus.

DIED POOR WITH $10,000 INSURANCE

Youngstown Woman Sues on Policy Held by Her Father.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 24.—The first of a series of cases which will result in one of the most sensational fights to recover insurance money ever known in this county was filed this afternoon by Miss Janet Lynn to recover $500 insurance on the life of her father, John H. Lynn, from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Lynn, aged 65 years, died in Cincinnati on June 14 in a squalid house in a negro quarter. He was buried there, his daughter alone going to the funeral.

He had lived here for years and was connected with prominent people of the county. For several years past he had been considered queer and left his family to go to Cincinnati, living there by doing odd jobs. Following his death it was discovered that he carried some $10,000 insurance on his life, all taken out recently. He had but little property, and the large amount of insurance caused an investigation. The result was that all claims were ignored by the company which carried them.

An investigation was made and showed that one of the large policies was issued by a company whose medical examiner, it is claimed, examined the old man in a saloon, after he had taken liquor, and that the examination blank showed that he swore that he was a total abstainer. The state insurance commissioner took a hand in the investigation, and the company has since been awaiting for the heirs to begin suits against them.

Miss Lynn alleges in her petition just filed that the insurance policy for $500 was issued on June 25, 1900, and that the rate was to be for $500, $1.10 monthly payments. She said that at the request of the company she turned over the insurance policy on her father's life to be sent to New York to the home office for examination, and that they have refused to return it.

At Least One Fatality Expected From Accident Near Greensburg.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—By the collapse of a portion of the framework of the big foundry and machine shops being erected at Hunker by Greensburg capitalists, this morning, five men were seriously injured, one fatally. They are:

GEORGE ANDERSON, Hunker; injured internally and badly bruised about the head.

ELI WEAVER, Hunker; cut and bruised.

CHARLES BEESON, Uniontown; injured about the head.

A force of carpenters was raising the framework for one side of the structure. Albright and Boner were on the frame, which parted at one of the center joints, and both men were thrown to the ground. Anderson, Weaver and Beeson were struck by flying timbers. Greensburg doctors attended the injured men.

FOREST FIRE RAGING IN WESTMORELAND COUNTY

An Army of Farmers Has Succeeded in Checking the Blaze.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—A little army of men are fighting a fierce forest fire in the foothills of Chestnut Ridge, one-half mile south of Millwood, and within sight of the camp-meeting grounds of the Methodist Episcopal church, where many Pittsburghers own cottages. The fire, it is thought, was started by hunters yesterday afternoon with the burning wads from their guns.

A general alarm was sounded, and farmers by the score gathered to fight the fire with fire. Further up on the ridge leaves and light wood were collected and the torch applied. The two bodies of flame met early this morning, and in places the fire was checked.

The line of fire is over a mile in length and is burning fiercely tonight. The farmers are fighting it in details. Tonight it was stated that the flames had been checked. The camp-meeting grounds are not in danger.

STABBED TO DEATH IN BOARDING HOUSE

Fight Over a Woman Ends Fatally to Sharpsville Furnaceman.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHARON, PA., Oct. 24.—Nicholas Goatch, an Australian, aged 35, died today as the result of a knife wound received in a fight at Sharpsville. The fight is alleged to have taken place in his boarding house and arose over a woman.

Knives were drawn and Goatch was stabbed between the shoulders. Dr. Twitmyer attended him, but he did not believe the man would die. He grew worse, and before a physician was secured he died. Coroner T. O. Hazen is making an investigation.

Goatch was employed at the Sharpsville furnace and had been in this country about six months. Michael Zo and Maran Moroth, it is said, have disappeared, and it is alleged that the former did the cutting. Goatch's brother was also out.

Conway of the First Methodist church and other city ministers. The church will be a handsome one and will be completed early in the new year.

SMALLPOX AND HUNGER CAUSE MUCH SUFFERING

Many Afflicted Families in Fayette County Are Without Food.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Oct. 24.—Suffering from smallpox and entirely without food for four days, was the condition of James Richter and his family of five little children when discovered by Connellsville physicians yesterday in the mountain districts of Bullskin township. Smallpox has been epidemic in that neighborhood for two months. In several cases children have gone from one house to another through the valley, begging for food for the other members of the family who were afflicted with the disease. This practice has become so general that the food supply of the neighborhood has been exhausted.

Smallpox is thought to have been brought about by the breaking of the big Break Neck reservoir some months ago, which flooded the low lands, carrying away all the crops and left the ground covered with slime and mud. The stench throughout the valley was almost unbearable until cool weather set in. The one calamity followed closely by the other not only caused untold suffering among the poor, but to those in better circumstances as well.

Unless outside assistance is rendered at once, death from starvation will be greater than that of smallpox. It is said that there are at least 50 cases of the disease in that section. The epidemic is causing alarm in Connellsville on account of the water that is piped from Break Neck reservoir to the city.

STATE HENRY HANGED.

Negro Goes to Gallows at Moundsville Protesting His Innocence.

WHEELING, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—"Lord, give me strength," exclaimed State Henry, the negro murderer, as he walked to the gallows at the Moundsville penitentiary at 6.39 tonight. Twenty minutes later the physicians pronounced him dead.

Henry killed John Richardson while both were working on the Short Line railroad in June, 1900. His case was up before the pardon board a half-dozen times and before the governor three times. After the last respite was granted Henry's attorney offered the affidavits of several persons who swore positively that another man committed the murder but the pardon board rejected the evidence as perjured. Henry went to the gallows protesting his innocence.

THE STRIKE COMMISSION IS ORGANIZED

Decides That the Hearings Shall Be Open to the Public.

BOTH OPPOSING PARTIES CALLED

They Will Meet Monday to Settle Upon Convenient Time for Sessions.

MITCHELL IS SUMMONED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 501 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.

Following closely the informal suggestions made by President Roosevelt, the anthracite coal commission gave good evidence at its preliminary session today that its watchword was to be promptness, publicity and justice. The coal operators and striking miners will be brought face to face as the parties to the great controversy before this arbitration board for the first time next Monday afternoon. All formal meetings of the commission will be open to the public.

These were the two important conclusions reached in the first day's work of the board appointed by the president.

Other business transacted was the election of Judge George Gray as chairman, the adoption of the term "Anthracite Coal Strike commission" as the official designation of the body, and the announcement of the appointment of Edward A. Moseley and Dr. Charles P. Neill as assistant recorders. Mr. Moseley is secretary of the inter-state commerce commission. Dr. Neill is professor of political economy at the Catholic university, near Washington.

No Unnecessary Delay.

The preliminary work of the commission was conducted promptly and in a business-like manner. There is an evident determination to follow closely the instructions of the president and to allow no unnecessary delay.

The board assembled at 10 o'clock at the temporary White House, in Secretary Cortelyou's room, and without any formal proceedings the members were at once escorted to the president's room on the second floor, in which all of the transactions leading to the settlement of the coal strike have occurred. President Roosevelt greeted each man individually and then read to the commission his address, outlining his powers and duties. This was the president's address:

Gentlemen—At the request of both the operators and miners, I have appointed you a commission to inquire into, consider and pass upon the questions in controversy in connection with the strike in the anthracite region and the causes out of which the controversy arose.

By the action you recommend, which the parties in interest have in advance consented to abide by, you will endeavor to establish the relations between employers and the wage workers in the anthracite fields on a just and permanent basis, and as far as possible to do away with any causes for the recurrence of such difficulties, as those which you have been called in to settle. I submit to you herewith the joint statement of the operators, following which I named you as the members of the commission. Mr. Wright being named as recorder; also the letter from Mr. Mitchell.

I appoint Mr. Moseley and Mr. Neill as assistants to the recorder.

In Commissioner Wright's Office.

With the instructions were the statements of the operators. The members of the commission withdrew in a body. They went direct to the office of Commissioner of Labor Wright to organize and prepare for their work.

The commission went into executive session at Col. Wright's office at 11 o'clock. Judge Gray was chosen chairman. The presiding officer is to be officially called the president of the commission.

The commission considered the minor details which confront them at the beginning of their duties, such as place of meeting, the order in which witnesses shall be called, whether the sessions shall be open to the press, and whether counsel for the parties at interest shall be permitted to be present.

Notice Sent to Opposing Parties.

The commission adjourned at 12:45 o'clock to meet again next Monday at 2 o'clock. After the adjournment the announcement was made that only two conclusion had been reached. The first of these was to admit the public at all formal meetings of the commission, and the second, to notify the parties to the controversy to be present at the meeting on Monday to arrange a time for hearings which will be convenient for all concerned.

Notices, accordingly, were sent to the mine operators and to Mr. Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, asking them to be present Monday.

It was said most of the time of today's meeting was taken up with a discussion of the question as to the time when hearings shall be held, the result of which was the conclusion to call in the people interested before reaching a decision.

EIGHTEENTH BUSY ON OUTPOST DUTY

Four Details Out Protecting Homes of Non-Union Men Threatened by Dynamiters.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHENANDOAH, PA., Oct. 24.—With four outposts on duty tonight, the boys of the Eighteenth are getting plenty of extra duty, but the weather is fair. The Sheridan troopers rode into town this evening and gave a nobby dress parade and review that was highly appreciated. The extra outposts were detailed because of complaints from non-union men that threats had been made to blow up their houses. This may keep the troops here longer.

While four soldiers were walking along West Lloyd street this afternoon a shot from a revolver was fired by one of them and it gainced harmlessly along the street. Policeman Blaker arrested one of the soldiers and the others escaped. 'Squire Kelly fined him $2, but rather than pay it and the costs he chose to retire to the station house for 48 hours. Maj. Simmons, provost-marshal, made a demand for the man, but the policeman refused to give him up. The regimental officers are angry at his action, and will allow him to serve his time out.

A non-union man who had been working at Suffolk colliery got on a spree after getting his pay and was beaten in an East Lloyd street saloon tonight. The provost guard rescued him.

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS ON IN MANY PLACES

Citizens and Democrats Hold Enthusiastic Gatherings All Over County.

The Citizens party had meetings in many places last night. In every case they were made the occasion for displays of political enthusiasm, and drew big crowds. The most important was in the Fourteenth ward, where, in spite of the attraction of Senator Quay and other men of prominence at Carnegie Music hall, a great audience filled the Holmes school.

In the Brushton school, in the Thirty-seventh ward, there was another big meeting, while the largest crowd of the campaign in that section gathered at Maennerchor hall, in the Thirty-second ward. The Franklin school in the Seventh ward, was also the scene of a big gathering. The Citizens held meetings also in Ingram, Carnegie, Moon Run, Webster school in Plum township, and in the Eighth ward, McKeesport.

For tonight the Citizens have meetings scheduled at Aleppo school, Kilbuck township; Marquette hall, Second avenue; Bank hall, Duquesne; Grays Mill school, West Deer township; Lower St. Clair school and Brackenridge school.

The McKeesport voters are to have a big demonstration, ending in a meeting at White's opera house, and in addition to J. Denny O'Neil, A. E. Stevenson and other speakers, the Olympia and Citizens quartet will help to make things lively.

The Democrats are displaying the greatest activity in both local and state campaigns. They are now arranging for another reception to the state candidates, to be held in Old City hall on the Saturday night preceding election, at which George W. Guthrie will be the principal speaker. Last night they had a big meeting in Morningside school, and tonight there will be another in Hanna's hall, Seventeenth ward.

The machine will hold six meetings tonight at Tarentum opera house; Mechanics' hall, Glenfield; West Dale school, Elliott; Semmen's hall, Turtle Creek; Stevens public school, Thirty-thirty ward, and McClure hall, Homestead.

The machine held meetings last night in Odd Fellows' hall, Castle Shannon; Carnot school, Moon township; Tenth ward, Allegheny, and Polish school, Natrona.

Ed. Butler Must Go to Trial.

COLUMBIA, MO., Oct. 24.—The motion to quash the indictment in the Edward Butler bribery case was overruled today by Judge Hockaday.

Big Sale Today.

Two classes of people will attend the sale of lots in Stanton avenue held today by the Keystone Realty Company—those seeking homes and those looking for profitable investments. Never have lots in this beautiful section, overlooking Highland park, been offered at so low a figure nor upon such favorable terms.

The Keystone people are certainly giving the public a grand chance, and they deserve all the success they are meeting with.

MORE COAL COMES OUT OF SHAMOKIN MINES

No Collisions Occur Between Union and Non-Union Men Working Together.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHAMOKIN, PA., Oct. 24.—The shipment of coal to market today was double yesterday's output from this place, 125 large gondolas being sent out. There were no accidents or collisions between non-unionists and union men.

Col. Barnett of the Tenth regiment was requested today by a committee of the ministerial association to eliminate Sunday dress parade, which he acceded.

Mine Inspector Edward Brennan of the seventh district, said today that almost all of the 31 collieries in the district have partially resumed and by next week large shipments of coal will be going to market. The miners are as yet unaccustomed to the work and become quite fatigued after several hours of labor. By next week they will be in their old-time form, and as the end of the month is near at hand, they will hurry to make as much money as possible.

That Private Charles Stewart of Company K, Waynesborough, was not burned in his tent at Camp Hawkins at an early hour this morning, was due to the awakening of his tent mate, Earl Murray. The men were sleeping soundly when the wick from an oil stove set fire to a blanket covering Stewart. Murray was awakened by the strong smell of smoke. He extinguished the burning material before Stewart had fully discovered his danger.

The Polish people of this region will express their appreciation of the work of John Mitchell for the miners by presenting him with a gold medal of exquisite design and workmanship on Mitchell Day, October 27.

Corporal Robert Bradshaw of Washington, who was stabbed by Private Joseph Mauss, is greatly improved. He will not prosecute Mauss.

GOV. NASH PRAISES GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Ohio's Chief Executive Says the New Municipal Code Insures Good Government.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Gov. Nash last night made public his opinion of the new municipal code at a symposium of the Columbus Republican Glee club, in an address commending the work of the extra session. He said:

"The result is that we have a code for the government of our cities uniform in its operation and in strict compliance with the constitution. We will have municipal government built upon the same principles which characterize the government of the United States.

"It provides that all contracts made and rights granted under pre-existing laws shall stand. This was required by good faith and of honest men. It does not make radical changes. It permits our cities to have the same rights and privileges and do about the same things that they have done in the past. It gives to the people the right to elect all their principal executive, legislative and judicial officers, and does not give to any one man the power to construct a personal machine.

"That we may have model municipal government in Ohio, but one thing remains to be done. This is for the people to see that honest, efficient men are elected as municipal officers. Without such intelligent action by the people, no mere form of government will save their public business from disgrace and disaster.

"The general assembly was confronted by conflicting interests of 70 odd cities. Thed had to be compromised or reconciled. There were many differences in the theories of municipal government advocated by sincere and able men. There was an ever vigilant political enemy constantly throwing blocks under the wheels for political effect. For what was accomplished under these circumstances the general assembly deserves the highest praise.

JUDGE EXCLUDES THE BLACKBOARD

Handwriting Expert Not Allowed to Illustrate His Art in Molineux Case.

THE JURY IS INTERESTED

Closely Examines Various Letters Admitted for Comparison. New Witness Says Defendant Did Not Buy Bottle Holder.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 24.—The defense in the Molineux trial again claimed an advantage today, when Miss Emma Miller, the woman who sold the silver bottle holder which accompanied the poison package sent to Harry Cornish, testified positively that Molineux was not the purchaser.

Much of today's session was devoted to the examination of a handwriting expert, who was positive that the address on the poison package, three Cornish letters on interlaced crescent paper, the Barnet letters, admitted for purposes of comparison only, and letters admitted to have been written by the defendant, were all written by the same hand.

Charles C. Hughes of the Knickerbocker club testified that Cornish had made some scurrilous remarks about Molineux, which witness repeated to Molineux. Charges were made against Cornish, but were not sustained.

Edward Ehrhart, a new witness, who wrapped the bottle holder and delivered it to the purchaser, could not identify him.

Writing Expert on Stand.

John F. Tyrrell of Milwaukee, the handwriting expert, was the next witness. At counsel's request, Mr. Tyrrell looked at the "H. Cornish" letters on the three crescents paper. Mr. Osborne got him to say that he had made a careful study of them. While he was talking the jurors examined the different exhibits for themselves.

To Mr. Osborne's first question Mr. Tyrrell said he examined the three Cornish letters and the address of the poison package wrapper.

"What do you find?" asked Assistant District Attorney Osborne.

"I find that all those writings were made by the same hand," the expert replied.

"Have you compared the address on the wrapper, exhibit 'A,' with the Barnet letter?"

"I have. I find that one hand wrote all."

"Now, tell us, in your own way, how you reached that conclusion."

Blackboard Stays Out.

The invitation was the signal for the erection of a large easel and blackboard near the witness chair and in plain view of the jury. Mr. Tyrrell took a large sheet of paper and was pinning it to the board when ex-Judge Black protested.

"What do you expect to do?" Justice Lambert asked the witness.

"I intend to illustrate the writings, to show how I made my comparison and deduced my conclusions."

"Excluded," ruled the court.

Justice Lambert ruled that while the witness could not use the blackboard demonstration at this time, he might compare the different standards of handwriting. Mr. Tyrrell went on to pick out single letters in the different writings which he said are in every instance that they occur exactly similar. Court adjourned till Monday.

HERMAN LONG JUMPS.

Boston's Captain Will Play With Collins' Team.

BOSTON, MASS., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—President Soden and Treasurer Billings of the Boston Nationals, are somewhat surprised that Herman Long has signed to play with the Boston Americans, although Billings knew that Collins was after the captain.

"If Long has really signed, as reported," Billings says, "the veteran has broken faith with his old team. If he has signed with Collins he has received an offer of a larger salary than we made to him."

President Soden said he knew nothing more than he had read in the papers this morning. "All things are possible, nowadays," he commented philosophically. "I guess Long is not the only player who will be found playing with the Boston Americans next season. We hear shortly that I had bought out the Boston Americans."

INDIAN JOKES ON SCAFFOLD.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 24.—Walking Shield, a Rosebud Indian, was hanged here today for the murder of Mrs. Ghost-Faced-Bear on the Rosebud Indian reservation May 8, 1902. The murdered woman was the mother of the girl with whom Walking Shield was enamoured, and the Indian killed her "so she would not be in the way." Last night at sundown Walking Shield sang a weird death song.

HORSEWHIPPED BOY FINDS SYMPATHY

Burgess Horner Takes Child on His Knee and Kisses Him During the Hearing.

Mrs. Margaret Hutchinson of Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, who is charged with cruelty to her 8-year-old son, was given a hearing before Burgess James Horner of Wilkinsburg yesterday. Agent S. F. O'Brien of the Western Pennsylvania Humane society prosecuted the case. It was testified to that Mrs. Hutchinson had whipped the boy with a horsewhip and that he suffered greatly from the punishment.

Neighbors who were attracted by the child's cries summoned officers. When they arrived Mrs. Hutchinson was in a very nervous condition, according to witnesses, from liquor. The child's clothing was removed by the officers and three of them testified that at the time they found a number of welts that had been caused by blows from the whip. Burgess Horner, taking the boy on his knee, questioned him and impressed a kiss upon his lips, in sympathy for the child, and its innocence.

It was one of the most remarkable hearings ever held in a burgess' court in the country, and continued for four hours. Humane Agent O'Brien asked that Mrs. Hutchinson be held for court. Attorney Harry McIntosh represented the defendant.

The burgess reserved his decision until next Friday. Mrs. Hutchinson will be the defendant today before Burgess Horner on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

WU'S SON TO STUDY THE SCIENCE OF WAR

Will Try to Learn from Atlantic City Company Without Actually Joining the Guards.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 24.—The 16-year-old son of Minister Wu wishes to be a soldier. The Chinese minister had the boy admitted to the sophomore class of the High school here recently, and now he desires his son to learn the science of war and manual of arms as they are taught in the United States. The laws of China forbid the lad becoming a member of any military organization in any other country than his own, and for this reason he was not placed in a military academy.

Minister Wu puzzled over the matter no longer. When he heard of the Morris Guards of Atlantic City, the crack military organization of New Jersey, the matter was broached to Capt. Lewis T. Bryant, the commander of the company, and at last night's business meeting of the guards young Wu was given the privilege of attending the drills and learning the duties of a soldier without the formality of becoming a member of the organization.

Some of the members of the organization, who were not at the meeting, are opposed to this, not because young Wu is the son of the wealthy Chinese minister, but because it is establishing a bad precedent. They say such action is against the laws of the guards, and they propose that the young fellow shall go through the usual course of being elected. Another objection is that Wu is too young and too small.

The matter will be taken up again at the meeting of the guards next week.

Some Brief Notes.

Ladies buying Queen Quality Shoes today should not forget to ask for a blank on which to record their opinions of the Shoes. You know we have told you in large advertisements that the Queen Quality people in Boston are going to give away $5,000 in prizes, beginning with the first prize of $1,000 and running on down. The way you tell of the good points of Queen Quality will possibly fetch you some one of the 100 prizes.

Quite a number of men have been in to see that Wardrobe Trunk we told about Thursday—some have even written for it from a distance. It is the most complete trap for holding gentlemen's luggage ever designed, and is worth a trip to the fourth floor Trunk Department to see its workings.

This sultry weather that is now with us is a little lot of the July brand that missed the through train to the South. While it is comical to talk about Furs yet, at the same time there is no better period for looking over Fur styles. They are all displayed in the new and enlarged Fur Department of the second floor.

A great many of our departments are now putting on Christmas airs by reason of having their complete holiday line. And this is to inform everyone who desires to select presents now and have them held for delivery any time before Christmas that they can do so, and we will cheerfully comply with any commands regarding their selections.

The young man who knows all about Kin-Hee Coffee and the Kin-Hee Coffee Pot is still demonstrating the delicious flavor of the former, and the superiority of the latter over any other Coffee and the vessels for making it on the market. Step to the Basement for a cup.

Fair weather today should fill the Toy Department to overflowing with tots. Come along with them and enjoy their prattle. A little novelty given to each little boy and girl—just a bauble that they can have quite a lot of fun with. Today will be apropos for discussing the merits of La Fleur Corset with the demonstrator, if you have yet to be introduced to this new Corset, we should be pleased to do the honors today. Simply a girdle of daintiness—the most perfect Corset ever invented.

Women's $1 Glace Gloves for 75c Pr.

When a maker gets an order for 100 dozen Gloves of a kind it is almost impossible to tell how many skins to have dyed in order to get the 100 dozen ready. In the end he usually finds that he has something like ten dozen over. Little by little this small surplus accumulates, and when a store like ours comes along he is only too glad to get rid of his entire surplus at a much smaller price than usual.

Our buyer in New York came across a lot of two clasp glace gloves with one strand embroidery backs, either black or self, and expressed them yesterday.

They are a light and dressy Glove. All sizes. All colors—some of the colors quite delicate, as for instance pearl and mauve. Lots of whites and blacks.

Table under dome this morning 75c a pair.

Our $1 Stag Head Shirt is constructed on the principle of something really good and not much to pay for it. We have experimented for years with dollar Shirts, and it took quite a lot of time to get one for that amount to the point of perfectness. It was the "Try-try-again"-till-you-get-there axiom that did the business. Colors for every taste, and as good percale as any man should care to wear.

Other and finer colored Shirts, including the Star and Manhattan, $1.50, $2 and $3.

JULIA WARD HOWE TALKED TO WOMEN

GAVE REMINISCENCES

She Told of Life in the Community Which Made Brook Farm a Noted Place in the Early '40's.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the aged authoress of the famous "Battle Hymn of the Republic," who for nearly three-quarters of a century has been a champion of freedom, was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at the Twentieth Century club, the occasion being the annual president's day reception. Mrs. Howe, who possesses the same brilliant intellectual faculties which brought her fame over 50 years ago, spoke in the assembly room of the club house, her subject being "Personal Reminiscences of Brook Farm."

Because of her physical weakness, she was 83 years old last May, Mrs. Howe remained seated while speaking. Gowned in a rich and lustrous violet silk, with a web of exquisite lace covering her snow-white hair, a kindly smile at all times lighting her countenance, which glowed when she rose to her feet and with dramatic effect recited the "Battle Hymn." Mrs. Howe aroused the deepest interest in her hearers. Her voice is low and musical and she spoke with a clear enunciation so that her words were never lost.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE.
The Aged Authoress of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Who Was Yesterday an Honored Guest at the President's Day Reception of the Twentieth Century Club.

Among the Transcendentalists.

In recalling her experiences at Brook Farm, Mrs. Howe described the location, distant but a few miles from the heart of the literary culture of Boston, the man who was the founder of the society or "community," as it was called, and the character of the men and women who made it famous during the seven short years it existed.

Brook Farm, near Boston, comprised 100 acres, part of which was covered by rich primeval forests. Founded in April, 1841, by George Ripley, one of the first men to plant the seeds of the transcendental philosophy in American soil, Brook Farm was an association of men and women who contributed their labor and also their money, if they had any. As the idea was to make it co-operative, they tilled the soil, cared for the stock, and themselves personally conducted the work of the farm. The principal income was derived from the boarders, and there were many of them, the majority young people, who received instruction from the older members of the community, the boarders not being regular members.

Longfellow Was an Associate.

Mrs. Howe first came in contact with the promoters of Brook Farm in the summer of 1841, when she visited Boston. Among her associates at that time were the poet, Longfellow, and Charles Sumner. That was the year that she met Dr. Samuel G. Howe, whom she married in 1843. As a bride, in 1844, after a long wedding trip through Europe, Mrs. Howe returned to Boston and again became associated with the community residents at Brook Farm.

Among her dearest recollections is that of Margaret Fuller, who was beautiful of feature, a vigorous and original writer, a woman of remarkable perceptive faculties and whose usual method of teaching was conversational. The life at Brook Farm was idyllic. There was plenty of work, there was occasion for pleasant merry-making and there was much transcendentalism.

For a long time there was an element of romantic feeling and much enthusiasm, especially among the younger and more inexperienced, and those who knew nothing of providing ways and means. But after the first few years Brook Farm was a struggle, and it ceased to exist after continuing seven years.

Worked With Many Prominent People.

Mrs. Howe spoke particularly of the character of the men and women she met at Brook Farm, and of their later life, which seemed to be largely influenced by their associations there. George Ripley, who, with his wife, was at the head of the community, was a philanthropist of ideal principles. As a critic he aided in the later development of American literature by setting a high standard of criticism. Though the older men of the community were free thinkers, Dr. William H. Channing, the great theologian, occasionally preached at Brook Farm and was a frequent visitor. His simple religious living, and his beautiful sermons were a constant source of delight to all.

Charles A. Dana was George Ripley's right hand man. Hawthorne, shy and silent, lived at Brook Farm during its early years. George W. Curtis while there was the opposite of the earnest reformer he came to be in later years. At Brook Farm he was a young man who played the guitar and was given to serenading.

Ralph Waldo Emerson was foremost among the transcendentalists. A. Bronson Alcott, with his mystic philosophy; Thomas Parker, who had great power as a preacher, and Horace Sumner, a younger brother of Charles Sumner, were among some of the men whose names have been linked with the short history of Brook Farm.

While in Pittsburgh Mrs. Howe is being entertained at Oak Manor, the home of Mrs. Henry Kirke Porter. If she is able to travel, she will today return east.

TODAY'S GOLF EVENTS.

Two Team Matches and Numerous Cup Events Are Scheduled.

The program for the local golf field today calls for two matches of the Western Pennsylvania league. Highland is scheduled to play Edgewood on the latter's course and the Allegheny Country club to play Westmoreland at Logans Ferry.

On the Schenley course the second preliminary rounds for the Laughlin challenge cups for men and women are to be decided, the seven best gross scores among the women and the eleven among the men, being eligible for the final play with the winners of June 28.

On the Country club course the second 18-hole rounds under handicaps will be decided for the Manor cup; the fifth handicap contest for the Shenk cup and a two-ball sweepstake.

The members of the Westmoreland County club will play the 18-hole qualifying round for the club championship trophy. One of the regular handicap contests for the President's cup being played for under the point system, is scheduled for the Edgewood Golf club course in addition to the team match.

On the Sewickley course of the Edgewood club the 18-hole qualifying round under handicaps will be decided for the cup offered by W. P. McVay.

G. D. KEDDIE WON CUP WITH A SCORE OF 162

Professional Coaches Did Not Play Their Best Games in Yesterday's Tournament.

The professional competition on the course of the Country club of Pittsburgh for the cup offered by the the club was won by G. D. Keddie of the Edgeworth club of Sewickley. All of the professionals took part, with the exception of Thomas Smith of the Westmoreland Country club, who was unable to compete on account of a sprained wrist. The golf displayed by the professionals was a disappointment, as Keddie's winning score for 36 holes is higher than that made by amateurs in the recent open tournament over the same course. In the match between Fredericks and Porter the former had a total of 160 and Porter 161. Porter also has an 18-hole record of 76 strokes. Nichol Thompson, who holds the professional record for the course and was the favorite for yesterday's event, was a disappointment. The scores:

In a social way Mr. and Mrs. James S. Martin's Saturday afternoon musicales are exceedingly popular, and their resumption on Saturday of next week is awaited with interest by the many who have enjoyed these affairs during past seasons. The excellent musical programs divide honors with the social side of these afternoons and the combination is delightful. Mr. and Mrs. Martin yesterday issued cards for the series of Saturday afternoon musicales this season, which will be given November 1, December 6, January 3 and February 7. They will continue from 4 o'clock until 7.

The "Creation" to Be Sung.

Feminine Fads and Fancies

A bright little woman who has new ideas always in the process of working out gives the following directions for a home Turkish bath: "Seat yourself, unclothed, upon a cane-bottomed chair under which is placed a spirit lamp—that is, one fed by alcohol; or the lamp may be placed outside the chair and its heat conducted underneath the chair by a tube. Wrap a large blanket completely around yourself and the chair, tucking it closely in at the borders. Remain thus seated until profuse perspiration occurs, then quickly rub and shampoo yourself, jump into a tubful of cold water or stand under a shower for a second or two, and dry briskly. The temperature of the room should be from 85 to 100 degrees, and you must work quickly. Finally, wrap yourself in a blanket and rest until cool enough to dress and take some exercise. If you prefer to try the Russian or steam bath substitute for the lamp a plate on which there is laid a very hot brick. Have someone pour water on this brick, a little at a time and frequently, to generate steam, until you think the process has lasted long enough—from 10 to 20 minutes—and then follow the methods just given for the home Turkish bath. A pailful of boiling water in which hot bricks are dropped, one at a time, may take the place of the plate and brick in producing the steam."

The Home Turkish Bath.

Positively refusing to remain in obscurity, the "eminent French specialist" is up and at it again. Jealousy is the theme of his discussion, and, according to dispatches, Dr. Fleury of Paris says that the green-eyed monster can be controlled and even eradicated by a course of judicious treatment. Jealousy is simply a disease, avers this noted specialist!

To Control the Green-Eyed Monster.

The remedy suggested is good, solid food. The method of treatment is as follows: First locate a man—or woman, for that matter—and after ascertaining that the patient is unreasonably jealous and irritable, administer a substantial meal, then ask the reason for his or her behavior.

The foregoing mode of treatment will probably be of interest to the large army of young women who act as agents for Dan Cupid. Hereafter when a young man becomes sulky, all that his fair companion has to do is to march him off to a cafe and order a meal for him. There is an element of danger in this treatment which seems to have been overlooked. Suppose the petulant young Lothario has frequent attacks of jealousy? Just imagine the direful effect this would have on the young woman's bank account. And again, picture the frenzied activity of a landlady who conducts a boarding house wherein reside a number of girls who "keep company."

There is yet another danger against which the young man will have to exercise unusual precaution. When he invites the girl of his heart to partake of some refreshment after the theater it will be necessary for him to explain something after this fashion: "I do not ask you to dine because I think you are jealous, but just because it is the custom, don't you know, and because I presume you are hungry."

Dr. Fleury is quoted as promulgating other doctrines on jealousy as follows: "Jealous people have lucid intervals, the malady being intermittent, like chills and fever." Instead of doing a favor to humanity, it is apparent that the physician is likely to involve Dan Cupid and his followers in an endless chain of complications.

The popularity of the collections of small silver charms continues. Girls delight in the jingling trifles and the silversmiths are adding to the assortment for the holiday trade. Tiny balloons and models of the famous airship are seen. A sprig of mistletoe cunningly wrought in miniature is new. Some girls count their accumulation by scores and even hundreds. A chatelaine arrangement is much used. From a handsome silver mount hang silver chains of various short lengths, each ending in a ring hung full of little charms. A small collection may be attached to a silver bracelet. Still others depend from long neck chains. Some girls collect generously but wear sparingly. One has arranged her collection on a sheet of thin board. This she has covered with a light quality of velvet and on it from small screw hooks hang the silver baubles by the dozen. The board is supported on a small easel.

"You would be surprised at the number of women who pick up other women's belongings," said an attendant in the dressing room of Convention hall at a recent ball. "They are women, too, whom you'd think would be above doing such things; but the temptation to get something better or different from what they possess seems to be too much for them. One woman comes up to a mirror, lays her handkerchief down to powder, and along comes another and picks it up and walks off with it."

Women Who "Pick Up" Things.

"Yes, but it is so easy to pick up a stray handkerchief," remonstrated the girl who was listening to the tale.

"That may be, but it happens so often that we who are employed in the dressing rooms have grown suspicious. At one time I saw a woman—she is a prominent society woman here, and I know her well—drop a little silk embroidered shawl. I tried to get to her to tell her, but before I reached her, another woman, one of the guests at the ball, picked it up and was calmly drawing it around her own shoulders when I came up and said:

"'I'll take that shawl.'

"'How do you know that it isn't mine?' she asked.

"'Because I know the lady who dropped it,' I said. She handed it over to me without a word, but if I hadn't gone up to her, do you think she would have given it up to any one? No, indeed! She thought she was just that much ahead."

A merry-go-round evolved from very simple elements brought many a nickel to swell the receipts of a bazar held in the summer for a fresh-air fund. A tent was devoted to it, and visitors gaining entrance found on the table a music box grinding out lively airs, while around the table an obliging young woman whose name was Mary slowly strolled. The promoters of the trick relied for their profit on that trait of human nature which dislikes to confess itself deceived, or, having been duped, is content that others should meet the same fate.

A Mary-Go Round.

PERSONNEL LAW FAILURE SO FAR

Engineer Melville Says So, but Adds It Can Be Made a Success.

OIL FUEL PRACTICABLE

The Mechanical Part of the Problem About Solved, but the Cost of Oil Exceeds That of Coal. Good for the Smaller Vessels.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—The annual report of Engineer-in-Chief George Melville of the navy declares that the personnel act has proven to be a failure as it is administered, and he says one-half of the officers have yet to be convinced of the benefits of amalgamation.

"It was rather a revolution than progression in naval development when congress enacted a law whereby every naval officer of the line had, in the future, to become a fighting engineer," Melville says.

European experts declared that either their own navies were not properly organized or that the United States had made a mistake from which it would not recover for at least 20 years. Still, Admiral Melville thinks that if the law were administered with a desire to make it a success, it would give the most efficient navy in the world.

To that end he wants an engineering laboratory at Annapolis like that at Charlottenberg, Germany, for experimentation and the education in engineering of young line officers.

The Petroleum Problem.

The proposed use of petroleum as a substitute for coal on shipboard is treated at length and in detail. For months this board has been working with a big 2,000-horsepower boiler on the water front in this city testing a multitude of oil-burning devices, and the greatest manufacturing concerns in the United States and even abroad have been seeking to learn the results of the board's work.

"The more this question is investigated the more intricate seems the problem of successfully installing an oil fuel appliance on board a battleship," says Mr. Melville. "It ought to be successfully used on the torpedo boats, as well as upon auxiliary naval vessels that steam between regular ports. For the army transport service it might prove very desirable, since a supply of oil could be maintained at the several calling ports.

"In regard to the installation on the large powered battleships and armored cruisers, there are three distinct features which must be considered, viz.: The mechanical, commercial and the structural."

The Mechanical Problem.

The engineering or mechanical problem is nearing solution. It has been found necessary to atomize the oil ot cannot be completely gasified instead of using it without pressure. The air blast should be heated by some simple device. If this is done the experiments have shown that it will be possible to force the combustion of oil to the same extent as coal, something not done before, but very essential for naval uses.

Treating of the commercial aspects of the question, the report makes the following statements:

"It may be regarded as a certainty that except where unusual conditions prevail the cost of oil for marine purposes will generally be greater than that of coal. The cost may be less for vessels departing from the gulf and California seaports, but the rule will hold elsewhere.

"It would be more expensive and difficult to store oil than coal, and the fumes are dangerous in places like the small bunkers and double-bottom spaces aboard ship. But in spite of these and other objections the board says:

"The bureau has no hesitation, however, in declaring that, in view of the results already secured by the liquid fuel board, an installation should be effected without delay on at least a third of the torpedo boats and destroyers."

NO LIGHT ON MYSTERY.

Coroner's Inquest on the Death of the Washington Dressmaker, Mrs. Dennis, Begins.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—A coroner's inquest was begun here today over the remains of Mrs. Ada Gilbert Dennis, the fashionable dressmaker who died Wednesday as the result of the mysterious attack upon her ten months ago.

One of the important witnesses, Richard Cole, a colored porter, who attended to some of Mrs. Dennis' financial transactions and who was acquainted with most of her callers, was absent on account of illness. On account of the revival of talk regarding the possible connection between the tragedy and the subsequent suicide of Samuel J. Presley, a printer, two of Presley's brothers from New Orleans attended today.

Mrs. Jane E. Dennis, the aged mother-in-law of the woman, threw little light upon the case. She said she knew of no enemy of her daughter, and said it had been Mrs. Dennis' custom to send her money to the bank by Cole, though she kept a small amount in the house. She said Presley had never visited her daughter, and that she knew of no male visitors.

General Order for Army Reduction.

WAS COACHED BY REAL LIVE MAYOR

Vance McCormick Spent an Hour With the Yale Team.

THE TIGERS ARE READY

TODAY'S FOOTBALL GAMES.

Pittsburgh vs. E. E. A. A. at Colosseum.
Yale vs. Syracuse at New Haven.
Princeton vs. Columbia at Princeton.
Harvard vs. Brown at Cambridge.
Cornell vs. Oberlin at Ithaca.
Bucknell vs. U. of P. at Philadelphia.
Naval Cadets vs. Dickinson at Annapolis.
Wash.-Jeff. vs. Ohio Meds, at Columbus.
Williams vs. West Point at West Point.
Chicago vs. Illinois at Chicago.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 24.—Yale's football players had a real live mayor to coach today, Vance McCormick, who is the chief executive of Harrisburg. He was Yale's captain in '92. The coachers gave the eleven a drill of only 10 minutes, all open practice, deciding to save the players for their hard game tomorrow with Syracuse. The scrubs kept the ball almost all the practice in order to work up the 'varsity defense. Edgar Glass, Yale's star player, has a bad cold and says that he does not feel like playing football, but he will be sent into the game. The Syracuse eleven left home yesterday and arrived in Hartford today. They practiced this afternoon there and will come here tomorrow morning. Captain Brown of Syracuse saw the Yale practice today and was surprised at the fast work of the Yale team. The eleven will line up as follows tomorrow:

| Yale. | | Syracuse. |
|---|---|---|
| Wilhelm | L.E. | Boland |
| Shevlin | L.T. | Slade |
| Holt | Center. | Wyckoff |

| Kinney | R.T. | Hare |
| Kilner-Corbin | R.E. | Kennedy |
| Metcalf | Q.B. | O'Neil |

Tigers Show Improved Work.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Light practice was given the Tiger football players this afternoon in preparation for the game with Columbia tomorrow. The work showed improvement over that of yesterday, but it was not up to the standard. The feeling here is that Princeton has an even chance to win tomorrow. Barney, the 240-pound candidate for center, and Brown, the big guard, played in their positions on the 'varsity today, and will start in the game tomorrow. Bradley, the most promising candidate at present for left guard, is out of the game with injuries and will be unable to play tomorrow. Dutcher played today and may be able to do something within his position at guard, but his ankle is still very weak. Baker will substitute for Barney at center. The lineup will be: Left end, Davis (captain); left tackle, Short; left guard, Dewitt; center, Barney; right guard, Brown; right tackle, Read; right end, Henry; quarter, Burke; left half, Hart; right half, Foulke; fullback, Kafer.

Light Practice at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Because of the apparent staleness of the 'varsity eleven, there was no line-up today, and only light practice was indulged in. It consisted of easy signal work, in which it was shown that the crimson outfit has considerable to learn. Some of the boys eased up with punting, but the day was really a rest preparatory to tomorrow's game at Brown. Harvard men are a little anxious, as the Browns are bruisers, and the crimson cannot afford to have any man disabled. Kernan is the only one of the men who is not overtrained.

Oberlin Thinks of a Score.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The Oberlin college eleven, which arrived in Ithaca today, watched Cornell's practice this afternoon, and their coach declared after it was over that his eleven would be able to score against Cornell. He did not have much basis for this opinion, however, for the Ithacans did not line up, and all that the visitors could see was a slow signal practice. Hunt will go into the game tomorrow at fullback. This is the first time the big right guard has had an opportunity to show his ability in his new role back of the line, and Coaches Reed and Beecham will watch his performance with critical eyes in order to determine whether he should be kept there for the Princeton game.

Pennsy Is Badly Crippled.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—(Special.)—The University of Pennsylvania football team meets Bucknell university tomorrow on Franklin field, and under ordinary circumstances the red and blue admirers would look for an easy victory, but the 'varsity team is in such a crippled condition that the outlook is far from encouraging. Bucknell defeated the Indians, and can be expected to play a hard game tomorrow. Nearly all the regulars are added to the sick list, and many of them will go in tomorrow out of sheer desperation in the hope of stemming the tide which is sweeping so strongly against the team just now.

CLEVER BOXING BOUT.

Art Sims and Willie Fitzgerald Went Twenty Fast Rounds.

NEW BRITAIN, CONN., Oct. 24.—Art Sims and Willie Fitzgerald gave one of the best boxing exhibitions ever seen in this city when they fought 20 rounds to a draw last night.

The men weighed in at the ringside at 135 pounds. In the early rounds Fitzgerald showed up better than his opponent, but after the 10th round Sims braced up and finished strong.

HONOR GOES TO YALE.

After Long Wait Gets Award for Intercollegiate Meet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Yale university was awarded the intercollegiate track and field championship at an executive meeting tonight. The protest lodged by the Yale representative against W. A. Shick, Harvard, '05, who was second in the 100 and 220 yards sprints at the intercollegiate athletic meeting at Berkley oval, May 30-31, was sustained. Shick being declared ineligible under sub-division 5 of article IV of the A. A. A. A. constitution. The disqualification of Shick makes the point scores: Yale 32, Harvard 29.

PLAYERS ARE SURE OF COMING VICTORY

Wash.-Jeff. Team Starts for Columbus Full of Hope Many Rooters Go Along.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 24.—The Washington and Jefferson football team, 18 strong, left this afternoon for Columbus, where they will play the Ohio Medical university tomorrow afternoon. The team was accompanied by a large following of rooters. Wash.-Jeff. has never been defeated by the Columbus team, although they fought them to a standstill last year at Columbus.

The team which will face the medics tomorrow is not in the best shape possible for a hard struggle, but the players are confident and predict that they will win. W. & J. has been defeated in the last two contests by Princeton and Lafayette.

Report was received today that nearly 200 Pennsylvania students at the university at Ada, O., will be at Columbus to root for the Wash.-Jeff. eleven.

The players taking the trip are: Hayes, Heimberger, Murphy, McCleary, Loucks, Sutter, McDivitt, McDonough, Sherrard, Scarriland, Prowitt, Burns, Longwell, Eckles, Brooks, Gibson, Welty and Francis.

WANT AMERICAN EXPERTS

British Tennis Association Becoming More Liberal in Its Views of the Sport.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Lawn Tennis association is endeavoring to emphasize the international character of the game. At a recent meeting the association, in addition to adopting the American service rule, agreed to admit six foreign and colonial delegates to the annual council, to be held in July. The United States will be invited to send a representative. An English team will certainly be sent back to try and win the American cup in 1903, but its personnel will be undecided until after the Wimbledon championships, to be decided in June. In the meantime Mr. Mewburn, secretary of the association, told a representative of the Associated Press he fully expects that Whitman and Ward, and perhaps three Americans, will participate in the British championship games.

He added that there was no doubt the British association would be glad to hear part of the expenses of the visitors if that was any inducement.

DROP IN MONEY RATES IN THE EASTERN MARKET

Call Loans Down to 2 Per Cent---Thirty New Applicants Pay $300,000 for Seats in the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The sales on the New York stock exchange yesterday footed up less than 310,000 shares. One week ago they exceeded a million, and the transactions in Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Pennsylvania and Norfolk & Western alone were 50,000 shares greater than in the entire list yesterday. A similarly striking change was noticed in the money market. A week ago time loans were almost unobtainable, and the rates on call were averaging 8 per cent. Yesterday 30-day money loaned at 6 per cent, and the call rate averaged under 5 per cent, touching 2 per cent late in the day, and closing at 2½ per cent, these loans running over until Monday. There is a simple explanation for these changes. Within the week the treasury has paid out on account of bond redemptions about $20,000,000, and it is estimated that, after deducting the net shipments of currency to the interior, the banks will show in their weekly statement today a gain of something over $18,000,000 in cash. Inasmuch as speculation has been gradually diminishing, it is also expected that the loan account will show a reduction, reflecting the liquidation in the stock market. This change in monetary conditions has apparently brought out a considerable amount of loanable funds from individuals, and this money competing for employment with bank funds forced a reduction in rates. The banks still pursue the policy of curtailing advances to stock market operators, but there is no concerted movement to this end, and hence no control of the money market, such as is exercised by the great foreign banks. The reason why speculation was not stimulated by the growing ease in the money market is because of the fear that low rates for money here will facilitate gold exports, and as the treasury has practically exhausted its means of relief, the loss of a considerable amount of gold now would merely put the money market back where it was before the bond purchases. Commission houses are therefore advising caution in making new commitments, and while not positively refusing margin business, are doing what they can to discourage new accounts.

Sterling exchange was a little easier, and one did not have to look far for a plausible reason for the change. According to Bradstreets, the exports of wheat, and flour as wheat, during the past week amounted to 7,000,000 bushels. This is the largest shipment for any week this year and larger than any time since August 1901, when in the first week the total reached 8,831,000 bushels, and in the second week 9,000,000 bushels, an unusually large total. Ordinarily an increase in exports stimulates the market price, but yesterday wheat declined, due to the fact that receipts at primary points are increasing at a rapid rate. Last year the movement to market was early. This year it is late, but it is beginning to make up for lost time. St. Louis reported the contract stocks of wheat in that market increasing at the rate of 50,000 bushels a day, and the receipts there this week were as large as for the entire month of October last year. Kansas City reported receipts of new corn coming in rapidly and in good condition. The accumulation of grain at primary points tends to depress the market price, and the lower price stimulates foreign demand. In the cotton belt the weather was reported as ideal for picking and also for maturing the crop, and if these favorable conditions continue, previous estimates of yield will be increased. At this season we depend upon shipments of wheat and cotton to bring gold imports, and if this should not occur just at present, the movement may be of sufficient volume to avert gold exports.

The principal activity in yesterday's market was confined to a few specialties, among which Colorado Fuel & Iron was conspicuous for an advance of more than 4 points, all of which was retained at the close. One commentator was frank enough to suggest that the same principal was represented in both the buying and the selling, while Chairman Osgood was quoted as saying that Messrs. Hawley & Gould had recently acquired a large interest in the property, that the company is making money, but that the question of resuming dividends had not yet been discussed. President Baer's circular, reciting the damage to the mines caused by the long idleness, and ordering an advance of 50 cents a ton for hard coal, had no appreciable effect upon Reading or the affiliated coal stocks. The general railroad list moved within very narrow limits and stagnation was the principal feature of the latter part of the day.

The local stock market was also extremely dull and narrow yesterday. Less than a score of securities were traded in, and the total sales fell under 5,000 shares. The tone of the market was generally firm. Pittsburgh Coal, on sales of 1,800 shares, rallied to 31, a gain of ½ for the day. The preferred stock was a fraction lower. Rio Coal shares were dull and unchanged. Westinghouse Electric receded a point, selling down to 106¾, but later recovered to 107 bid. Airbrake was unchanged at 178. There was very little doing in Window Glass, small lots changing hands at 56½@56¾, but the stock closed a shade firmer at 56¾ bid. The steel stocks were quieter than on any previous day this week, and the only changes were a fractional decline in United States Steel common and a fractional advance in Crucible Steel preferred. Fire Proofing declined ⅝@⅝, while Brewing remained steady and unchanged. A feature of the market at the close was the bidding for 30-day buyers' options on large blocks of stocks at advances over cash quotations. These options would carry the day for payment over into the latter part of November, when it is expected that money will be easier and the absorption of the company by the Virginia-Carolina Company.

Pittsburgh Trust was quoted ex-dividend of 10 per cent yesterday.

The net earnings of Wheeling & Lake Erie for September decreased $83,000.

The principal buying of Colorado Fuel and Iron yesterday was credited to Harris, Gates & Co.

The West Virginia Natural Gas Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent.

Jersey Central directors have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable November 3.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is said to have been a subscriber for a large block of Union Trust stock at $2,000 a share.

London traded in about 15,000 shares New York stocks yesterday, purchases and sales being about equally divided.

The directors of the Vilbert Paving Company yesterday declared a dividend of 10 per cent for the year, payable November 25.

The Peoples Natural Gas and Pipeage Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, making 7 per cent for the year.

On the local exchange yesterday $250 was paid for the privilege of calling 100 shares Real Estate Trust at 325, good for 30 days.

The first installment on subscriptions at $2,000 a share for the new stock of Union Trust, being 20 per cent and amounting to $2,000,000, is payable November 15.

At the close of the market Mr. Mustin bid 31½ for 5,000 shares Pittsburgh Coal, buyer 30 days, and 32½ for 5,000 shares Pittsburgh Brewing, buyer 30 days. Mr. R. C. Hall bid 325 for 100 shares Real Estate Trust, buyer 30 days.

When the quotation of 2 per cent for call money in New York came over the ticker yesterday afternoon and was posted on the local boards, a member of the latter bid 6 per cent for $100,000 30-day loan, but none was offered.

President Yoakum of the St. Louis and San Francisco says: "We are not howling for prosperity out west, but for a chance to catch up to the prosperity we've got. We haven't enough equipment to move our traffic, and no one seems willing to build cars for us within two years."

Barbour sold a block of 500 shares Marsden to Robinson Bros.; the latter sold a block of 1,000 shares Pittsburgh Coal to Smith, Moore & Long sold a block of 765 shares Pittsburgh Coal to Sproul & Co., and the latter bought about 800 shares more from various sellers. Holmes & Sons sold 200 shares Consolidated Gas to Carothers & Co.

After the close of the eastern market yesterday a prominent local member of the New York Stock Exchange received the following private dispatch from one of his eastern correspondents: "For the first time in weeks time money shows signs of ease. Four months' money loaned today at 6 per cent, and 4½ have been offered. Call loans 2@3, 5 per cent for 60 days. Before today this has been unobtainable except at 6½ to 7 per cent."

The Chicago board of trade directors have adopted the following: "Resolved, That advertisements, inserted, or caused to be inserted, in the public journals by members of this board, pretending to predict the course of the markets or describing plans of schemes, more or less plausible and sensational, by which members of this board may be induced to do commercial character whatsoever, and are injurious to the good name and dignity of this association, Resolved, That it is the sense of such directory that such advertisements are undesirable, and a member of this board who shall be deemed dishonorable conduct within the meaning of section 9 of rule IV. of the rules of the board of trade of the city of Chicago."

A cheer greeted the posting on the Pittsburgh stock exchange of the complete list of 30 applicants for membership in the exchange. Each applicant handed Secretary Chaplin a certified check for $10,000, making $300,000 in all. The list is as follows: James Bissell Alford, James K. Duff, A. M. Moreland, William H. Bauer, John H. Dryden, Henry M. Hall, Jr., Charles A. Painter, Fred Diffenderfer, J. A. Ianarelli, Sanford B. Evans, Harvey Schumacher, W. A. Shaw, Jr., Joseph Imphicy, W. H. Crunn, J. D. Lyons, A. J. Harnack, R. S. Smith, William E. von Bonhorst, James C. Chaplin, John N. O'Neill, Jr., Stansbury Smith, H. G. Welsh, Orin Seaman, Sigmund Gries, George J. Gorman, James J. Donnell, Jr., J. McNulty, H. M. Hall and R. J. Coyle, Jr.

Said a Fourth avenue broker yesterday: "I refused a buying order this week for 1,000 shares Crucible Steel preferred, on which the buyer was willing to put up 20 points margin. I refused because I do not believe the stock is a good investment, unlikely to advance later in the year, but because I did not want to increase the amount of my obligation in bank at this time. As a general thing, the stocks I am carrying are well margined, and it would require a considerable disturbance in the market to dislodge them; but the present market is in such condition that I do not feel justified in attempting to negotiate new loans. As a general proposition I may say that I have declined buying orders to the amount of fully 6,000 shares during the past three or four weeks, and for the same reason. Several prospective buyers told me that they have refused buying orders for several hundred shares of Crucible Steel common and Pittsburgh Coal common this week. Even if the money had been obtainable, the broker would have been unwilling to accept the stock offered for collateral, which means that at any time I had to shift the loan a half dozen times. The mere brokerage on such deals would not pay for my labor and worry of carrying new accounts under present conditions. Meanwhile dividends are being earned and the real value of shares is enhancing, and when money becomes easier I look for a decided improvement in market values."

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Minneapolis capitalists are putting in machinery in the mine the big porphyry strike near Mellenr, Ore.

Preparations are being made for the erection of a 60-ton cyanide mill for the Ballard at Leadville. This mine has large reserves of low-grade ore and a dump of 15,000 tons, which ores average about $10 gold.

Four carloads of ore have been shipped from the Silver Glance near Leadville, R. C., which are expected to return $15,000.

Returns from a silicon shipment from the Close Shaft of the Bonte, at Cripple Creek, show values of $20 to the ton.

A 10-foot breast of ore has been uncovered in an upraise from the intermediate level of the California at Park City. Assays show 40 per cent lead, 40 ounces silver and from $5 to $7.40 gold to the ton.

Five hundred men are employed in the Congress of Arizona and the two main veins are being developed on the Sunday.

The ledge of the Six Basins, in Okanogan county, Wash., has been reached by the tunnel, which has four feet of ore in the face. The rock runs from $15 to $20 a ton.

A dispatch from Virginia, Nev., says the gold and copper mine at Iron Canon, in Lander county, has been sold to Philadelphia and Chicago men for a large sum. Last year the property was bought for $750,000.

The Colonial Trust Company, according to a reliable report, has purchased the Commercial National bank property, at No. 313 Fourth avenue, for $250,000. The reported purchase occasioned little surprise in realty circles, as it was known that Charles Donnelly and M. K. McMullin, who bought the property a few weeks ago from the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company for $195,000, took it for an investment and were open for a deal. The sale to the Colonial nets these gentlemen $55,000. An even larger profit was made by the Commonwealth, as the property was carried on the books of the Commercial National bank and turned in with its business to the Commonwealth, at $120,000, leaving the latter concern a profit of $75,000. The lot measures 30x141 feet in the north side of the avenue adjoining the present building of the Colonial Trust Company, and with the holdings of the latter forms a lot 60x141 feet, one of the two or three best building sits available in Fourth avenue. Both the Colonial and the Commercial buildings are very substantial two-story brick structures with modern fronts. It is said that the present cramped quarters of the Colonial will be relieved by taking in the Commercial bank room, making one of the best banking rooms in the city.

Two Properties Bring $100,000.

Two big deals in Twenty-first ward frontage have been closed, the properties being known as the Wilkins and the Zimmerman holdings. The former was bought by a business man for $55,000, the deal being made by J. B. Crooks. The property belonged to E. A. Wilkins and has a frontage of 400 feet in Susquehanna street, between Dallas and Murtland avenues, and a depth of from 71 to 150 feet to the Pennsylvania railroad. It is directly opposite the old plant of the National Lead Company. A switch runs into the plot from the Pennsylvania, and the purchaser, it is said, proposes to build a large warehouse at once.

The other deal amounted to $45,000 and was the sale to the Beechwood Improvement Company, Limited, of the Paul Zimmerman property. The plot faces 450 feet in Braddock avenue, 250 feet in Thomas street and has a frontage of 230 feet along the Pennsylvania tracks. It is vacant and well adapted for platting. Although no confirmation of the report could be obtained, it is believed that the purchase was made in the interest of William Flinn, and that the property will be laid out in another lot plan in the spring.

Bank Story Denied.

The story printed in a morning paper yesterday to the effect that a deal was on to transfer the Elsner & Phillips block at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street to the Union National bank for a consideration of $800,000 was denied by both the owners of the property and the officials of the bank. William Elsner, when seen yesterday, said that several weeks ago they were offered $900,000 for the property, and that an offer of $800,000 would not, of course, be considered under these circumstances. He also stated that he was not desirous of selling the property at the present time, further than any propositions from ambitious real estate brokers. Charles F. Dean, cashier of the Union National bank, said: "You may say, on the authority of the officials of this bank, that the rumor is absolutely without foundation. We have never made an offer for the property. The same rumor has been on the street several times before, but never had any basis of truth in it."

Printing Plant to Cost $40,000.

Architect F. C. Sauer is taking bids on the brick block which Frank McCann is to build for the Colonial Printing and Lithographing Company on the north side of Forbes street, near Craig street. The building will be one of the best beyond the "hump" and constructed especially strong for the uses of the occupants. It will measure 65x116 feet, is to be three stories high and cost about $40,000.

The United States Investment Company, Limited, has sold to Frank Torchia 14 houses on the southwest side of Kelly street, near Lang avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $17,000. The plot in which they stand measures 135x180 feet. The houses are five-room brick dwellings and were bought for an investment.

Thomas M. Porter has sold to George A. Richter a lot 25x100 feet each, on the north side of White street, near Marcella street, Thirteenth ward, for $22,400. The properties are all improved.

Philadelphian Said to Have Contract.

At the last meeting of the building committee several members were absent and they knew nothing about any award. The Rev. Father R. T. Canevin, rector of the cathedral, when seen said that no formal award had been made, as at the time of the last committee meeting the material for the cathedral had not been decided upon. ## SHOT AT BY PIRATES.

Capt. Harry Faitfield Had a Lively Experience a Few Days Ago.

River pirates shot at Capt. Harry Faitfield several days ago, and the plucky captain does not wish to have a similar experience. The shooting occurred at Ceredo, on the Ohio river. The captain was ordered by the river coal combination to land there and take a flat of coal which unknown persons had confiscated, when Fred Wilson made her spull at Twelve Pole. As he backed away from the shore with the flat some one opened fire and bullets flew around the pilot house of Faitfield's boat.

Riverman say that persons handy with a gun should not forget that Sidney Cole was sent to the penitentiary for 18 years for shooting at the steamer Keystone State, from the bank at Parkersburg, killing W. T. Terry, the boat's carpenter.

Automobilist Injured.

J. C. Wright, a member of the Allegheny Country club, had his left arm fractured and his head cut in an automobile accident on the Woods run high bridge yesterday morning. He is at the Allegheny General hospital. While crossing the bridge Wright discovered two cars entering the bridge from opposite sides. He feared his auto would be wedged between them and turned his machine toward the railing. Owing to the high speed at which he was running his auto was smashed and he was thrown out.

VERY ACTIVE DEMAND KEEPS PRICES FIRM

Fancy California Apricots Advancing—Sweet Potatoes Mantain Strong Position.

Lighter demand has brought about slightly easier conditions in the market for fruit, timothy has declined, potatoes are a little lower. Receipts of hay have been of a more satisfactory grading in the last few days, and offerings have been freer, with prices less stiff, although the market is still in good condition, with sellers showing no signs of real weakness. Straw is wanted but not arriving. Feed is in moderate receipt only, and prices are firm. Oats and corn hold their own without change of quotations, and the tone of the situation is strong.

Bearish conditions have rather had the upper hand in the wheat market for several days, and flour is perhaps a little easier than it was. There has been no actual change in prices, nor is it at all certain there will be any immediate decline in figures, but one may express the opinion that flour is higher now than it will be in the near future. Refined sugar is unchanged, with the demand improving. On the other hand yesterday the sales were larger than the average for the season.

Coffee is in demand and selling more freely than it did a month ago. Notwithstanding the large volume of Brazilian receipts, coffees there seems to be no falling off in demand for the genuine article, which is as largely used as ever, apparently. Reports of crop reports in Brazil are still of a varied character, rivals from the interior, but, notwithstanding this fact, the eastern markets for green are somewhat stronger than they were at the opening of the week, with more speculative interest shown.

Canned Goods Are Strong.

Canned goods maintain a strong position but prices are unchanged. A temporary weakness in the tomato market, occasioned by the unloading of some unsatisfactory stock, has been overcome, and the situation is now steady. Dried fruits are strong and active. Apricots are attracting considerable attention on account of their scarcity, especially for fancy, prices on the coast having been advanced nearly 2 cents a pound since the opening of the season.

Produce markets were all in good condition yesterday, the large Friday trade keeping quotations steady. Potatoes still rule at high quotations, and sweets are strong, lower grades advancing in price. Fresh tomatoes continue to range in price from $1.00 to $1 50 per bushel, according to quality. Grapes are coming in freely, Texas cows, $2 00@3 00; native cows, $1 50@4 00; heifers, $2 25@3 75; canners, $1 75@2 15; bulls, $1 80@3 25; calves, $2 00@6 00. # KIDNAPING IS DENIED BY WIFE

MRS. KERR FILES ANSWER

Says Husband's Cruel Treatment Drove Her Into a Sanitarium. Wants Her Son Brought Into Court.

Attorney Frank W. Smith filed answer yesterday for Rose C. Kerr in the habeas corpus proceeding brought against her by her husband, William A. Kerr, the contractor. A writ had been directed against Sarah D. Conway and Mrs. Kerr, requiring them to bring into court the children of the Kerrs, Mary, Naomi, Sarah and Marion, all of whom, it is claimed, are in the mother's possession. Kerr wishes to obtain the custody of the children, asserting that they were kidnaped.

Mrs. Kerr's answer says that she is a Catholic, and that prior to the marriage it was agreed in writing "that all of the children of either sex born of this marriage shall be baptized and educated in the faith and according to the teachings of the Roman Catholic church;" that after the third child, Marion, was born, William A. Kerr commenced ill-treatment of his wife; became addicted to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors and frequently returned home intoxicated, especially during the last two years they lived together.

It is charged that Kerr beat his wife, choked her and abused her in a most outrageous way.

Ordered Out of the House.

It is set forth that in March, 1899, three months after Mrs. Kerr had undergone a serious operation, her husband locked her in a room, knocked her down and kicked her. It is alleged that in July, 1899, Kerr threw his wife down, bumped her head on the floor, blackened her eyes and made her nose bleed.

It is set forth that it was a frequent occurrence for Kerr to beat his wife.

On March 16, 1901, Kerr applied for a divorce from his wife, and they lived together about one week after that, when Kerr ordered the respondent out of the house. She says she went to St. Francis' hospital and remained there until April 15, 1901, when she went to a sanitarium.

Took Sick Child Away.

Mrs. Kerr states that her mother, Mrs. Sarah D. Conway, was left in charge of the children, and that shortly afterward Kerr, with his mother, aunt and cousin, went to the house where the children were and took possession of them, after ordering Mrs. Conway out. He refused to allow Mrs. Conway to see them, but after the return of Mrs. Kerr from the sanitarium, an arrangement was made whereby the children were to visit their mother every alternate week and that every other week she would be permitted to see them at Kerr's home.

The youngest child became ill and Kerr's mother notified Mrs. Kerr to take the child away. Mrs. Kerr took Marion and has cared for her since.

It was alleged also that Kerr beat and abused Sarah in a brutal manner; that information was made against him, and that Kerr was fined $10 and costs. After the hearing Mrs. Kerr took Sarah to her own home.

The respondent acknowledges that she discovered two of the children were in the custody of a Mrs. Christy, in Beaver county, and that on October 8 last she took them to her own home. It is alleged that William G. Kerr, another of the children, was secreted by his father, who, it is said, is totally unfit to have the care of his children.

Mrs. Kerr says she is living with her mother and uncle, and is financially well able to care for the children. She asks that her husband be ordered to produce her son in court and begs to be given the custody of the child.

MRS. WILKINS RELEASED.

Court Suspends Sentence on Condition That She Cure Herself of Morphine Habit.

Mrs. Ida Wilkins, who was convicted of manslaughter for killing her husband, William Denny Wilkins, on September 10 last, while he was attempting to prevent her from shooting herself, was brought before Judge E. H. Stowe yesterday and permitted to go home with her two sisters. The sentence in her case was suspended on condition that she cure herself of the morphine habit, which was the cause of her deranged mental condition when the tragedy occurred. One of the sisters lives in Greensburg and the other in Altoona.

The order of the court placed the woman in her sisters' hands for treatment, and it stated that at the expiration of six months, unless she reformed, she would have to appear for sentence in the case.

In speaking of the circumstances surrounding the death of her husband, and the causes that led up to the habit she had formed, Mrs. Wilkins said that her husband had been utterly helpless for nine long years, and he never made a move but that she was at his side to help him. Her devotion caused her physical condition to become almost as bad as his, and morphine was prescribed by a physician to give her rest. The subsequent evil effects of the drug undermined her nervous system and she was impelled to kill herself. Two days before her husband was killed she told him of her intentions, and the night preceding his death neither one slept, as he tried to encourage her and have her give up her notion of suicide.

Her condition has been improved greatly since her confinement in jail.

PROMOTER IN TROUBLE.

W. C. O'Reilly Is Charged With False Pretense in Securing Transfers of Stock.

W. C. O'Reilly, at one time an employe of the National Tube Company, was tried yesterday in criminal court on a charge of false pretense, made by William B. Rhoades. The jury is out.

O'Reilly organized the Eagle Transfer Company, and among the stockholders were Rhoades and William H. Latshaw, each of whom subscribed for $3,000 worth of the stock. The business improved, and on July 8 last, it was charged, O'Reilly asked Rhoades to sell him his stock for the sum he had paid for it. Rhoades, when on the stand, swore that O'Reilly declared Latshaw intended to sell him his stock for that amount, and that Rhoades, relying on the statement, transferred the stock to O'Reilly. The prosecutor said that he discovered Latshaw had not transferred his stock, and offered to return the check to O'Reilly, but he refused to accept it.

O'Reilly testified that Rhoades said he would sell the stock if Latshaw would, and that Latshaw said he would sell, but later said he would not do so for the sum offered. Latshaw corroborated O'Reilly's testimony.

Next Week's Trial Lists.

The September term grand jury will reconvene on Monday and resume its work, after several weeks' recess. At present there are about 135 prisoners in jail waiting on the action of the grand jury and these cases, after being passed upon, will be the first to be taken up for trial.

Criminal court trial list for next week: Monday—Commonwealth vs. M. E. Hartigan, P. W. J. Cliffoyle et al. Tuesday—Emmet Starr et al (2), David Lowenstein, J. S. Hartzell (2), Nicholas Martin (2). Thursday—Martha Pringle.

Poles Take an Appeal.

Matt Mathias and 10 other Poles, by Attorney William M. Price, yesterday took appeals from a decision of Alderman Coursin of McKeesport. The alderman is accused of having unlawfully collected $499 25 as the result of a Polish row at Duquesne, and then taking a trip to Mt. Clemens.

New Method of Reform.

Richard Beatty, a business man of the East End, who was under suspension of sentence for the passing of counterfeit money, was committed to jail yesterday by Judge Buffington for an indefinite period. Beatty was convicted seven years ago for having some of the "queer" on his person. He was drinking at the time and sentence was suspended because of his promised reformation. It is said he began drinking heavily again recently and that the commitment was made at the request of his friends to sober him up.

Desertion and Surety Cases.

The following desertion and surety of the peace cases will be heard today in criminal court: Commonwealth vs. James Fleck, Joseph McClelland, Albert Nickolas, Stella Mellwaine, Randolph A. Douglass, Peter Tepper, Stephen Brown, Kate Larimer, Jennie McElroy, Henry Schadel, Earl Banks, August Ludwig.

MERCHANTS WANT THEIR OWN LIGHT

Diamond Light Co. Will Take Substantial Patronage from Philadelphia Co.

The Diamond Light Company, formed by about a dozen of the downtown merchants to supply their own places of business and others in the downtown district with electric light, is having its power plant erected in Diamond street, immediately back of the Merchants and Manufacturers National bank, at No. 217 Fourth avenue. Operation of the company will remove from the patrons of the Allegheny County Light Company an important contingent of its patrons in the downtown district.

The plant is to be equipped ultimately, it is said, with sufficient facilities for supplying 10,000 incandescent lamps of 16-candle power or their equivalent. At first the plant will be equipped for a lesser business. The building being erected will be about 30x60 feet.

G. E. Turner, president of the Keystone Engineering Company, is president of the Diamond Light Company and James W. Cheswright of Joseph Fleming & Son, druggists, is secretary and treasurer.

RAILWAY CLUB CELEBRATES A YEAR OF REMARKABLE GROWTH

A year of growth and successful work never before equaled by a similar organization was celebrated by the Railway club of Pittsburgh last night at the Hotel Henry, when the first annual meeting was held. The meeting took the form of a "smoker" with a luncheon. Reports of the year were made and officers elected. Addresses were delivered by Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, and by George A. Post, president of the Standard Coupler Company of New York.

J. H. MCCONNELL,

Re-elected president of the Railway club of Pittsburgh. He is manager of the Pittsburgh works of the American Locomotive Company.

Evidently the administration of the officers of the past year was popular, for all were re-elected for another year. These officers are: President, J. H. McConnell, manager of the Pittsburgh works of the American Locomotive Company; vice president, L. H. Turner, superintendent of motive power of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, secretary, J. D. Conway, chief clerk in the motive power department of the Lake Erie; treasurer, J. D. McIlwain, president of J. D. McIlwain & Co., Pittsburgh. The members of the executive committee, also re-elected, are D. F. Crawford, superintendent of motive power of the Ft. Wayne; J. E. Simons, treasurer of the Hunt Foundry & Machine Company of New Kensington, and F. T. Hyndman, master mechanic of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh shops at Dubois, Pa.

J. D. CONWAY,

Re-elected secretary of the Railway club of Pittsburgh. He is chief clerk in the motive power department of the Lake Erie.

Although but one year since the club was formed a membership of 273 was shown. This was increased at last night's meeting by 38, giving a total of 311. One member, Aaron French, president of the A. French Spring Company, died during the year. The books of the treasurer showed that the club has received during the year almost $2,000, and that a net balance of over $700 stands to its credit.

The affair of last night was in charge of a committee composed of L. H. Turner, J. D. McIlwain, J. L. Hukill, Robert A. Bole and John T. Brown.

More Than an Engine a Mile.

Over 200 engines for 178 miles of road is the record the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie will have made when the 1903 orders for motive power are filled. There will be 50 engines added to the "Little Giant's" equipment the coming year as well as 1,000 steel cars and 10 new passenger cars. No other railroad of the same length in the country is so well supplied with equipment of this class.

HOOD SAYS ELK CREEK.

Jones & Laughlin Agent Claims Cowles Creek Is Too Small.

A Youngstown telegram credits Frank E. Hood, of that city, with the statement that Elk Creek will be the harbor of the proposed Jones & Laughlin line from Pittsburgh to the lakes. Mr. Hood has been the agent of Jones & Laughlin in the land purchases. Cowles Creek was considered and land was bought there, he says, but it was found less suited to the purpose than Elk Creek.

The Mellons have obtained control of all the land at Elk harbor, hence it would appear they are interested in this line. It is thought generally among railroad men that the Erie railroad is in this plan, and that the interest of H. C. Frick in the matter will appear sooner or later.

So far as is known now the plans of the Wabash for a lake line from Lisbon, O., are entirely separate. To all appearances the Wabash is going it alone in this project.

WAITS ON LAW SUIT.

Settlement of $1,000,000 Case Will Allow the Vandalia's Absorption.

The report is again revived that the Vandalia will soon become an integral part of the Pennsylvania system, its identity, financially and in operation, being lost. The delay in this has been caused by a $1,000,000 suit against the road, by the state of Indiana, over an alleged failure to pay what was due to a school fund. This suit has hung fire for a long time. Its settlement will allow the work of placing the Vandalia line in its natural relation to the system to be carried out.

The main line of the Vandalia, running from Indianapolis to St. Louis, is that used by the Panhandle. One portion of the road has been operated at a loss for years, and there is said to be little hope of its ever improving.

ROBERTS NOW PRESIDENT.

Goes With Marietta, Columbus & Cleveland Instead of Little Kanawha.

The truth in the report that D. I. Roberts has been made president of a Gould line came to light yesterday, when it developed that the Marietta, Columbus & Cleveland road is the line. It had been previously asserted that he was to be president of the Little Kanawha.

The Marietta, Columbus & Cleveland is a line of 45 miles, running from Marietta to Palos, O. It has just been absorbed by the Gould interests as a part of their eastern lines. Mr. Roberts has been made general manager as well as president. He is a native of Washington, Pa., and was widely known as general passenger agent of the Erie railroad for many years.

W. W. Dunnavant Captures Bankers.

W. W. Dunnavant, traveling passenger agent of the Queen & Crescent, with headquarters at Cleveland, came to Pittsburgh yesterday and contracted to carry the Pittsburgh bankers going to the coming convention of the American Bankers' association at New Orleans. The party will leave Pittsburgh over the Panhandle on November 8 and have special service on that line and on the Queen & Crescent. Mr. Dunnavant has already contracted with similar parties from Ohio and Michigan.

Hard to Get Railroad Laborers.

Much difficulty is being experienced by contractors on the new Wabash line in securing laborers. According to the statement of one of these contractors, the matter of securing the best kind of men, in large enough numbers to accomplish the best work, seems practically impossible, although the best wages for that class of labor are offered.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Fred H. Tristram, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash railroad, is making a trip over the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

The Pennsylvania railroad has just completed a 50,000,000 gallon reservoir near Bellwood, Pa., on the main line. It will supply the great Juniata shops at Altoona, as well as the engines on the road.

E. M. Pomeroy, agent of the Pennsylvania lines at San Francisco, has been in Pittsburgh for a day or two in consultation with the general officials here.

The appointment of D. H. Maloney as commercial agent of the Rock Island at Pittsburgh will be effective November 1. He comes to Pittsburgh from Cleveland, where he has held the same title with the same company. G. W. Tare succeeds him at Cleveland.

General Passenger Agent L. A. Robison, of the Lake Erie, announced yesterday that arrangements have been made with the Pullman Company to place buffet sleepers, instead of the regulation sleepers, on the Boston special.

"LIKE RATS IN A HOLE."

American Missionaries in Critical Position in Morocco.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The English missionary, Cooper, who was murdered at Fez, Morocco, recently, had a wife and two children there and considerable apprehension exists as to their fate, as well as that of four other women missionaries. It is known there has been a considerable recrudescence of anti-foreign feeling.

Letters from the Kansas mission of Mequinez, composed of 12 Americans, describe the situation as critical. These missionaries say they are shut up "like rats in a hole." More recent telegrams from Mequinez, however, indicate that the rising of the Berber tribes has been suppressed.

A Corset Claim That Means Much.

Time was when we looked to France for the latest and best ideas in stays. But the American corset-makers took all the points they could from Paris, and are now producing corsets which American women prefer to the importations.

The Kalamazoo (Michigan) Corset Co., who make the "F. C." and "American Beauty" Corsets, which we are introducing in Pittsburgh, put forth the claim that no other corset in the market produces so narrow an abdominal effect. Doubtless, this is the secret of the sudden success of the "F. C." and "American Beauty."

These splendid corsets come in three qualities:

At $1—in coutil, white and drab, edged with satin, the best steels and every evidence of careful finish.

At $1.50—the same corsets in a finer quality of materials.

At $2.00—in Italian cloth, edged with English lace-ribbon drawn, and all the little niceties of finish.

A young woman from Michigan, who is an expert in corset details, will be at our store until Christmas to tell you all about the "F. C." and the "American Beauty."

Time To Choose A Trimmed Hat.

The close of the "Exposition" marks the end of the season when the ready-to-wear hat is in strictly good form for the more pretentious social functions.

Select a trimmed hat today for church wear tomorrow, and be ready for the season to wear showy millinery.

Diversified as the fair faces you see on the street are the velvet and chenille and felt and ostrich trimmed hats displayed on our tables and shown in our glass cases. This one has a dainty dash, that one a subdued air, the next one a modest mien, while over in the corner is a big flare hat that seems to say, "I'm going to the New York Horse Show." Each one has some distinct trait—some predominant characteristic—some personal quality.

And this is equally true of our $5 hats—our $10 hats, and the most elaborate triumphs of millinery art marked $25 and $30.

Whatever your buying intentions, come to our store to get the right idea of correct styles.
